GIRL'S SLAYER HUNTED IN UNDERWORLD

Today

Crime Marches On.
The Gold Puzzle.
50 Cent Dollars?
Russia Comes in Style.
—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WE HAVE committees to suppress crime and gangs, one, established by the federal government, Senator Copeland, of New York, at its head, and every big and little city, town and village has its police force.

But crime goes ahead, paying no attention, well organized, using "automatics" and machine guns, as calmly as doctors write out prescriptions.

CAMDEN, New Jersey, reports:

"Gangsters stood two men against trees on the edge of the city today and coolly pumped bullets into them. One was killed, the other is dying."

The police are seaching for two women friends of the victims, believing that they, too, have been slain to seal their lips.

"They knew too much."

Police rarely solve a murder mystery when they find no motive for the crime. Sometimes they don't want to solve it.

GOLD PRICES climb higher and higher. When we went off the gold basis gold was $20 and some cents an ounce. Yesterday the price was above $32. This doesn't mean that gold is worth more, only that our dollar is worth less.

The dollar being worth about sixty-four cents, a $1,000 American bond, formerly payable in gold, now payable in paper, is worth in the world's markets about $640.

OUR GOVERNMENT'S attitude toward money reminds you of the kind-hearted gentleman who hadn't the heart to cut off his dog's tail all at once, and cut off half an inch every day.

That is what the government is doing to the dollar. First, we went off the gold basis, next we took gold from anybody that had it in this country. Then we began buying gold with paper dollars, but "only new gold, mined in the United States."

Then we changed that to read, "any kind of gold mined anywhere," and we are competing with England, buying gold with paper money.

WASHINGTON believes that the final step will be a frank "devaluation of the dollar," making it permanently worth fifty cents, instead of 100 cents.

That is important to those that HAVE dollars, and even more important to those that OWE dollars. To cut in half the value of the dollar, which may happen, would make the dollar worth half as much, good property worth twice as many dollars, and cut debts in half.

The French did it more drastically, reducing the franc value from above 19 cents to below 4 cents, as though we should cut the value of our dollar from one hundred cents to below twenty cents.

The British knew what that meant when France paid them in four-cent francs for bonds that the British had bought with francs worth nineteen cents each.

Whether you have dollars or owe dollars, this fifty-cent dollar proposition interests you.

RUSSIA IS the land of the proletariat. Stalin, boss of the whole place, wears a worker's smock like any other comrade, and eats the simplest food. But when Russia sends Litvinoff to talk to the "biggest of capitalistic nations," meaning this one, the Russian travels in style.

Litvinoff, coming here on the Berengaria, occupies the "imperial suite," a sitting room, two bedrooms, two baths, a breakfast room, a private promenade and a trunk room.

The curious thing is that the Russian proletarian, standing in line for his supply of food, will like Litvinoff to travel in that way. Little people like their big people to do things in a big way.

NIKOLA TESLA thinks he has discovered a principle that will make possible "harnessing cosmic power" to provide the world with energy, eliminating use of coal, oil, gas.

Mr. Tesla has rendered practical service to science, but it isn't likely that he will "harness cosmic power" on any "commercial basis," to put it mildly.

Things do not happen so suddenly. Men walked, then rode on tame buffaloes, built ox carts, stage coaches, locomotives, automobiles, flying machines. They did not hop from the tame buffalo to the flying machine.

They will not hop from coal to cosmic power. In days to come they will doubtless harness tides and the sun's power, making energy as plentiful as water or air. To do that now would be a calamity; men are not ready for it.

"Cosmic power" exists, doubtless, and the ocean holds in solution enough gold to make that metal cheaper than copper, but you can't get it out.

NATURE IS patient, fortunately for William Murray, of Philadelphia. A Florida beer shop, which should know better offers, free of charge, a glass holding eighty ounces, five pints, of beer, free to anyone who will drain it in three minutes.

Murray heard of the offer, after he had already absorbed five glasses of beer, and poured down the big glass in forty-five seconds, free of charge, then drank and paid for another t ounce glass.

When you consider that the human stomach, normal, not abused, or over-distended, holds about one pint, you realize w t abuse nature can stand, when one man swallows five pints of beer in forty-five seconds.

THE PHILADELPHIA gentleman's accomplishment was feeble compared to others. A

DR. WOODFIN TO LEAVE CITY

Resignation as Pastor Of Third U. P. Church Accepted

The Rev. Dr. William M. Woodfin is leaving his turbulent pastorate of the fashionable Third United Presbyterian Church and the city of Pittsburgh for the sunny climes of Florida.

The formal resignation of his 10-year pastorate was accepted at a congregational meeting last night. Six months' salary was voted Dr. Woodfin.

The former crusading Homestead minister told his parishioners:

"I leave you with no bitterness, only love in my heart. My pastoral duties cease tomorrow. My household goods are being moved from my home, which I have rented. I will preach next Sabbath in a church near New York. We will spend the winter at St. Petersburg. If you are down that way, drop in and see us."

CONGRATULATES PASTOR

The Rev. Dr. James M. McQuilkin, of Carnegie, moderator of the meeting, congratulated Dr. Woodfin on "the fine and generous spirit" he manifested in tendering his resignation.

The dove of peace seemed about to settle over the troubled congregation when Charles M. Christler, an elder, presented a resolution citing Dr. Woodfin's accomplishments as pastor.

This alluded to Dr. Woodfin's "outstanding preaching" his fidelity to the Gospel message and historic Christianity," the expansion of missionary work under his pastorate; stated that he had "won a place in the hearts of the people which will be difficult to fill" and finally expressed the "love and devotion" of the Third Church for its departing pastor.

When a lusty chorus of "Noes" arose, Moderator McQuilkin asked for a rising vote. It appeared that the resolution was adopted by about a 3 to 2 vote.

A committee consisting of R. G. Deevers, Mrs. J. B. Hill and John Floyd, was named to notify the Actresses Lose Undies As New York Socialites Play at 'Scavengering'

Autographer

MARILYN MILLER

Miss Miller, the actress, one of several whose lingerie, autographed, showed up in the "loot" of a new game, "Scavenger," played in New York.

Goat, Monks, Duck Also Among Loot Of Gallant '400'

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Sixty-two men and women, all of them eminent in New York society, slept late today to recover from the rigors of the city's first "scavengering," in which they underwent all sorts of suffering to collect such items as hairs from Kermit Roosevelt's moustache and the underthings of actresses.

In case you haven't heard, "scavengering" is a patrician pastime which threatens to succeed the treasure hunt, so long employed by sporting groups to get in other folks' way.

The "scavenger hunt" began last night in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. It ended in the same place in the little hours of the morning.

Out on the sidewalks of New York dashed the gallant "400," the light of conquest in their eyes, a list of things to get in their hands.

There were 24 items on the list and these were some of them:

A live goat (non-political.)
A hair from Kermit Roosevelt's moustache.
A lighted red lantern.
A live monkey.
The autographed bodice or "step-in" of one of New York's most popular and well-known actresses.

Thirty-one couples—the "scavengers" hunted in pairs—returned to the grand ballroom with their loot. The effects of their activities were widespread.

Several of the Rialto's notables were minus certain essential bits of clothing. Red lanterns were gone from various places where red lights are useful.

Kermit Roosevelt's moustache was as lush as ever. Forewarned, he had provided himself with numerous artificial hairs which he unstintingly distributed to the searchers.

The autographed lingerie of Marilyn Miller, Hope Williams, Pola Negri and Cornelia Otis Skinner were brought into the ballroom.

There were many turtles, two monkeys, some parrots, a chicken, a duck and a toucan, a South American bird that is mostly beak and not much bird.

A goat also tripped over the polished floors of the Waldorf but she wasn't impressed. She was "Mammay," veteran trouper who has appeared on stages from coast to coast.

The winning pairs were Mrs. Harry Graham and Robert Stevens, and Mrs. J. C. Waterbury and Nicholas Holmsen. They split a prize of $500.

The judges were George Gershwin, Gene Tunney, Louis Bromfield, the Marquis de Polignac and Charles Hayden.

It was all done in the interest of the Maternity Center Association, which got the proceeds from the entry fees.

The generalissimo of the "scavenger hunt" was Miss Ella Maxwell, who introduced the sport in Paris.

Miss Maxwell had this to say about New York's elite as scavengers:

"Most resourceful, determined and daring. I saw nothing like it in Paris. Scavengering reached a new level."

U. S. PLANS DEBT SILVER CURRENCY

Metal Received From Europe Will Back Issue

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—The treasury may soon issue $11,000,000 in silver certificates backed by silver received in last June's war debt payments.

The Thomas amendment to the farm law, which authorized acceptance of debt payments in this medium, required that the silver thus received be made the backing for an issue of certificates.

The process of assaying the metal received has just been completed.

The next step would be the engraving of the certificates.

Treasury officials denied today that this could be considered inflationary, as the certificates will be used in the normal course of business to replace other forms of currency as they are turned in at the Treasury for redemption.

There was no statement as yet as to what denominations the certificates would be.

The silver was accepted from the debtor nations at the rate of 50 cents for an ounce, and the total value taken in at this level ran slightly in excess of $11,000,000.

Lump Sum Token Payment Offered By Britain

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—(INS.)—The foundation upon which the British-American debt discussions are to be continued was reliably reported today to consist of a proposition whereby Britain would make a "lump sum token payment" covering the next three or four years.

Further debt payments and negotiations would be suspended for such a period, thus affording a breathing spell in which world economic conditions, and particularly American domestic conditions, might be expected to improve.

The question could then be taken up for re-examination in the light of new conditions.

Various figures have been suggested for this "lump sum token payment," most of them in the neighborhood of $75,000,000, ap-

A Debtor's Honor

"UNCREDITWORTHY BORROWERS," a phrase used by Sir Arthur Samuel, former financial secretary to the British treasury, in a recent speech at Cambridge, England, supplies a new and serviceable description for governments which default on their obligations.

The former Secretary to the Treasury was assailing all defaulting nations.

"Unjustifiable debts incurred by uncreditworthy borrowers," he said, "are a principal cause of the partial collapse of the civilized world's economic structure."

IT WOULD BE INTERESTING to ascertain from this spokesman for Great Britain JUST WHEN a borrowing nation becomes "uncreditworthy" and its debt "unjustifiable."

Was the debt which Great Britain incurred to the United States, in the opinion of Sir Arthur Samuel, a "justifiable debt" in contrast to the debts of Germany, Rumania, and the South American borrowers from Great Britain which have defaulted?

What is there to distinguish England's default on a debt from that of the nations whom her spokesman denounces as "uncreditworthy"?

Certainly, the payment in the course of 15 years, of only four per cent on a debt of four to five billion dollars, the amount of England's debt to the United States, is not what would be called a substantial payment. It hardly lifts the debt out of the position of a defaulted obligation.

A nation with so poor a record in the discharge of a debt can hardly regard itself as having "justified" its creditor in the making of the loan.

WE KNOW NO OTHER definition of credit than the good repute that arises from the prompt payment of an obligation as it falls due, and the consistent maintenance of the attitude of an honest debtor, solicitous to discharge his debt, pending its complete discharge.

Can "creditworthiness" be anything else? And if so, does England maintain, or will Sir Arthur Samuel insist, that his country is creditworthy—however savagely he may assail other nations for defaulting in the payment of their debts?

"The cold, selfish disregard of their post-war contractual obligations by the Prusso-German authorities," said Sir Arthur Samuel, "when they imposed the terms of the transfer moratorium UPON THOSE WHO HAD TRUSTED TO THEIR PLEDGED FAITH, HAS SHOCKED ALL HONEST MEN.

"We have intrusted untold millions of our savings to South America. Nearly every nation in South America, except Argentina and Venezuela, has defaulted."

THE UNITED STATES intrusted NOT MILLIONS but BILLIONS to the "pledged faith" of Great Britain.

The obligation to repay it was not a "POST-WAR contractual" promise. It was something far more impressive and binding. It was a war-time contract. Our loans were made to England not as post-war engagements of commerce and investment. They were made to save her when her back was against the wall, when she was girt about by foes and dangers, when panic had seized her people, when her survival as a nation was uncertain.

If the binding force of obligations is to be weighed by comparing one debt with another,—if the character of a promise is to be gauged and rated according to the borrower's need and the lender's trust, it might reasonably be contended that there is not a debt in the world, by whomever owed, which ranks in sacredness and binding force with the debt of England to the United States.

Nor, we might add, as long as England persists in the endeavor to shift the burden of her debts to the backs of her creditors, and continues her desperate efforts to postpone and reduce all payments which she cannot evade, will the world be influenced by criticism from England, not to say denunciation, of any other defaulter among the nations.

VERONA MAN HELD FOR INQUIRY

Bloody Shirt Dropped As Clue in Sewer Murder Probe

Into the underworld homicide detectives moved today to find the slayers of Katherine (Boots) Brown.

"Guys and dolls" of the various rackets, especially in East Liberty, were questioned for clues which might lead to the killers of the dark-haired 22-year-old bride of six months who was finally identified yesterday after thousands of curious had viewed her body in the Morgue.

Held for questioning was Walter Neff, 26, of Verona, on a suspicious person charge. County Detective Samuel Wisner said he had questioned Neff at 3 a. m. today and that Neff was en route to the Courthouse for further questioning when the city detectives took him.

Inspector Frank R. Boyd, of the city detectives, said that Neff was a son-in-law of Wisner's.

Boyd added that he did not believe Neff was in any way connected with the murder plot but that:

"He knows a whole lot about it."

Neff said he had talked with "Boots" for five minutes last Wednesday in an East Liberty restaurant, Boyd reported.

The bloodstained shirt found along the Freeport road above Aspinwall was abandoned as a clue after county detectives had questioned three young men from New Kensington. The shirt, it developed, was bloodied in a fist fight which developed at a nearby roller-skating rink.

The girl was identified by a score or more friends not only as Katherine (Boots) Brown, a waitress, but as the girl who married Nick Palladino, East Liberty character, last May 12, in Alderman Mike De Rosa's office.

MINERS TO SEE ROOSEVELT

The coal strike in Western Pennsylvania mines saw these developments today:

1—A delegation of eight union miners, led by Martin Ryan, representing striking workers in Fayette County's captive mines, will see President Roosevelt tomorrow, ask for a "fair deal" and union recognition.

2—Miners in Washington and Allegheny counties—3,000 of them—were reported to have voted to return to work if guaranteed there will be no discrimination.

3—Thomas Moses, H. C. Frick Coke Company head, declared his company's mines would not reopen yet.

Martin Ryan, fiery insurgent of the United Mine Workers of America in the "captive" mine fields, and President William Hynes, of the Union's District No. 4, embracing the Fayette County mining region, have a date with President Roosevelt for tomorrow.

They and six others will leave late tonight or early tomorrow morning for Washington, D. C., where they will see the President by appointment tomorrow afternoon, according to Philip Murray, international vice president of the union.

Meanwhile, their fellows in the

M'DADE MOVIE THEATER SOLD

The curtain fell today on movie activities of Edward McDade, 24, at liberty under bond in connection with a fatal leap by his wife, Grace, from their automobile two weeks ago.

His fixtures in the Elliott Theater, Lorenz avenue, were sold at constable's sale today for nonpayment of rent. Constable H. W. Alberte auctioned off two projectors, two sound machines and a stage curtain to M. A. Markley, New Castle, for $350. McDade was present.

HEAT SETS NEW RECORD HERE

Maybe it's Indian summer and maybe not.

At any rate the mercury topped all records for this date when it reached 78 this afternoon, and threatened to equal the all-November heat mark of 79 reached November 1, 1876.

The peak yesterday was 75.

The present record for this date is 74, hung up in 1876 and 1894. Rain is due to reach this region tonight followed by much colder weather tomorrow night.

Lower temperatures prevailed in the plains states today, while zero was noted in the Canadian Northwest.

Herron Meets Students' Query: 'Is Coyne Boss?'

Is State Senator James J. Coyne the boss of the Republican party?

Mayor John S. Herron, Republican nominee for the mayoralty, faced this question among many others at a student activities meeting of Pitt students today in Alumni Hall.

And this was the Mayor's answer:

"It all depends on what you call a boss. He is very prominent."

The Mayor stood up under a rapid fire of queries put by the students. Some of the questions and answers:

Q.—Are disorderly houses in the Hill district operating with the consent of the Mayor and police?

A.—They are not. We will correct any condition reported to us immediately. We have stopped collusion between police and the underworld. Nobody to our knowledge is paying for protection, but you can't get 100 per cent perfection.

Q.—Why couldn't the police have closed the Monaca Club?

A.—I was not Mayor at the time, but a few minutes after I became Mayor I closed the Bachelor Club.

Q.—Wouldn't it be possible to get a greater extension of civil service?

A.—Civil service looks to be a very splendid thing on the surface, but it has been abused terribly. We must apply good common sense in its use.

Q.—What do you know about the messengers delivering McNair pamphlets?

A.—I called up the magistrate and told him I thought he had done a very foolish thing and that the men should be let off, just as I called up the magistrate and told him the Pitt students should be let off. I understand your Chancellor Bowman is getting the blame for that.

STILL IN RACE, LINDSAY SAYS

Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay last night tossed a new and unsettling factor into the Common Pleas Court campaign when he asked his friends to vote for him on either the Square Deal, Independent or Prohibition tickets, on all of which he has nominations.

Mr. Lindsay was defeated for nomination in the Republican and Democratic primaries, and it was thought that he had abandoned any effort to procure votes in the general election.

His plea of last night, together with his bristling attack on Judge Ralph H. Smith, a candidate; District Attorney Andrew T. Park, and County Commissioners Charles C. McGovern and William D. Mansfield changes the picture.

In addition to Judge Smith, Judge Harry H. Rowand is running as a Republican, A. Marshall Thompson and John J. Kennedy as Democrats, and Judge M. A. Musmanno on both tickets, for the three places to be filled on Common Pleas bench.

CHARGES DEALS

Lindsay minced no words in charging there had been deals involving the District Attorney.

Man Begrudged Baby Bed Space, Wife Says

Mrs. Ruth Thornton, of 412 Western avenue, Aspinwall, testified in her divorce suit against Charles W. Thornton, of Harrisburg, today, that he didn't want to give up room in the bed for the baby, and was angry when he was put out.

The wife alleges cruelty. Because she is a minor the action was brought in her behalf by her mother, Mrs. Rebecca McIntyre. They were married September 3, 1930.

Settlement Hinted In McCormick Balm

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—(INS.)—An out of court settlement, it was reported today, is in prospect in the $1,500,000 breach of promise suit filed by Mrs. Rhoda T. Doubleday, New York social registerite, against Harold F. McCormick, millionaire harvester magnate.

Reports of a settlement were given fresh vigor when it was learned that a conference of opposing counsel had been arranged in New York.

Ralph Munn, director of Carnegie Libraries, last year started a help-yourself system at the Oakland library.

ROOSEVELT TO SEE 'CAPTIVE' MINE DELEGATION TOMORROW

DEMAND PLEDGE THAT UNION BE RECOGNIZED

Delegation Ready to Go to Washington With Plea

coke region will remain on holiday.

Hynes and Ryan want the President to tell them they'll get a "square deal" and recognition of the union from the "captive" mines.

All that was needed to end the two-month old controversy centering around the operations of the H. C. Frick Coke Company and affecting nearly 20,000 leaders of the strike said, was that personal assurance.

So long as there is any doubt in the minds of the miners themselves concerning recognition there will be no return to work their leaders insist.

AUDIENCE SOUGHT

Hynes, late yesterday, communicated with Washington in an attempt to arrange the interview for his committee of eight chosen at yesterday's meeting of representatives from 64 locals in Fayette, Washington and Greene counties.

The H. C. Frick Coke Company announced it would not attempt to reopen its mines until assured of the protection of its workers. The announcement was made by Thomas Moses, president, and no further orders were received at the mines here.

Meanwhile the feud between United Mine Workers and the Miners Independent Brotherhood broke out in three spots yesterday. Members of the so-called company union swore to nearly a score of informations charging members of the United Mine Workers with various offenses, and 21 men and boys were lodged in the county jail.

A flurry of excitement occurred late yesterday at Bitner, an outlying mining community of the company's Colonial No. 1 mine, when Constable E. B. Provance and Deputy Sheriff Joe Sansone arrived with warrants for five men and five boys. Wives and mothers gathered with their children, complaining to the officers and yelling derision at six members of the Brotherhood who had sworn to the informations in Alderman Matt Allen's office in Uniontown.

ATTACKS WORKER

The wife of one of the men arrested, holding her 2-year-old baby in her arms, struck one of the complainants. She was Mrs. Anna Garcy, wife of John Garcy, a union member charged with surety of the peace and felonious assault by James M. Bowlin, Brotherhood member. Bowlin fled, and Mrs. Garcy stooped to throw a stone, but was warned by Constable Provance.

Among those arrested at Bitner were five boys, accused of hurling bricks and threatening Haley Ramsey, a Brotherhood miner. The alleged attack occurred Halloween night. The boys, ranging in age from 15 to 17, were lodged in the county jail along with the men.

Three other miners, charged with riot, inciting to riot with intent to kill, aggravated assault and battery and pointing firearms, were arrested at Footedale, the result of a month-old flareup in the community. Eight union men arrested at Colonial No. 3 mine were alleged to have participated in a disturbance at that place more than a month ago.

One man was stabbed and another shot at Smock last night, due, according to state police, to an argument over picketing.

James Celanr, 45, and John Angelina, both of Smock, went to the home of Paul Angelo, 33, also of Smock, according to the state police report, and Celanr, it is alleged, complained about Angelo failing to report for picket duty. Celanr, it was said, pulled a knife and stabbed Angelo, who drew a gun and shot Celanr in the arm. Both men were taken to Uniontown Hospital.

VOTE TO RETURN

While President Thomas Moses announced last night that no decision to reopen the Frick mines has been made, and that "we want to be fair," union meetings were held in District No. 5 P. T. Fagan president of the United Mine Workers in the district, which comprises Allegheny and part of Washington County, and William J. Patton, vice president, spoke to 3,000 men. Fagan reported that all but two at Richeyville voted to go back to work, if assured there would be no discrimination, and that fair elections would be held under the NRA. Fagan said that others voting to return were 500 at Harmarville, 400 at Russelton, 200 at Indianola and 2,000 in the Ellsworth, Cokeburg and Marianna mines of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

Bethlehem miners asked the personal assurance of James H. McCune, general superintendent of the Bethlehem mines, that the President's pact would be strictly observed. He promised an answer today.

Bail for Borich In Deportation Suit

Frank Borich, secretary of the National Miners Union, today won freedom from jail in his fight against deportation. He was released on $5,000 bond with the consent of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, which stipulated that Borich must report in one week on progress made in his contemplated appeal to the Supreme Court. He had been in jail a week.

MINIMUM COAL PRICES SET

A schedule of minimum coal prices for Western Pennsylvania for November has been approved by Frank Haas, technical adviser on coal to the NRA in Washington. The list is practically unchanged from October.

The prices have been sent to all operators in this district by the Code Authority of Western Pennsylvania. They apply to small truck mines as well as large rail operations.

Under the coal code a new list of prices for all districts is to be published at the first of each month.

Minimum prices now in effect on run-of-mine coal in various districts follow: Butler-Mercer district, $2 per ton for Kittanning seam and $1.85 for Freeport and Brookville seams; Conemaugh district, $1.80; Connellsville coking coal, $2, $1.90 and $1.80; Connellsville-Point Marion steam coal, $1.65 for Pittsburgh seam, $1.55 for Freeport and Sewickley seams; Greensburg district, $2 and $1.80; Panhandle district, $1.90 and $1.80; Thick Freeport district, $2 and $1.90; Youghiogheny-Westmoreland district, $2.20, $2.10, $2, $1.90 and $1.80; Ligonier district, $1.75 and Avella district, $1.80 for cleaned coal and $1.70 for raw coal.

'Check-Off' Move Started by U. M. W.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—A movement by the United Mine Workers to obtain benefit of the "check-off," whereby union dues are deducted from miners' pay, was started in southern fields today.

Van A. Bittner, chief representative of the union in West Virginia, said that at a meeting of district presidents yesterday the check-off for union dues was the chief topic.

A DISPATCH from Vienna reports that Dolfuss, chancellor and partway dictator of Austria, plans "a definitely anti-Semitic course." The semi-official Viennese newspaper Reichspost says:

"The German Nazis must not be credited with the invention of anti-Semitism, which in no way clashes with the warmest Austrian patriotism."

Anti-Semitism is a good deal older than Nazis, older than Germany or Austria, as old as race and religious prejudice and hatred, and as old as envy.

According to Lecky the persecution of early Christians in Rome was due largely to the fact that those Christians professed what was called "a Jewish religion" from Palestine.

BREAD DRIVERS BALK AT NRA

A minority of bread truck drivers today, police said, balked at the reported NRA Labor Board agreement between employers and workers at the Ward and Baur baking companies. Police were detailed to the plants, where a handful of drivers are attempting to talk their colleagues into striking, according to police.

Delivery of bread from both concerns was uninterrupted this morning, several stores and restaurants reported.

Four men arrested late yesterday for loitering in the neighborhood of the Ward Company's plant at Thirty-first street and Liberty avenue were discharged today by Magistrate George Metzler when company officials failed to appear against them.

DAVIS RETURNS 'TO GOLF'

PARIS, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Norman H. Davis, head of the American arms delegation at Geneva, today told Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour that until the European countries straightened out the disarmament tangle he is going to play golf in America.

In a half-hour conversation with M. Paul-Boncour and Rene Massigli, French arms delegate, the ambassador-at-large said:

"Golfing in the United States is as good as in Europe."

Mr. Davis explained to the two that President Roosevelt is ready to proceed with the disarmament conference but that he is not interested in the questions of "strategy" raised since Germany withdrew from the arms parley and the League of Nations.

TWO BOYS SHOT IN MINE RIOT

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Nov. 2.—Two youths were shot down and a number of women and children were reported hurt by flying stones today when rioting broke out at the Delaware colliery in Plains.

John Wisloski, 18, was shot in the arm and Michael Urischak, 17, suffered a thigh wound.

Residents said a crowd of 200 pickets at the Hudson Coal Company operation attacked the two youths, believing they planned to interfere with the strike activities of insurgent mine workers who have called a general strike. Unconfirmed reports revealed the pair merely were spectators.

Higher Prices Speed Alaskan Gold Mining

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Even under Alaska's inter snows, gold mining and development work will be rushed forward, spurred by the higher prices for the yellow metal.

Hard rock properties are receiving more winter attention than ever before. Numerous placer propositions tributary to this area are being organized for the first advent of spring. All producers are accelerating operations.

NRA on 'Wrong Track' Trade Leader Declares

By WILLIAM H. DOHERTY
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Faced by a new barrage of criticism, the National Recovery Administration today appeared headed for a drastic shakeup of policies and personnel.

President Henry I. Harriman of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce last night declared the recovery drive was fundamentally sound if "it gets on the right track," but said:

"Three months ago the NRA was 100 per cent acceptable to business interests throughout the United States. Two months ago it dropped to 80 and now it is down to about 60 per cent. There is something radically wrong here.

"We are proposing to President Roosevelt that we be allowed to name some five or six prominent and patriotic men who will co-operate with the NRA and endeavor to straighten out the tangle."

A rotating plan calling for the immediate replacement of five members of the NRA Industrial Advisory Board has been put into effect at the suggestion of Gerard Swope, one of the retiring members and an outstanding industrialist.

Recovery Administrator Johnson said he had suggested the plan to Swope and revealed it would be adopted for key officials through out the recovery organization. He said:

"It is the only way to avoid bureaucracy."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Louis Kirstein, Boston merchant, today was elected chairman of NRA's industrial advisory board, succeeding Walter C. Teagle, of Standard Oil of New Jersey, retiring from the board.

Kirstein, an executive of the Filene Company, has been with the advisory board for a considerable period and has been especially active on the national labor board in the settlement of strikes and disputes.

UNION HITS BAN ON MEETING IN DUQUESNE

Charge Mayor Denied Permit, Defied Governor

Declaring they were refused permission by Mayor James Crawford to hold a meeting in a rented hall, Duquesne steel workers today had drafted resolutions addressed to Miss Frances Perkins, Labor Secretary, and American Federation of Labor and NRA officials, asking for the privilege of free assembly.

Union officials today wired an invitation to Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of the Governor, to address the steel workers of Duquesne Saturday night.

If a permit can not be obtained in the city, the meeting will be held outside, William J. Spang, president of Lodge 187, Amalgamated Association of Steel, Iron and Tin Workers, said. He charged coercion was being used on hall owners to prevent their leasing quarters to the union for meetings.

Protest against the Mayor's action in banning the meeting was made at a gathering of several hundred members of the association in the union's headquarters in Duquesne avenue, last night.

POLICE PATROL

Police patrolled the street outside the hall during the meeting.

Prior to the meeting, Gov. Pinchot wired the Mayor, criticising him for refusing to allow the men to meet. He said:

"Such action is opposed to every American tradition. I ask that you respect the Constitution and let these men act under it."

Denying that he received Gov. Pinchot's telegram, Crawford declared:

"What has Pinchot got to do with it? I'm running this town. I've been in public life a long time. I know what to do."

The Governor's message to Crawford followed receipt of a lengthy protest from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, at Washington.

REPLIES TO GREEN

When informed of Green's complaint, the Mayor was quoted as having said:

"Well, they'll say anything."

Green, in his protest to Pinchot, said:

"The Mayor of Duquesne, Pa., prevented a bona fide local of steel workers affiliated with the American Federation of Labor from holding a meeting in a hall which they had rented. He further refused to permit them to hold a meeting next week. There is involved in this matter the principle of free assemblage.

"The workers have a right to enjoy the right of free assemblage and free speech. I appeal to you as Governor of the State of Pennsylvania to make it possible for the steel workers at Duquesne to meet peaceably and to exercise the right of free assemblage."

FORD MEETING CODE TERMS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—NRA officials today viewed developments yesterday at Dearborn, Mich., and Edgewater, N. J., as indicating Henry Ford finally will abandon his original determination never to submit to "collective bargaining" with his workers.

A new tendency to let the Ford controversy die down developed late yesterday when Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson parried questions on the subject at a press conference by terminating the interview.

It was agreed at NRA headquarters that Ford's statement to strikers at the Edgewater assembly plant did not constitute "bargaining," but most officials indicated a belief the statement paved the way for actual "bargaining" at an early date.

The strikers were told that a reply to their demands would be met "when the condition of business makes it practicable."

QUIZ SUBPENAS CUTTEN AND SINCLAIR

Magnate, Speculator Face Questioning on Oil Stock Pools

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The Senate Banking and Currency Committee today issued subpenas for Harry F. Sinclair, the oil magnate, and Arthur W. Cutten, Chicago grain speculator, in an effort to learn more about two huge syndicates dealing in stock of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Company.

Albert H. Wiggin, former head of the Chase National Bank, testified that one of the syndicates made more than $12,000,000 profit and the other netted nearly $1,000,000.

Chase Securities Corporation participated in both syndicates, along with Wiggin's family-owned Shermer Corporation. Cutten was the manager and Sinclair the originator.

WIGGIN 'BAILED OUT'

Wiggin, testifying today, revealed that he had "bailed out" his holdings in the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Corporation 14 days before it passed a dividend in June, 1932.

Wiggin was chairman of the corporation's finance committee at the time. He unloaded 26,000 shares of the stock through his personal Shermar Corporation on June 3, 4 and 6, 1932—the market price of the stock fell from $25 on June 4 to $11⅛ on June 8, 1932. The dividend was passed June 20 and the stock's price fell to $5.

DUMPED COLLATERAL

The former bank president also unloaded 10,000 shares of the stock held by the Chase National Bank as collateral on heavy loans to Gerhard M. Dahl, chairman of the board of directors of Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit.

He said Dahl, too, had sold his personal holdings of the stock.

The transactions revealed that Wiggin used the knowledge he gained as chairman of the transit corporation's finance committee to protect his personal fortune. He admitted knowing in advance that the corporation would have to pass its dividend, particularly because of a large indebtedness due to the Chase National Bank.

This story was developed after Wiggin testified he received a gross income of $5,881,620 in the five years of 1928 to 1932 inclusive. He reported a capital loss of $79,420 in the same period and a net income of $5,802,200 for the five-year period.

Existing world conditions, and the fluctuating American dollar, have made it virtually impossible to reach any lasting agreement at this time, in the belief of the negotiators.

U. S. Purchases Gold From Bank of France

PARIS, Nov. 2.—(INS.)—The United States Reconstruction Finance Corporation, following out President Roosevelt's new monetary policy, today entered the foreign gold market with a purchase of gold from the Bank of France for the Federal Reserve.

As far as is known here this is the first purchase made on account of the United States in European markets since the President's pronouncement.

International News Service was informed it was by a roundabout procedure in which American dollars were first converted into pounds sterling in London and then into francs, which actually represented the purchase of gold from the Bank of France.

It is understood here that the United States is also making purchases in London and other European gold markets, scattering the transactions in order to avoid a spectacular decline in the dollar that would upset other currencies, particularly the franc.

PRICE UP AGAIN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—The Roosevelt administration today dangled before the world an offer to buy all the foreign gold that is shipped to this country, and again advanced the figure at which the RFC makes purchases of the new output of domestic gold mines.

For the latter a price of $32.36 an ounce was established as compared with $32.26 yesterday.

Meanwhile, the bullion quotation at London, presumably in response to the Roosevelt plans, rose from $31.52 yesterday to $32.11 today.

The dollar was weak, declining overnight to $4.82 to the pound. It also weakened against the franc.

U. S. Cash Desired To Build City Hall

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—City Council is planning to ask the Federal Public Works Administration for an appropriation to build a city hall.

The project was discussed at last night's meeting and a committee was named to confer with federal and state officials.

WAITER WINS NRA WAGE SUIT

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—An obscure waiter was the victor yesterday in the first court action in the East based on the President's re-employment agreement and NRA officials termed the decision far-reaching in its effects. The waiter was Samuel Hoffman, and all he got out of it was $59 paid him by his employer, Elias Zervos, owner of the restaurant.

But Hoffman realized the importance of his victory in the Bronx municipal court when Thomas J. Donovan, head of the complaint bureau of the NRA law department, said:

"This means that any worker paid less than a minimum wage by an NRA employer may go to court and collect the balance due him."

Hoffman testified that when he went to work for Zervos last June he was paid $3 a week. When Zervos signed the President's agreement in August Hoffman asked for the $15 a week minimum provided in the agreement and was given $16 on account. Zervos then ceased making up the difference, Hoffman said, and when the waiter objected he was discharged.

SUNDAY SPORTS FEES PLANNED

An ordinance providing that licenses for Sunday football and baseball games shall not exceed $50 will be introduced at the next meeting of City Council by President Harry A. Little. The ordinance is drawn and in his desk, Little said today.

Although it may be introduced in Council and held in committee for action pending approval of the Sunday sports bill next Tuesday, the ordinance cannot become effective until the results of the sports bill vote have been certified, according to City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt.

Gas to Be Supplied After 4-Year Break

HARRISBURG, Nov. 2.—(INS.)—Deprived of gas supplies for more than four years, 116 families in Vandergrift were assured today of restoration of service to their homes before December 1 in compliance with an agreement reached among the Columbia Natural Gas Company, Vandergrift Land Company and the Public Service Commission.

In June, 1929, service was disrupted when gas lines were broken by the collapse of the roof of a Kiskiminitas Coal Company abandoned mine upon which the homes were located.

LEGISLATURE CALL WAITS ELECTION

Pinchot Delays Edict On Problems to Face Session Nov. 13

BULLETIN.

Gov. Pinchot flew here from Harrisburg this afternoon and landed at the County Airport. He said he wasn't interested in Alex Lindsay's criticism of Pinchot followers.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—The 1933 special session of the Legislature will convene at noon, Monday, November 13, with Gov. Pinchot delivering his message to the joint session of the Senate and House soon after that hour.

The Governor announced these details today, adding that he will not issue until after next Tuesday's election, the formal call which will set forth the legislation he wants the Assembly to consider.

Details of the call, as well as the probable length of the session, will be determined by the last of three conferences which the Governor will hold next Wednesday with Gen. Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, and other organization leaders.

In previous conferences, liquor control has dominated the discussions.

The Governor is reported to be backing a plan under which liquor would be sold in state-operated stores whose employes would be selected by civil service examinations.

Other subjects on which Pinchot and Republican organization leaders seek pre-session agreements are unemployment relief, social legislation, additional aid for schools and public construction.

The Governor left the Capitol today by plane for Pittsburgh where he will make two addresses, one in behalf of the $25,000,000 state expenses bonds issue to be voted on next Tuesday.

Continuing liquor control negotiations, representatives of wet and dry groups will meet with Attorney General William A. Schnader at Harrisburg tomorrow.

FARM OFFICERS SEE ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt agreed to receive a delegation of five Middle Western governors late today, when they will lay before him a program calling for the fixing of farm prices and quick inflation to provide relief for producers in their states.

The delegation consists of Govs. Herring, of Iowa; Olson, of Minnesota; Berry, of South Dakota; Schmedeman, of Wisconsin, and Langer, of North Dakota.

Discussing their proposals with newspapermen, the governors unanimously favored licensing of farmers, processors and distributors to effect higher prices and production control.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—After several days' inactivity, pickets appeared again today on Iowa highways resorting, for the first time during the present farm holiday strike, to blockades, in an effort to halt trucks bound for market.

Milk Plant Bombed, Strikers Get Blame

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—A dynamite bomb, followed by fire today, destroyed the cheese factory of El Bley, near Port Washington.

Sheriff Peter J. Jung said there was no doubt that the blast was set off by strike pickets.

REFUSE PERMIT TO DISTILLERY

HARRISBURG, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania Distilling Company has been refused a permit for its Logansport distillery by the State Alcohol Permit Board. Reasons for the action were not disclosed.

Attorney General William Schnader announced the board's decision yesterday but declined to discuss it.

Some time ago, the company withdrew its first application after it was testified at permit hearings that the applicants, Morris R. Weiner, Irwin Weiner and Jacob Steinman, of Pittsburgh and New York, had been indicted but not convicted of prohibition and income tax law violations.

Recently, the same men re-applied for a permit.

Political Rally Spares Decision on Garbage

The troublesome city garbage contract apparently has been neatly disposed of until after the election next Tuesday, thanks to the interference of politics with business.

Councilman Frank L. Duggan, chairman of the garbage committee, had called a special meeting of Council for yesterday to discuss the contract, but even Duggan himself was with his colleagues and Mayor Herron and Senator Coyne at a political rally in Coyne's ward, the Fourth. This was Duggan's explanation:

"We had this appointment to speak several days ago. Our sentiments on the garbage question are made clear in our statements in the Sun-Telegraph. I am calling a meeting for the early part of next week to take definite action."

When the meeting finally is held, Council will have to go on record as to whether it favors a long-term contract or the present short one.

FORMER KITTANNING MINER FINDS FORTUNE IN GOLD

$75,000 STRIKE REWARD FOR SACRIFICE

Grubstaked for Years, He Uncovers Vein In Old Pit

International News Service.

MANCOS, Col., Nov. 2.—The pinch of poverty that C. H. Starr, formerly of Kittanning, Pa., has experienced almost constantly for the past seven years was at an end today as the prospector surveyed a pile of ore believed to contain at least $75,000 in gold.

Rich ore, including a number of large gold nuggets, has been placed in a bank for safekeeping. Some of the ore, Starr says, has assayed as high as $150 per pound, and the straight run of the ore assays about $1.50 per pound.

Starr and a partner, G. W. Gilmore, discovered the rich ore in a vein in Red Arrow mine, nine miles west of here.

FEARS FOR BOYS

Starr's excitement over his prospective wealth was not shared by his wife, who today expressed only fear that "the boys may get hurt or catch cold" out in the mine. Her fears were voiced as she stood over an old-fashioned washtub doing the family wash.

The Starrs have three sons, two of whom live with their parents and are working with their father in the new "gold field."

Standing just outside the three-room unpainted frame home, Mrs. Starr said:

"I like the work here. I do it all. And I'm satisfied to live on without all the conveniences and luxury that a lot of money might bring."

WED 28 YEARS

The Starrs have been married 28 years. They came here seven years ago from Kittanning, Pa., where Starr worked in the coal mines and carpentered. He has performed odd jobs and been grubstaked each spring for his search for the precious yellow metal. The Starrs have a little garden, but frequently have traded their labor for foodstuffs in order to live. Just before Starr made the rich strike he was refused groceries by local stores. He said today:

"I'll be able to buy anything I want now."

FRIENDS ELATED

KITTANNING, Pa., Nov. 2.—C. H. Starr's gold strike in the West was good news today to his many friends in the Kittanning district. He left here some 10 years ago with his family, poor but popular. He had operated a wagon mine at Furnace Run and, later, a small store in Kittanning with less than fair results. His last home in this district was at Tarrtown.

Friends recalled that two years after he had left for Colorado, Starr had telegraphed the late Charles Roofner, of Tarrtown, for funds. And Roofner had sent the dependable Starr $35.

MOFFETT KIN DIES IN CRASH

AVALON, CATALINA ISLAND, Cal., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—McFarlane Moore, son-in-law of the late Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, naval airman, and Geoage Baker, Long Beach, airline co-pilot, lost their lives today in a hydroairplane accident a half mile off shore.

Walter Siler, pilot of the ship, was injured and brought to a hospital here.

No passengers were aboard the craft, which was headed for the mainland on its regular Catalina-Wilmington Airlines run from the airport here, of which Moore was the director.

The cause of the accident was not immediately known. Observers on shore saw the ship was in trouble and boats were rushed out, but the craft sank before aid could be supplied.

The bodies of Moore and Baker were recovered and efforts were started with grappling hooks to retrieve the plane from the water.

DUKE TO FIGHT LOTTERY CASE

LONDON, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—One of the most famous legal battles of the century, the Daily Mail said today, is expected to develop as a result of the "mystery" fund case of the Duke of Atholl.

Former Lord Chamberlain, the 61-year-old duke was summoned yesterday to appear in Bow Street Police Court November 14 for a hearing on a charge of violating the lotteries act.

When he was informed at Blair Castle of the Home Office's action in granting the summons, he appeared unperturbed, merely remarking:

"So they decided to prosecute, after all?"

Charles arose from a private "mystery fund" of more than £150,000, or about $738,500, the duke raised from voluntary subscriptions.

Sixty thousand pounds was set aside for charities, while £36,000 was distributed among the subscribers. Prizes, ranging from £10 to £2,000, went to holders of 748 tickets.

FAMILY GETS RIDLEY MONEY

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Settlement of litigation over the $4,000,000 estate of Edward Albert Ridley, eccentric realty owner who was found slain in his sub-basement office on the lower East Side last May, was approved today by Surrogate James A. Foley.

Details of the settlement were disclosed by James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, who is counsel for the executor.

Under the settlement, the bulk of the estate will go to Mrs. Clara R. Gerken, Brooklyn, a half-sister; John Langley Ridley, Jersey City lawyer, a grandnephew, and seven children of a deceased nephew, Arthur J. Ridley.

MURREL CASE 'HUSH' DENIED

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—W. R. Smith, Jr., United States District Attorney, says no suggestion has been made to him that he dismiss the case of Lieut. John H. Murrel, accused of an attack on Blanche Ralls, although the San Antonio Express says Margot Ralls, a sister, favors such a move.

The Express quotes the sister as saying:

"Neither of us realized that the offense was a capital one and we are sorry it ever came up. Neither of use had any part in initiating the charges. The story got out and military police came to see us. We never wanted the case taken to court."

A preliminary hearing of the case involving the former West Point football star was indefinitely postponed yesterday.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—After talking most of the night with a woman prisoner, beyond the wall of his death cell, John Winston Boyd, Negro porter who confessed attacking 15 white women, was hanged in St. Louis County Jail at Clayton, a suburb, today.

KILLER BALKED IN DARING BOLT

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—John Scheck, desperate young killer awaiting execution for the murder of a policeman in a criminal court room, broke loose again today from the bull pen of the county jail but was recaptured a few moments later in an elevator.

Sheck had been arraigned on a robbery charge and was waiting in the bullpen for return to his death cell when he tore away from his guards.

He dashed into an elevator, slammed the door shut, but was unable to operate the lift and after a 10-minute siege he opened the doors and raised his hands in surrender.

Twice before the young gunman has tried to escape, once wounding a policeman at the detective bureau and a few weeks ago killing Policeman John Sevick as he raced through a criminal court room. He was captured in the lobby, however, and sentenced to death for the murder. Subsequently he was convicted of the murder of a bank cashier in the robbery for which he was originally arrested.

SALLY TO FIGHT 10-DAY TERM

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Any time at all would be too much for a fan dancer to spend in jail, Sally Rand says she believes.

After her sentence of a year in jail on a charge of giving an indecent performance had been cut to 10 days and a fine of $200 by Judge Joseph H. McGarry, she announced she would appeal.

The action reducing the sentence, imposed recently, after a jury trial, was taken yesterday by Judge McGarry, who denied her a new trial. Sally is at liberty on bond.

WOMAN TO QUIZ KIDNAPED GIRL

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—After identifying George McGee, the defendant, as one of her kidnapers, Miss Mary McElroy told from the witness stand today how she had been forced last May 27 to write three ransom letters to her father, City Manager Henry F. McElroy, in which $60,000 was demanded.

As Miss McElroy neared the end of the story of her captivity in a cottage basement in Wyandotte County, the defense announced a young woman lawyer, Miss Little Knight, would conduct the cross-examination.

It was recalled that at the kidnaping trial of Walter McGee, older brother of the defendant, who was convicted and sentenced to hang, the defense had difficulty in cross-examining the young woman. Its methods were criticized by the court. The decision to use a woman lawyer at this trial was said to have been prompted by that experience.

'HATE' SLAYING JAILS PARENTS FOR LIFE

Ohio Wife Confesses Killing Two Babies At Mate's Command

JEFFERSON, O., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Mertis Fleming, the middle-aged farmer who hated "boy babies," and his wife, Aleeta, were sentenced to life imprisonment today for the murder of their 2-month-old son last August.

They pleaded guilty to charges of second degree murder before Judge Charles R. Sargent, who promptly ordered Fleming sent to the Ohio State Penitentiary for life at hard labor, and Mrs. Fleming to Marysville with the same kind of sentence.

Mrs. Fleming, only 28, had previously confessed that she strangled her infant, Mertis, Jr., with her dress belt, after her spouse had threatened her own life unless she did away with the child.

Simultaneously she confessed she had taken the life of a 2-year-old child, Willis, a year ago.

She said her husband did not like boy babies because they fretted at night and kept him awake, although he had no objection to their 2-year-old daughter.

ASK TEACHERS TO TAKE CUT

Pittsburgh school teachers are asked to take a second 10 per cent salary cut by the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board.

In a communication to the school board last night the real estate group requested that administrators be included in the cut.

The real estate board also demanded thta all improvements and repairs be curtailed and that a proposed $1,500,000 building bond issue be killed.

A public hearing for suggestions on reductions in the 1934 school budget will be held tomorrow afternoon by the Finance and Administration Committee of the board.

Chairman Alexander P. Reed said that organizations which have demanded lowering of school taxes will be given an opportunity to make any suggestions they wish.

A reduction in the budget of $31,015 from supply and expense items was made by the committee yesterday.

A petition for lower millage, indorsed by the Citizens' General Committee, was presented by J. Roland Brady, executive secretary of the research committee of the Allegheny County Real Estate Owners and Taxpayers' League. The citizens' group last January indorsed the 1933 tax of 11¾ mills, but suggested an eight-point program of attempting to reduce the tax for 1934.

The school tax will not be set before the second Monday of this month.

The Foreign Minister said:

"Greek executive authority is without influence on Greek justice. There is no way in which the government can interfere."

WOMAN BALKS AT N. Y. NAZI INQUIRY

German Leader's Wife Insists on Quiz By Gentile

BULLETIN.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(INS.)—After announcing she would answer no questions put to her by a Jewish prosecutor or judge, Mrs. Ignatz T. Graebl, today went before the federal grand jury and was questioned for half an hour by Assistant United States Attorney William W. Prager, who is Jewish. She came out protesting that she hadn't known Prager was a Jew.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Mrs. Maria Griebl, wife of Dr. Ignatz T. Griebl, former president of the Friends of New Germany, went to the federal building today and said she would not answer questions put to her by a Jewish United States Attorney.

Also, she said, she would not swear on the Bible "because the Bible is the Jewish Old Testament."

Mrs. Griebl was interviewed as she and her husband and her maid, Rose Fischer, all under subpena, were outside the grand jury room waiting the call of United States Attorney George Z. Medalie, or William W. Prager, one of his aides, in the investigation of the activities of Heinz Spanknoebel, reputed Nazi agent. Mrs. Griebl said:

"As an American citizen, I have the right to be questioned by a gentile district attorney or judge. I consider Mr. Medalie as biased and believe that, therefore, I cannot get a fair trial. I will answer any question put to me by a gentile district attorney or judge.

"I will swear on the flag. I have sworn allegiance to the American flag, which is so dear to us gentiles.

"I will not swear on the Bible, because the Bible is the Jewish Old Testament. As I read between the lines, they are trying to make my husband the goat."

The investigation of Spanknoebel's activities followed cancellation by Mayor John P. O'Brien of a projected German Day celebration last Sunday on the ground that it promised to result in disorder. A warrant for Spanknoebel's arrest was issued last week charging he had failed to register with the State Department as a diplomatic agent. Federal agents since have sought him in vain.

MUNICH, Germany, Nov. 2.—Noel Panter, British correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph, who was arrested last week on suspicion of treason and espionage, was released from custody today.

Official announcement of his release was accompanied by an order giving him 48 hours to leave Germany on the grounds he was an "undesirable."

The British correspondent, whose arrest followed a dispatch in which he laid stress upon the alleged military character of a Nazi meeting, was freed after authorities announced they had insufficient evidence to indict him.

Panter, pale and unshaved, was welcomed by a British consular official and his colleagues at the prison gate.

Suicide, Death 'Fix' Laid To McClure 'Ring'

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Jose Rumler, who testified that participants in the alleged Delaware County liquor "protection" organization "fixed up" a murder for $1,300, charged the ring today with responsibility for a woman's suicide.

The former deputy sheriff and a speakeasy proprietor testified that the organization "piled up so many cases" against Irene Broad, operator of a disorderly house, that she killed herself. He asserted she had "got in wrong with the big shots" while numerous other establishments were allowed to prosper.

Rumler, who is now serving a penitentiary sentence on a charge of extortion, said on the stand last night that the principals in the slaying of a man with three children had implicated in the "fixing" of their trial O. N. Smith, chief of Delaware County detectives; two of his aides and a Chester attorney.

The defendants were identified as the operators of a still at Village Green, among them Benny Caraffa, who is a fugtive in the conspiracy case.

Caraffa was indicted with State Senator John J. McClure and 94 other persons for alleged participation in the "protection" organization.

Rumler testified that he himself sold liquor. He added:

"A lot of Main Line and Delaware County society people, as well as high officials of Delaware County, used to go to this place."

Two Party Girl Lures Held in Kidnaping

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Two women were held in city jail today and county officers announced that two paroled convicts were being sought in connection with the kidnaping, beating and robbing early Tuesday morning of Louis E. Brooks, wealthy Marshall (Mich.) manufacturer.

On the basis of information obtained from the women, Margaret Devere, 25, of Battle Creek, and Jane Edwards, 22, formerly of Kalamazoo, officials said, they were seeking Melvin Brown and Lewis Conyou, of Detroit, both recently paroled from prison.

Miss Devere, officials said, admitted she was an occupant of the automobile in which Brooks was driven to his plant in Marshall where the robbers obtained $36,000 in bonds and $12,000 in cash and jewelry.

Brooks, according to the story obtained by the officers, was lured to Battle Creek by a telephone call from one of the women. The police described a dinner in a Battle Creek apartment, which was attended by Brooks, the two women, Brown and Conyou. Later Brooks and Miss Devere drove for a time around the outskirts of Battle Creek to be halted by the occupants of another car.

Two men handcuffed Brooks and Miss Devere together and in Brooks' car started for his Marshall plant. There the watchman was bound and gagged by the men who forced Brooks to open the safe. Brooks later was found at his farm home a few miles from here.

SLAYER OF GIRL HUNTED IN GANGDOM

anti street rooming house then they were tossed out for their innumerable quarrels and they separated, according to the detectives.

Palladino went to New York, his bride went back to the restaurants and, at least once to the workhouse, the police reported—went back until last Monday, when her nearly nude body a bullet through the breast, was found in a storm sewer off the Allegheny River boulevard near Verona.

The thousands who tried to identify her constituted the biggest crowd which has been drawn to the morgue in its history—bigger even than the crowd attracted when the slain Volpe brothers were displayed. Among them was Constable Philip Azzara, who thought the girl was the waitress who had married Palladino. Without a word to the detectives he brought in a dozen or more acquaintances of the girl. And all agreed she was "Boots" Brown.

IDENTIFICATION CHECK

However, the identification has not yet been accepted officially and may prove incorrect.

The city and county detectives are active in several directions in their efforts to find the killers.

They are checking Palladino's whereabouts, presumably in New York. They are trying to find the address of a sister of "Boots," who is believed in New York.

"Boots" worked in numerous restaurants and lived in many rooming houses in East Liberty. At some places she was known as Dorothy Jackson, at others as Billie Holmes.

Acquaintances said that recently she had returned from New York after a visit with her husband.

Her landlady, Mrs. Ida Ross, who had to put the couple out because of their quarrels, told of a letter "Boots" had written to the sister, whose first name was Sybil—a letter which Mrs. Ross said Palladino had torn in two and prevented mailing.

'GIVE ME A CHANCE'

This letter told of "Boots'" desire to "go straight." In part, it said:

"I know you think harshly of me for not writing thanking you for the coat, but to tell you the truth I am disgusted with life. Please forgive me. You are sweet as you can be for helping me out. Please give me a chance. I want to go straight and am disgusted with this life. Please let me come to New York. I am sure I won't disappoint you. I will do everything you say. I want to come up there and be nice so I can be in good at home. Sybil, it hurts me to think I can't write home and get a pleasant answer now. Sybil, to think I am your sister, and if you were down and out and I had a home I would take you. I'll do everything I can to get a job and pay you board. I don't like to be alone in this world. I am lonesome for a quiet life. You may think I am just saying this but I mean it. Please give me a chance, and I'm sure you will be proud to see how I've changed. I worked two days last week and just earned enough to pay my room rent. Sybil, don't you ever think of me. All of you treat me like a dog."

The crowd's curiosity in the murdered girl continued unabated today. The long line at the morgue was unbroken.

Woodfin Quits 3rd U. P. Pulpit; To Leave City Commission appointed last May by the Monongahela Presbytery, to investigate dissension in the Third church of last night's congregational action.

A final agreement between Dr. Woodfin and the Presbyterial Commission was reached October 10, he told the congregation. He emphasized that he had refrained from discussing church difficulties from the pulpit.

Moderator McQuilkin announced that Dr. John McNaugher, president of Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, would occupy the pulpit next Sunday.

A statement signed by the Rev. Dr. A. Gordon MacLennan, official moderator of the congregation, and George A. Long, clerk, was distributed to the members. Dr. MacLennan was prevented from officiating last night by reason of services he is conducting in Youngstown, O., Dr. McQuilkin explained.

STATEMENT ISSUED

The statement said:

"The Commission of Monongahela Presbytery appointed in connection with the affairs in Third church would hereby notify anyone concerned that our minutes show that no charges of any kind have come before the commission concerning either the pastor, Dr. Woodfin, or any of the members of Session as individuals, or the Session as a body.

"The concern of the commission has been with the condition in the Third Church as we found it, not causes leading up to it, and the attempt to work out a solution for the peace and harmony of the church."

PASTOR UPHELD

Dissension in the Third Church, one of the most influential in Pittsburgh, flared May 3 when Dr. Woodfin, requested by his elders to resign, asked for a congregational vote. He received a vote of confidence, 276 to 86.

Two weeks later a petition was presented to Presbytery asking that an appeal be permitted from the congregational action because of "unfortunate and deplorable" conditions existing in the church. Presbytery named a commission of seven to investigate.

Announcement was made in July by Dr. MacLennan that a satisfactory agreement had been reached that Dr. Woodfin was to resign and members were asked "to refrain from discussing matters of a divisive or controversial nature."

APPEAL VOICED TO SAVE HOMES

A general appeal to all mortgage holders in Western Pennsylvania not to take action toward foreclosure until the Home Owners' Loan Corporation here has a chance to refinance loans was made today by L. G. Lichliter, manager of the loan corporation.

The corporation here has completed 77 loans this week, bringing its total to 130.

Lichliter said:

"This request is being made at this time because, through scores of pitiful letters from distressed home owners in all parts of the district, it has come to the attention of the corporation that sheriff's sales are to be advertised in many communities within the next few days.

"Taking action to foreclose mortgages at this time will only increase the burden of the home owner. It will add to his expenses and tend to interfere with the work of the corporation."

At the office of the Sheriff of Allegheny County, 269 properties will be up for sale Monday. Twenty-four are those on which stays previously had been granted by the court.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—They jailed a dog here today. The white collie was the most forlorn prisoner in the City Jail, too, after he was picked up as a vagrant for he had no license.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Slain by a strangler, who bound him hand and foot, the body of Walter S. Kleinert, 35, a claim adjuster, was found in his Greenwich Village apartment yesterday.

Dr. Charles Norris, chief medical examiner, pronounced the death a homicide, caused by strangulation, and said Kleinert had been dead 10 or 12 hours.

Ring 'Round Moon Excites Curious Sky-Gazers

If you chanced to gaze skyward last night you no doubt saw a ring around the moon. Scores did, and called newspaper offices for an explanation.

According to observers at Allegheny County Observatory it was a 22-degree halo caused by the moonlight shining through cirrus clouds. The halo is common, but most noticeable at the time of the full moon.

M'NAIR RENEWS HERRON DEAL ATTACK

William N. McNair, Democratic mayoralty candidate, today reiterated his demand that Mayor John S. Herron reveal completely the details of a real estate transaction he had with the Pennsylvania railroad, naming the men Herron says were associated with him in the transaction.

So far the Mayor has not amplified his original answer, that the entire proceeding is a matter of record, and was a plain business deal for a piece of property which had long been on the market.

He denied there was any connection between the real estate purchase and garbage contracts between the city and the American Reduction Company.

GARBAGE COSTS RISE

In returning to the attack today McNair offered a set of figures showing garbage costs had increased 400 per cent since 1917, while the city's population had grown only 20 per cent.

McNair traced the cost of garbage collection for years, starting with $3 per ton in 1917, rising to $8.27 from 1922 to 1929, then falling to $7.82 for 1930 and 1931. McNair said:

"Mr. Herron boasts of a long and honorable career in the Council of the City of Pittsburgh. The Flinn garbage company can boast of a long and profitable business relationship with the City of Pittsburgh during the same two decades that John S. Herron and W. Y. English were members of Council.

REAL ESTATE DEAL

"Was it gratitude to the Flinn interests for arranging this profitable real estate transaction with the Pennsylvania Railroad that caused Mayor John S. Herron to come out for the one-year garbage contract?

"Was it gratitude to the Pennsylvania Railroad, the state's largest utility, for making it possible for him to obtain a $25,000 piece of real estate without cost that dictated the attitude of silence on the part of John S. Herron when the Legislature had before it a bill which would have made it mandatory for the city of Pittsburgh to tax real estate owned by utilities, the same as the home of the most humble of our citizens?"

2 M'NAIR BILL PASSERS FINED

Two men charged with violating a city ordinance in passing posters for William N. McNair, Democratic nominee for mayor, were fined $5 with the option of five days in jail by Magistrate George Metzler in Forty-third Police Court today.

The Greater Pittsburgh Distributing Company, employers of the men, announced they would post a realty bond and carry the case to court for a test.

The magistrate ruled that the offense consisted not in distributing handbills, but in permitting some of them to litter the street. This was testified to by police who arrested the men in the Garfield district yesterday.

Fined were Arthur Cummings, 38, of 736 Reedsdale street, and Kenneth Hartzell, 27, of 1308 Liverpool street.

Bandits Get $7,000 From Michigan Bank

LANSING, Mich., Nov. 2.—(INS.)—Three bandits armed with shotguns and automatic pistols today held up the Bank of Lansing branch at grand River avenue and Center street, cowing seven customers and three employes and scooping $7,000 from cash drawers before they escaped.

M'NAIR ASSAILS DR. LEWIN AS POLITICIAN

Dr. A. L. Lewin, Board of Education member, was criticized last night by William N. McNair for active participation in politics in attacking his tax proposals.

At an East End meeting the Democratic mayoralty nominee declared:

"The school board was made appointive to keep it out of politics. But it might as well be elective from the way some of them are acting. If that's a break, I'm going to make it."

Later at a South Side meeting he elaborated.

"But let there be no mistake —I'm for an appointive board."

McNair said those opposing his five to one tax on land and buildings—among them Dr. Lewin—were often interested in safeguarding land speculation. Other opponents, he said, didn't "ferstand it."

The graded tax has worked well for the city, according to authorities, so why shouldn't it work well for the schools and county, and why shouldn't an extension of its principle work well, McNair asked.

He ridiculed as ignorant the contention of opponents that it would hurt the small home owner, whom, he contended, it was designed to help.

McNair also took a fling at a statement of Councilman W. Y. English's, that if utility real estate were taxed, the burden would probably be passed on to the public. If utility rates go up, McNair said, we'd all have to leave the city.

INDEPENDENTS' DUTY CITED

It is the duty of all independent Republicans to vote to uproot the "corrupt and sinister combination of Mellon, Coyne and Herron," Leslie M. Johnson, chairman of the Citizens' League, declared in an address last night.

The balance of power residing in the truely independent voters is beginning to assert itself, he said.

They have a choice here, he continued, between men for years directly responsible for corrupt government, and men who will bring fresh ideals and new methods to city management.

Mass Meeting Set For Hill's Voters

LINDSAY CHARGES DEALS ON JUDICIAL SLATE

Beaten in Primary, Makes New Plea For Support

Judges Rowand and Smith, the Pittsburgh Registration Commission and certain regular Republican chairmen of controlled wards to assist Judges Smith and Rowand at his expense.

Mr. Lindsay, an independent for many years, says that everything was done to "hold the Pinchot line in Allegheny County," the Governor's chief representatives here being Judge Smith and Commissioner McGovern.

SMITH ANSWERS

Judge Smith replied today.

"The speech of Mr. Lindsay is an insult to the more than 150,000 citizens of this county of all political beliefs who at the polls recorded their faith in my fitness for the judicial position. His false and malicious utterances, born of a disappointed ambition and the bitterness of defeat, have no place in a judicial campaign."

Judge Smith is the nominee of the Republican, Independent, Prohibition, Socialist, Liberal and Square Deal parties.

RAPS MACHINE TROUBLE

Mr. Lindsay was caustic in his criticism of the County Commissioners for the breakdown of the voting machines in September. He said:

"To characterize the condition of the voting machines is unpardonable is to state the matter mildly. The result was the worst debacle in the history of Allegheny County—a county already notorious for its crooked elections—but heretofore not blackened by the spectacle of a judiciary descending into the political muck.

"Wisecracks and a stubborn resistance by the chairman of the county board to constructive suggestions made by public-spirited citizens will not excuse a failure to perform the one duty above every other that was imposed on the present Commissioners at the time of their election. A thorough housecleaning of the Department of Elections will not at this time excuse the condition."

SEES HUGE VOTE LOSS

Lindsay said that thousands of voters had been disfranchised, then added:

"The remaining part of the story is more sordid.

"It is the story of trades and dickers by judicial candidates for votes.

"It includes the District Attorney.

"It includes the so-called professional gang politician found in all factions.

"It includes the bi-partisan Registration Commission of Allegheny County.

"County judges who were candidates were brought into the political arena, each to do his part. Then notorious professional politicians from Homestead, Braddock and McKees Rocks were induced to join the army in support of reputed independent judicial candidates.

"Finally, such controlled wards of the city of Pittsburgh as could be enticed came into line through an apparent friendly co-operation between the Pinchot-appointed Registration Commission and certain organization ward chairmen of the city of Pittsburgh.

MACKRELL ALLIANCE

"In the meantime the pseudo-independent candidates for the judiciary had joined hands with Mackrell-for-mayor organization, in an attempt to hold that branch of the Republican party in line for Judge Smith and Judge Rowand.

"The master strategists in this move were apparently Judge Smith, the Senator from McKeesport, and the present chairman of the Board of County Commissioners. The Pinchot line in Allegheny County had to be held at all costs.

"Early last spring the build-up of the Pinchot organization for future campaigns was begun, and the citizens of the City of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County witnessed a public demonstration of the courts being dragged into politics.

"The event was the announcement by Judge Smith of the appointment of a judge to the County Court by Gov. Pinchot, and undoubtedly had for its purpose the building up of both Judge Smith and the Pinchot organization in Allegheny County.

OTHER DEALS CHARGED

"This political act on the part of Judge Smith was followed by other deals and appointments in an attempt to attract foreign-born and citizens of foreign extraction to the Pinchot organization.

"The investigating committee appointed by the board of County Commissioners has found that the board of County Commissioners was responsible for the condition of the voting machines—but who was responsible for the appointment of the various registration boards of the controlled districts of the City of Pittsburgh, and the cities of Clairton, Duquesne and McKeesport?

HEARS TRADE RUMORS

"It is common talk in political circles that a trade was made by one of the judical candidates, by which he received the support of the organization in many of the controlled districts in the cities of Pittsburgh, Clairton, Duquesne and McKeesport.

"The returns of the recent primary election are enlightening. Another sitting judge in Common Pleas Court was openly indorsed by the organization. The returns show that his vote and that of Judge Smith were practically the same in the final count of all the votes cast in Allegheny County on primary day.

"The record shows a difference of but 538 votes. District after district in the controlled wards shows a striking similarity which can hardly be explained by the theory advanced by the campaign organization of Judge Smith just prior to the primary, namely, that the organization was actually working against his nomination.

TRY TO RULE BOSSES

"Heretofore ward politicians have attempted to control the election of judges. Today some judicial candidates reach out in an attempt to control ward politicians.

"The people of Allegheny County, without petition on my part, have written in my name a sufficient number of times to give me the nomination for judge of the Court of Common Pleas on the Independent, Square Deal and Prohibition tickets.

"These nominations I did not seek—but since they have been offered to me in good faith, I shall use them for the purpose of continuing the fight for a free and independent judiciary —a judiciary uncontrolled by any group of politicians, or any political party.

"If you have given me your support in the past in an attempt to uphold this fundamental principle of good government—namely, freedom of the bench from any obligation to any political organization—desire to continue your efforts in the same cause, you can do so in the general election next Tuesday by placing an 'X' after my name on any one of the three party tickets, Independent, Square Deal or Prohibition."

MUSIC

Shankar Dancers
Y. M. & W. H. A.

The musical society of the Young Men and Womens' Hebrew Association opened its brilliant series of concerts in their auditorium last night with a dance recital by Shankar and his East Indian dancers and players. There was a capacity house which prophesies well for the rest of the season.

Mr. Lissfelt

The Denishawns have for years brought us pictures of the Orient and by means of costuming, paraphrased folk music, pantomime and dances have taught us to love that world of art. We accepted their performance because of its beauty. How authentic it was as to manners and customs was beyond our judgment.

Last night Shankar brought us similar pictures from the life of the streets and of the temples. Before a simple curtain his musicians—native Indians who play native instruments and with their own primitive rhythms and melodies set that weird monotonous atmosphere which we associate with the Orient and accompany the dancer's pantomime—these musicians alone gave us a music which we too seldom hear, a music we must mostly imagine from our researches in museums.

In Shankar's dancing there is much we have seen before, but his pantomime is, I fear, too subtle for our immediate comprehension. There are meanings that are too closely associated with Indian religion, but in his performance there is a characteristic finality of expression which makes use believe that he is an authentic interpreter. And there he so differs from the Denishawns. He seems more real.

Costumes were nothing short of gorgeous and the use of masks an additional attribute to the truth in Oriental dance. Shankar's associates are skilled dancers and the program might easily be repeated for our delectation as well as our education.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

Contract Bridge -:- -:-

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

A Question of Entries

Hand No. 288 of the recent world's championship Bridge match, held in London with the Charles M. Schwab trophy as the prize, afforded one of the most interesting illustrations of the value of entries that I have seen in recent play. This hand was played for the American team by Mr. Michael T. Gottlieb, sitting South, his partner being Mr. Theodore A. Lightner in the North.

West, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

North: ♠ K 10 7 6 ♡ 10 4 ◇ J 10 4 ♣ 7 5 2
West: ♠ 9 8 3 ♡ J 6 ◇ A Q 7 ♣ K 10 9 4 3
East: ♠ 4 2 ♡ 9 8 5 ◇ 9 6 5 3 ♣ A Q 8 6
South: ♠ A Q 5 ♡ A K Q 7 3 2 ◇ K 8 2 ♣

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	1 N T	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
4 N T	Pass	5 ♠	Pass
6 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

There is no doubt but that the hand was slightly overbid, but even granting this, it is interesting to note how the mere shift of the Queen of hearts from the South hand to the North would have permitted the making of it.

The Opening lead by West was the spade 3, probably the best lead in view of the bidding. Apparently South had a four-card trump suit, and obviously part of North's strength was ability to ruff losers quite probable in hearts. Against this play, Mr. Gottlieb found it possible to make but 11 tricks, and the most careful analysis, even with all the hands exposed, discloses that he won every trick that was possible.

The actual play as follows: West's Opening lead was won in Dummy with the six, and Mr. Gottlieb then led a small club, ruffing in his own hand with the Ace. He next laid down the Queen of Spades, which held the trick, and then followed with two rounds of hearts, but the third round of hearts was ruffed by the West player and overruffed in Dummy, and now Mr. Gottlieb could see that the only possibility of making his contract was to find a way of limiting his diamond losers to one trick. He then led the diamond Ten, which West won with the Queen, and the contract was defeated 1 trick.

Assume, as I have said, that the heart Queen and heart Ten were reversed, providing an additional entry into the North hand, then Mr. Gottlieb would have made his Slam against any lead, the trump lead not excepted. The reason he could have made the contract would have been that he could have utilized two of his trumps to ruff clubs and still have had an entry in the Dummy to pull the adverse trumps and enter his own hand to run the hearts after the adverse trump strength was reduced to nothingness.

The importance of the location of cards which provide essential entries or rather maintains the lines of communication between the partnership is not fully appreciated by most Bridge players, but this hand is a good example.

TODAY'S QUESTION

My partner bid one spade. I held

♠ 1 7 3 ♡ A Q 10 9 4 ◇ 6 3 ♣ 10 5 2

I bid two hearts and my partner then bid three diamonds. Should I bid three spades to show that I prefer his spade suit?

Answer: It is better to bid three hearts. You have a rebiddable heart suit and you avoid showing a preference because you have not adequate trump support. If your own suit were not rebiddable, then it would be best to show your preference for spades.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Delay Is Cause of Scars From Burns

Recently we celebrated "Fire Prevention Week." Anything is good that results in nation-wide observance of rules for safer living. Certainly it is wise for all of us to heed the warnings against the dangers of fire.

Dr. Copeland

Nothing is more serious than a severe burn. It is extremely dangerous when it afflicts the very young or the very old. Children and aged individuals are exceedingly susceptible to the many complications that are associated with a burn.

Not all burns are caused by actual contact with fire. Serious and often fatal burns may follow the careless handling of hot liquids, such as boiling water, hot soup, tea or coffee. The burn that results from severe scalding is similar to that received from actual contact with fire.

Neglect of a burn usually leads to permanent scars. I am sorry to say there are thousands of children in the United States who are crippled because of delayed medical attention following severe burns. Most of these children could have been spared their disabilities if the necessary precautions had been taken against fire and contact with hot liquids.

When this accident occurs it is imperative to seek immediate medical care. Bear in mind that in addition to the unsightly scars it may leave, a severe burn may lead to serious internal disorders.

When a large area of skin and its underlying tissues are destroyed by fire, certain toxins or poisons are produced. These irritating substances are absorbed into the system and are carried by the blood stream to the different organs of the body. For example, ulcer of the stomach is a not uncommon complication of a severe burn. It can be traced to the absorption of toxins which set up a severe irritation in the lining of the stomach.

Our knowledge of what to do in the treatment of severe burns has greatly increased since the World War. During that dreadful conflict treating extensive burns was a daily problem of the military surgeon. In consequence, much valuable material was added to our modern day treatment of burns. As a result, severe and disabling scars are not as common as in former years, providing the victim receives immediate medical attention.

In large city hospitals special equipment is ready for this emergency. Doctors are studying the problem all the time. At a recent medical meeting it was advised that the victim of a severe burn should be immediately immersed in a tub containing a specially prepared solution of tannic acid.

While in the tub it is recommended the victim be given quantities of liquids to drink. This balances the loss of water the body suffers as a result of the burn. The tannic acid is an astringent. It relieves pain, toughens the body and loosens the burned tissue.

JURY LAUDS BOY FOR ROBBERY

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—From no less than a grand jury has come a commendation for a "robbery."

John Lynch, 18, was the person commended. Here's how:

Lynch was held up and robbed of $1.88 and his watch by a "stickup" man he said he recognized as Stanley Knot, 19.

To square matters, he went home, got his pistol, trailed Knot, held him up, recovered his possessions and then delivered Knot to the police.

Husband Finds Happiness In Doing Housework

Housekeeping wives—they're a treasure,
But how about housekeeping husbands?

Wives who prefer to tackle Big Business—husbands who prefer to pretty up the living room and run the waffle iron—they're certainly a reversal of all tradition. Yet, you see them every day in this topsy-turvy modern world. So what do you think of the arrangement?

Sam's friends think it's crazy. But Sam—listen!

My Dear Miss Robinson:

I guess maybe you'll think I'm kind of crazy. Most of the people I know do. But I would like to have your opinion on something I'm doing.

Before the well-known crash I had a good business of my own, but after that event it began getting poorer and poorer, until finally, a little over two years ago, it went clean to the dogs.

I have been married 10 years and my wife has always worked, too. She ran a small real estate office and did pretty well, even after my own business, a specialty store, began to get bad. She was a hustler and could have sold snowballs to an Eskimo.

Then her father died a couple of years ago and, since she was the only child and he was a widower, she inherited the business he had. Perhaps it would have been logical for me to take that over, but she wanted to run it herself and has been doing well at it.

And now here comes the part that the people we know seem to think is crazy.

When I had to close my own store I tried to get work and couldn't. Since she was busy about her own business, I took over the care of our home.

LIKES HOUSEWORK

I do everything—cooking, cleaning, even washing. In other words, for over two years now my wife has been the bread winner, and I have done the job that tradition says belongs to the women folks.

And, strangely enough, I like it. And she likes the part she is doing. I have always liked to cook and putter around the house. My mother, years ago, taught her sons as well as her daughters—there were six of us altogether—how to cook and bake and take care of a home.

Before I was married I had an apartment, like so many young fellows do, and got a big bang out of having the gang in for a feed. Nobody seemed to think that was queer.

But now that I have gone in for home-keeping in earnest, people seem to regard me as some sort of strange insect, if not actually "wrong in the head."

They make wisecracks and snippy remarks, and act as if there were something abnormal about the whole thing, even though I am happy—when they'll let me alone—doing what I am, and my wife is happy in her work. And our two youngsters are happy with me, too.

WANTS OPINION

It seems to mean nothing to other people that we're getting along harmoniously the way things are. We should do as they think—as tradition dictates.

Will you tell me why in the name of common sense people are supposed to follow some rule that doesn't suit their desires at all just because it's "the way to do"?

I wonder if there aren't other men in the world who feel the same as I do—that if a woman wants to work away from her home, and if her husband wants to do as I do, they have a right to do it? I'd like to have some opinions on this subject.

What do you think, yourself?

SAMUEL D.

A queer work-out? Maybe. But personally I can't see any reason why a man shouldn't be a housekeeper if that arrangement suits both him and his wife. And I can't see anything "queer" about people doing the thing they like and are fitted for, whether they are men or women.

But how about you, stranger. What's your slant on Sam's problem?

Everybody Has a Chance to Make Good in Life, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

It is with despair and discouragement that many young persons believe that they have no chance in life.

They compare their opportunities with those of others more advantageously situated and begin to think it is not worth trying to make good in the face of so little.

This is foolish. Everyone has a chance to make good in life, and there is a success beyond that of fame and fortune.

Greater than these is to achieve the best within oneself.

Too many of those who have greater opportunity, and reap greater material rewards, do not measure up to the best in character and heart.

It is better far to be a good example in a small circle than a poor example in a great one.

Hints for the Household

The cheaper cuts of meat contain as much nutriment as the more expensive cuts.

If small pieces of soap have gotten down the drain, pour down boiling water so it will melt them and wash them away. Soap does not clean waste pipes; use washing soda for that purpose; soap will clog the pipes.

Plan the budget to include the daily food requirements of the family—plenty of milk, eggs, fresh vegetables, cereals and fruits.

Frequently pennies can be saved by purchasing in larger quantities, such as half a dozen cans of food, a bushel of potatoes and a peck of fresh vegetables or fruits.

Eggs for poaching should be put in boiling water for a few seconds before cracking the shell. This prevents the yolk from breaking.

In these days of slips, it is wise to look over the shabby dress carefully before giving it away. Many times it can be changed into a slip with all worn spots discarded.

Given in Marriage

A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Mary and Noel Given a Generous Gift

"The plans I have made for your trip." These words of Philip Veritzen had the effect of a thunderclap in the quiet room where Mary, Noel and I had come for the interview he had requested, or commanded.

Their effect upon the betrothed lovers would have been ludicrous had it not held such an element of pathos. If ever in their lives lovers should be left alone it is when they are making plans for their marriage and their honeymoon.

The gift of the new car was a wonderful thing, as was that of the fur motoring coat. Also despite Philip Veritzen's masterful way and his complacence over the fact that the people managing the lecture engagements preferred him to Noel, I knew that the extension of the honeymoon time to two weeks was welcome.

But his latest announcement made a premonitory little shiver run down my back, which was justified as he went on, either unconscious of the startled, almost frightened faces of Noel and Mary, or willfully blind to their uneasiness.

"It will be almost a triumphal tour for you," he said. "As you know, I have distinguished friends in all of the southern cities—I have assumed that you would not wish to travel north or west at this season—and I have arranged with people who live in Washington, Baltimore, Charleston, Savannah and Palm Beach to look after you adequately whenever you shall arrive there. Of course, you will be so short of time in each place that I imagine your trousseau, my dear, will be adequate for all functions. If not, I give you carte blanche at any shops you wish on the way.

MONEY FOR EXPENSES

"At Palm Beach I have arranged for a week's stay for you at my villa down there. The servants have been instructed to be in readiness for you, and to do everything they can to make you comfortable. Everything will be open to you, and you may fly, swim, fish, sail, dance and motor, as you please. And for incidental expenses, my dear boy, it gives me great pleasure to give you this."

He had been fiddling with his wallet as he spoke, and he now held a check out to Noel. As the boy looked at it he gasped, and if Mary had not caught it, the slip of paper would have fallen from his fingers.

"This is too munificent, sir," he stammered.

"May I look at it?" Mary asked demurely.

"My dear child!" Mr. Veritzen's wave of the hand was magnificent in its condescension.

"Three thousand dollars," Mary read in an awed tone. "For incidental expenses."

"Gasoline, meals in transit, souvenirs, tips—little things like those," Mr. Veritzen explained largely. "Wherever you go, your main expenses are provided for. Well! How do you like my plans?"

ACCEPT PLANS

My soul made obeisance to the two young things as they turned apparently grateful and enthusiastic faces toward the man who, in this munificent planning, had chosen only what his own flamboyant nature would have liked, forgetting that to simpler tastes and to true lovers desirous of solitude, the first part of his program was a nightmare, and the last, far from an ideal honeymoon.

But both from ordinary gratitude for an extraordinary gift, and from the remembrance that both their future careers were to an unusual extent in the hands of this man, they knew that they must agree to whatever he planned, and they were philosophical enough to put the best face possible upon their acquiescence.

"It is perfectly marvelous," Mary said. "You are far too good to us. I am afraid we shall not know how to behave in such magnificence."

"I am counting on both of you to do me credit," he told her, and I had the sensation of seeing a horse trainer touch a spirited colt with a spur.

"We shall try to do you credit, father," Noel said, "and I have not words to thank you."

"Don't try," his father said. "And now I will steal back to the cribbage game for a little while. May I ask you to stay somewhere near here, Mrs. Graham, so that when I next can slip away, I may see you about that other little matter?"

"I will be here," I told him. Then he was gone, leaving Noel, Mary and me staring at each other.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Week-End Equipment

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Occasionally I spend a weekend with my young married daughter. In my overnight bag I take a towel and wash cloth, comb, toothbrush, soap and nightgown. I wonder if it is proper to take the towel, wash cloth and soap? Kindly let me know at your earliest convenience. M.

When we are guests in a home, we do not usually take a towel or wash cloth or soap. Guest towels and fresh wash cloths are always provided for guests in houses of even the simplest planning. The soap may be a different matter . . . we may use the soap provided for the guest, or we may, with entire propriety, take our own soap. In your list, the towel is the chief offender, for your hostess (especially since she is your daughter) might wonder at your apparent questioning of her provision for guests.

Greeting the Minister

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In what way should a girl of 15, who is active in church work, acknowledge the greeting of a minister who belongs to the same church, when he passes in his car, honks and waves his hand? Is it improper to wave my hand in return?

INTERESTED.

If this very young lady smiles cordially and bows, she would be making the well-bred and courteous return of this greeting.

Let's go to ISALY'S

"Let's have an ISALY store in Crafton," wrote* Mr. H——, a Crafton resident, just a few weeks ago.

"For the past few years I've been eating Isaly's Ice Cream at your many stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity, and for the past few weeks I've been reading your advertisements in the newspapers. Crafton is not in your list of stores. The nearest stores are in Carnegie and Dormont and Mt. Lebanon, and that's quite a drive, to say nothing of quite a walk.

"Won't you keep Crafton in mind when determining the location of future stores?"

And we thank you. It made us feel good to know that you think our stores such a service to their communities . . . and that you want one in yours.

KERR ON STUMP LAUDS CITY'S FINANCES

City Controller James P. Kerr went on the stump last night with the Republican city ticket and corroborated the assertions of Mayor John S. Herron and members of City Council that the financial standing of the city was sound, with its securities far above par.

Dr. Kerr appeared at a series of North Side meetings, climaxing his tour with a speech in Oliver High School, Twenty-seventh Ward. This was one of the two wards Mayor Herron failed to carry in the primary, and he as well as Dr. Kerr and other candidates noted this with a plea that fights within the party be dropped for unity in the general election.

Hugh F. McKnight, North Side hardware man, and candidate for Council in the primary on the Mackrell ticket, presided at the Oliver school meeting and asked the audience for support for the whole ticket.

The Mayor denied that relief money had been used politically by the city, asserting that 70 per cent of the sum expended had gone for wages. He said that men who had lost their salaries had been employed by the city to keep them from going on welfare rolls, while others had been put to work on recommendation of relief agency heads.

County Judge Frank A. Pickarski asked support for the entire Republican ticket. In other meetings speakers made a special plea for the election of Attorney Charles G. Lane as judge of the Juvenile Court.

WADDELL BACKS HERRON, G. O. P.

Robert N. Waddell, former Carnegie Tech football coach, backed in the primary by the Citizens' League for a Council nomination, yesterday said he would support Mayor John S. Herron and the whole Republican ticket.

Waddell said the people at the primary "expressed their free will and choice by giving Mayor John S. Herron and his supporters an overwhelming majority, continuing:

"Had I been nominated I would have expected the full and complete support of the Republican organization."

In the primary Mr. Waddell received the highest vote on the Citizens' League ticket, with the exception of William A. Magee.

John D. Nuskay, East End garage man, a Council candidate in the primary, also declared for Herron, and asked his friends to vote for the Mayor.

Dr. F. H. Frederick, North Side Republican leader, reiterating his support for Mayor Herron and the Republican nominees, said he was particularly interested in the election of Charles G. Lane as judge of Juvenile Court.

JUVENILE COURT CANDIDATES' STAND

Charles G. Lane, Jr., Republican, and Gustav L. Schramm, Democrat, today offer the following statements in support of their candidacies for judge of Juvenile Court. This continues a Sun Telegraph series in which mayoralty and councilmanic candidates' stand on issues of the campaign have already been printed.

Charles G. Lane, Jr.

To my mind there are four major points for the electors to consider in reference to the Juvenile Court judgeship to which I aspire as the Republican nominee.

1—The imperative necessity of establishing and maintaining the court on a plane that will merit the approval of all men and women including members of social service agencies that demand the same consideration for wards of this court as they give their own children or those of their relatives.

2—A sound and business-like administration of the finances of the court.

3—Personnel.

4—Legal and domestic experience of the successful aspirant.

I favor a complete reorganization of the activities that have obtained in seeking the welfare of the children that will come under the jurisdiction of the court.

It will be my purpose if elected, to treat these children not as items merchandise or exhibits, but as the most precious of human beings who will be inspired to grow from tender, tiny plants to upright, useful citizens.

I believe that unless circumstances make it imperative, the Juvenile Court should never take a child from the arms of its other.

I will demand if elected that a system be installed that will make available to all persons at all times just how and where the more than $500,000 appropriated from the taxpayers' money is spent in the operation of this court.

My plan includes the availability at all times of an official statement showing that the taxpayers' money is being spent honestly and economically.

I pledge, if elected, that no person will be appointed to any position within the jurisdiction of this court who is not of the highest integrity and proved efficiency in the position they seek.

I submit for the electors' consideration my membership with the Allegheny County bar and my situation in life as a father and a soldier in the United States Army.

I have been in active practice as a lawyer for 13 years. A courtroom affords the best training for the observance of human emotions and I believe that my experience as a trial lawyer coupled with my natural inclinations insure sympathetic consideration for unfortunate juveniles.

I have served as attorney for the Workmens' Compensation Board seeking at all times justice for injured workmen or their widows and children. During another period I was an assistant county solicitor and always sought justice for citizens.

I am the father of a child who like myself was raised on the North Side in districts thickly populated by families of the laboring class. My environment has made it impossible for me to be other than kind and charitable to children lacking the opportunities for proper development.

I believe the judge of Juvenile Court should temper law with mercy and human understanding, realizing that he is not dealing with criminals but with children acutely sensitive to gentle treatment who can easily be trained to become good men and women.

When a child, through delinquency, is taken from its mother, I would try to cure any consequent resentment by constant kindness and intelligent direction.

Gustav L. Schramm

The fundamental purpose of the Juvenile Court is the welfare of the dependent, neglected and delinquent children of the county. The court should be informal and friendly to win the confidence and co-operation of each child for its own good.

In the court's work there should be two main divisions, the corrective and the preventive. The corrective work has consumed much of the Juvenile Court's time in the past.

To help a child it is necessary to find out the real cause of the trouble. Just as a physician must diagnose an illness before he can treat it, so the court must be able to go behind the act of the child, such as lying, stealing, truancy, stubbornness, running away or destroying property and find out what is wrong.

It must always be remembered that each child has its own personality, background and development; it is a separate human being.

Therefore, to do good work with children in trouble, we must have a court and staff with the combination of the warm understanding heart and the calm trained mind.

The Juvenile Court should do everything possible to prevent the detention of DEPENDENT children in institutions that are conducted for DELINQUENTS.

The court should order institutional care for any child only as a last resort, after efforts at natural home supervision or probation have been unsuccessful, and it should be the policy of the court to get children back into their own homes as soon as circumstances permit.

To safeguard the health of its wards, the court should order not only an initial medical examination, but a periodic checkup on all children under its jurisdiction.

Since dependent children form a large percentage of those coming into the court, it must have adequate investigation and supervision of homes to protect the children and to see that each child is treated as a normal member of a normal family.

The judge himself should know, by unannounced personal visits, of the condition of the homes where the children live who are under his care.

The new Juvenile Court should not be content with attempting to repair damage done.

By having its information concerning its work readily available, it can play a leading role in the community's long-range child welfare program, involving the home, the neighborhood, the school, the playground and the social agency.

Its work should not stop at its own doors. Prevention must be the watchword of the future. It will save lives and money.

All of the court's work should be conducted at minimum cost to the taxpayers but it is poor economy to skimp in the care and protection of children, only to have the poor board or a prison support them as adults.

Where officers and workers in the Juvenile Court staff have demonstrated conscientiousness and ability, they should be assured of the security of their positions. Where there is clear evidence of neglect, indifference or incompetence, they should not be continued in the service.

A permanent organization of public-spirited citizens, advisory to the court, all well informed on child welfare, would not only guarantee high character of the court itself, but would stimulate and assist the development of an enlightened and effective Juvenile Court program.

Obviously, the judge should be free from political entanglements and prejudices and able to work for the children alone, with responsibility only to them and the community.

PEACE COUNCIL AIDS SCHRAMM

The Council for Peace and Social Action, representing 30 men's, women's and clergymen's groups, has indorsed the candidacy of Gustav L. Schramm for Juvenile Court, it was announced today.

Recommending immediate action by its opponents, the statement said:

"We heartily indorse Mr. Schramm as the best fitted candidate for this office, and the only candidate who, if elected, will give all consideration to the wards of the court, and no time to political favors."

The council, of which the Rev. Herbert B. Hudnut is chairman, announced it will hold a two-day conference on peace and social action here, November 10 and 11.

'Blue Eagle' Used As Party Name Despite Ban

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson's ban on the use of the Blue Eagle and the NRA letters as party names will not affect local politics, although there are three Blue Eagle parties pre-empted for the election Tuesday. A telegram from Johnson was received at the Election Bureau yesterday.

Assistant County Solicitor Ralph H. Frank said that in Penn, Stowe and Forward townships voters have pre-empted the name "Blue Eagle Party," but the bird's picture is not used, or are the letters NRA. Ballots for the townships, he said, have been printed and cannot be changed.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Big Saving! No Cooking! So Easy!

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It takes but a moment to prepare, and costs very little, but it positively has no equal for quick, lasting relief.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with granulated sugar syrup, made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's so easy! Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made, and you get four times as much for your money. It never spoils and children love its taste.

This simple mixture soothes and heals the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, the most reliable healing agent for severe coughs. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Maltese Ministry Expelled in Dispute

VALETTA, Malta, Nov. 2. (AP.)—Gen. Sir David Campbell, governor of Malta, dismissed the Nationalist ministry headed by Sir Hugo Misfud today as the result of differences between the Maltese and the British authorities over the question of language teaching in the schools.

The Nationalists demand the restoration of the teaching of Italian in elementary classes, where only Maltese and English are taught.

Smith Urges G. O. P. Fill Safeguard Role

The primary responsibility of the national Republican party is to accept its minority role and stand guard against abuses of unprecedented governmental power resulting from emergency measures, Judge Ralph H. Smith declared at a Republican rally in Uniontown last night.

However, while it is advanced as an emergency measure, the NRA deserves whole-hearted support, he said.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO RUN 308 AT BILLIARDS

ERICH HAGENLOCHER, twice 18.2 balkline billiard champion of the world. Healthy nerves have carried him through stern international competition to many titles. (In oval) Mr. Hagenlocher says: "For successful billiard play, watch your nerves! I've smoked Camels for years. They're milder. They never upset my nervous system."

TALKING IT OVER calls for more Camels. Steady smoking reveals the true quality of a cigarette. Camels keep right on tasting mild, rich and cool... no matter how many you smoke.

A MATCHLESS BLEND

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

"I know of no sport," says Erich Hagenlocher, "that places a greater strain on the nerves than tournament billiards. The slightest inaccuracy can ruin an important run. One simple rule for success is, 'Watch your nerves!' I have smoked Camels for years. I like their taste better. Because they're milder, they never upset my nervous system, and believe me, I smoke plenty."

There is a difference between Camel's costlier tobaccos and the tobaccos used in other popular cigarettes. You'll notice the difference in taste and in mildness—and Camels never jangle your nerves. You can prove this yourself. Begin today!

MAGNOLIA PATTERN 562

Easy Pattern to Cut

When a quiltmaker is looking for a quilt that is so lovely in design that she will be proud to claim it as her handiwork, and yet at the same time wants a pattern that is very simple to do, she selects the Magnolia. With but one exception, all the pattern pieces are the same width, which to the quiltmaker means that the material can be cut in strips, and the patches cut off as needed—a saving of much time and labor. Not alone is the pattern an easy one to cut, but it is a very simple block to make.

Pattern 562 comes to you with complete, simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

JUNIOR PATROL

Do you walk straight, fellows? In other words, do you have a good carriage? Is your head up? Is your back straight? Do you walk with your toes pointed straight ahead, not toed out?

A good way to tell is to walk in the sand or on soft ground, and then to look back at your own tracks. Your footsteps should be parallel—pointed straight ahead and not with the feet put down at an ugly angle.

It's healthy to walk straight, fellows, and the smart fellow will try to do it right. And how about asking your friends what they think of your posture? Do you slouch in your seat? You shouldn't, fellows, and if you catch yourself doing it you should resolve to straighten up right away. Walk and sit like soldiers because that's the healthy way to do it.

Now here's a letter today from Paul Ruffner, who lives at 7108 Chaucer street, Pittsburgh. He writes:

"I am making up a club and have six members. I am sending their pledges for their buttons. The club members are always reading the Junior Patrol every day in the Sun-Telegraph and they tune in on the radio over WCAE, and they say that it is wonderful. The boys are waiting for their buttons—my, but they sure are asking me if I sent in the Junior Patrol pledges."

Well, we're glad, too, Paul, that you have sent in your pledges and we will send the buttons right away now. You know, don't you, Paul, that you only need four more members to have a real Junior Patrol now, don't you? Let us know when you get them, and we will send the captain an armband.

And now here's a dandy letter from Helen Charles, of 325 Darsie street, Pittsburgh. She says:

"We have a safety patrol at school and I am one of them. We have a club every once a month and every member of the patrol is there right on the dot. I have 35 members in the club and they are truthful and honest. I am the president of the club. We get the Sun-Telegraph every night and I make a dash after the page your comics are on after Mother and Dad see it. I am in the living room writing this. Grandma is sitting in the corner spinning and the little cat is running after the ball of yarn. He is my pet called 'Chubby.' My brother is reading a primer and he is lying by the fire place."

How about getting some of your other members to send their pledges for buttons now, Helen? Then you could have a real Junior Patrol with an armband for the captain. We'll bet "Chubby" is a cute little cat.

THE FIRST SOCIETY DEBUTANTE OF NOVEMBER

MISS ANNE HAMILTON, DAUGHTER OF THE DONALD C. HAMILTONS, PICTURED AT HER DEBUT LUNCHEON AT FOX CHAPEL

Debs will have to do their Christmas shopping early, for there'll be little time for them to hunt bargains as the holidays come nearer. For the late November and December calendars are all a-glitter with deb entertainments.

The John G. Frazers will give a dinner in the Pittsburgh Golf Club December 21 for four buds, Margaret Robinson, Margery Hillman, Florence Willock and Mary Edwards.

Saturday, December 30, will be marked by a small dinner-dance Miss Helen Clay Frick and Mrs. Norman C. McLeod will give in the Pittsburgh Club honoring debs Adelaide Frick, from the East, and Gwendolen Holmes.

Louise Collier will be honored at two more fetes, a luncheon Mrs. Robert Keeney will give in the Edgeworth Club November 24, and at a New Year's eve buffet supper at which she'll share honors with Mary Edwards. The hostess will be Miriam Hunter, who'll entertain in the home of her parents, the J. Fletcher Hunters.

Fetes for Debutante

And then there's a new debutante—Grace Dodge Rea, daughter of the James Childs Reas' Woodland road.

Her parents will present their Vassar-student daughter at a dinner in their home December 22, preceding the ball the William M. Robinsons will give in the Pittsburgh Golf Club to present their daughter, Margaret.

Shortly after the last guest left Calvary Episcopal Church yesterday after attending the wedding of Isabel Friebertshauser and Dr. John Frederick Sexauer which took place at 4 o'clock, guests began to arrive at the same church for the wedding of Betty Tinker and Meredyth Hanway Ewing.

2 Wed in Calvary

Betty's marriage took place at 5:30 o'clock with the Rev. Dr. Edwin J. Van Etten, the rector, as officiant.

She's a daughter of the Uriah W. Tinkers, South Dallas avenue, and Mr. Ewing is the son of Mrs. John K. Ewing, Jr., and of the late Mr. Ewing, of Bellport, L. I.

All her attendants were little girls, ranging from the junior bridesmaid to the flower-girl age.

The bride's gown of ivory velvet had a square neck-line, a dropped shoulder line and long, tight fitting sleeves. Her skirt in back had a brief train, headed by a row of velvet rosettes. From the shoulders fell a court train of white satin having a panel of old lace and her veil cascaded from twisted folds of tulle forming a halo. On either side of her face was a circlet of orange blossoms and lace. She carried calla lilies.

Velvet Gown

All her attendants, Betty Herr, daughter of the junior Thacker Herrs; Carol Wainwright Hardy, daughter of the Paul S. Hardys, both her nieces; Mary Singer, daughter of the Robert Singers, and niece of the bridegroom; Patricia Prescott, daughter of the Joseph Parson Prescotts, of Holyoke, Mass., and two four-year-olds, Eleanor Ann Foster, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George Foster, and Nancy Burchfield, daughter of the junior Albert Horne Burchfields, wore similar costumes.

Their adapted Kate Greenaway frocks of peach taffeta had brief puffed sleeves and long skirts having a deep taffeta ruffle at the hem-line and narrow ruffles placed from neck-line to hem-line. The little Hardy and Herr girls had Juliet caps of brown velvet, trimmed with rolls of twisted velvet; all the others had brown velvet poke bonnets.

Peach Frocks

Their strapped slippers were of bronze velvet, and they carried brown velvet muffs on which were pinned roses to match their frocks and African daisies.

George Faunce, of New York, was best man, and Herbert Thacker Herr, Jr., David Seiber, George Calhoun, Pressly McCance, Paul S. Hardy, Dr. Harold Kipp, James Bovard and Robert Barnett were ushers.

A reception and wedding dinner followed in the Tinker home.

Ben Avon Club Doubles, Adds Three Departments

In addition to having doubled its membership within a year, the Ben Avon Women's Club has added three departments—dramatic, under Mrs. C. Herbert Spencer; garden, with Mrs. G. Webster Belden as chairman, and literary and arts, Mrs. W. R. Speer, chairman.

The club is to hear an address by the Rev. Dr. Samuel L. Goldenson on November 14.

Betty Griffith Betrothed to R. C. Roeder

Mr. and Mrs. Hector J. Griffith, of California avenue, North Side, announce th engagement of their daughter, Miss Betty Griffith, to Richard Carlyle Roeder, of Aliquippa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Roeder, of Chicago.

Mr. Griffith attended Northwestern University and is a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity.

* * *

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Moses, of Phillips avenue, to Myer Racusin, of Bartlett street, took place yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Racusin left for Chicago, and after November 10, will be at home in Kamin street, Squirrel Hill.

National Park Alumnae Luncheon Tomorrow

The National Park Seminary Alumnae Association will have a bridge-luncheon in the Hotel Schenley tomorrow afternoon at 12:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Elmer Thomas, Mrs. J. C. Saylor and Mrs. J. C. Klinginsmith were hostesses.

Gossipy Chat With Nancy Jane

The same decorations were used for the two weddings yesterday afternoon in Calvary Episcopal Church except that fresh white chrysanthemums replaced those used at the first wedding.

* * *

Many a member of the families breathed freely again when the two little 4-year-old flower girls, Eleanor Foster and Nancy Burchfield, made the march to and from the altar safely yesterday at the Tinker-Ewing wedding. At the rehearsal, they had several tumbles.

As a reward for their success, Mrs. T. M. Jones III, society woman associated with a children's specialty shop in one of the department stores, gave them lollipops as soon as they reached the vestibule after the ceremony. One little girl tried to eat hers, cellophane wrapper and all!

NOTES ON MAKE-UP: Few women of the social set wear rouge, and none use it in the day-time. They nearly all use a bit of lipstick. They are not so conservative about nail polish—many use the colored, but none display the dark red variety.

Elinor H. Tucker, C. D. Scully, Jr., Wed in May

Although they were married May 27 in Chicago by the Rev. Robert Merrifield, of Meadville Theological Seminary, the Richard Blackburn Tuckers, Morewood avenue, are just announcing today the marriage of their daughter, Elinor Hilliard Tucker, to Cornelius Decatur Scully, Jr., son of the Cornelius Decatur Scullys, Howe street.

Because the bridegroom became suddenly ill after the ceremony, the marriage was made known only to members of the two families and close friends. Their betrothal was announced in April.

The bride's a Smith graduate; the bridegroom, a Harvard man, both belonging to the class of 1930. They expect to spend a belated honeymoon at Fountain Park, the Scully family summer home at Shepherdstown, Va.

JEWELS GET A NEW DEAL IN 1933

By PRUNELLA WOOD

LOTS of family jewels are being taken from their depression hideaways these months, and many of them will probably get new settings for themselves before the season is on. There is many a sartorial tip in the uses of such pieces, tips that are valuable to the woman who has not yet begun to collect heirloom pretties.

It is something more than a hunch that the reason for the very smartest toilettes being acutely simple is that they were originally designed for women who build their clothes around their jewels. And it is something quite encouraging to learn that many of these key costume jewels are lovely, less precious stones that have been jacked up to take a place in the sartorial sun by settings that are modern treatments of smaller, more precious substances, which makes a stunning combination. Among these more attainable jewels worth looking at are zircons, cat's eyes, and spinels which offer large masses of clear color to be set off by small diamonds and platinum.

(Copyright 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

Left, a bracelet, necklace and ring ensemble of rubies and diamonds and an utterly simple gown.

A clip for the ear, not a ring, is shown upper left. It is set with baguette diamonds and emeralds. The two rings are an engraved ruby, truly antique, and a star sapphire in modernistic diamond setting. The watch is something new—a diamond and platinum affair that has a clear emerald in place of the usual crystal watch face. Note the consistent use of new architectural designs for valuables as old as history.

"Wynne Gibson's Beauty Secret helped me to become really popular"...says MARJORIE MAW, of Cincinnati

1 "It's no fun watching other people have all the good times! Men liked me but I was being 'left out' of things. It made me simply heartsick."

2 "One week-end I visited a married friend and suddenly I realized how gloriously lovely her skin was compared to mine, and she is five years older! 'Why not take Wynne Gibson's advice . . . use her beauty care as I do?' she said."

RKO-Radio Star

The girl with a radiantly lovely, smooth skin is bound to be popular. I've found Lux Toilet Soap keeps my complexion exquisitely soft and smooth. It's a simple care, but it really brings skin loveliness!
Wynne Gibson

3 "I started using Lux Toilet Soap at once. From the first I liked its perfume, its exquisite lather, its gentleness. Then I noticed my skin was taking on new loveliness!"

4 "Day by day my complexion grew more radiant . . . soft and clear. I was simply overjoyed—and does it make a difference to have a nice skin! I found out! Men certainly like soft smooth skin!"

Read what a Scientist Told Hollywood Stars about their Beauty Soap!

"Skin grows old-looking through losing certain elements Nature puts in skin to keep it youthful. Gentle Lux Toilet Soap, so readily soluble, actually contains such precious elements—checks their loss from the skin." FOR every TYPE OF SKIN.

Through the Spyglass Viewing the New

Funny how Indian Summer descended upon us once again this week . . . but in spite of the mist on its lens, our spyglass never faltered! Found you as many items as usual and good ones, too! Read them below . . . and then call Grant 6500 and ask for the Spyglass to find the names of the shops listed here. Or send a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

And now a jubilant hurrah about the wearables we've found at a smart shop in town! To tell the truth . . . we owe this shop an apology, because up until now we always thought it MUCH too highty-tighty . . . and here it was one-of-us all the time!

Anyway . . . we saw a dress there, which, while not "chicken" . . . was nevertheless a pleasantly youthful model for the older, stouter woman! Of knitted chenille . . . which does things to itself by forming lacy sleeves and yoke with scarf end at the throat (transformable into a cowl neck or choked-up appearance) $19.75.

Much tootling 'round in the past few years about dry shampoos and what they will do for hair . . . if not TO it! Therefore, we take it upon ourselves to suggest a brand new one . . . exclusive with one of the stores, and much in demand! It has taken its originator 2 whole years to perfect it . . . and it is supposed to be the dandiest thing going! Costs $1!

Imagine bracelets in SIZES . . . to fit slender or less slender wrists? That's what's happened now . . . and the selection of these brain children ranges from 5 bangles for 50c down to 4 for— . . . 3 for— 2 for— . . . it all depending on the size of your wrist! (It must pay to starve!) Red . . . brown . . . blue!

Nothing worse than a house with bare looking windows staring at one like so many vacant eyes! So we hasten to burble into your ear the news about the Filet Curtains we have raked up for you. They're the 8-point filet . . . in ecru or ivory . . . 35 to 37 inches wide and the regular 2¼ yards long . . . in seven styles . . . and can't be bought elsewhere in this man's town for a cent less than $2 (mostly more, for that matter). This store has them for $1.50 . . . and when they're gone will have to pay that WHOLESALE for them! So, do you get the signals . . . or must we sing it to you?

TAPESTRY TALK GIVEN HERE BY EXPERT

By PENELOPE REDD

Lorentz Kleiser, of New York, who lectured last night at the Pittsburgh Architectural Club on the history of hand-woven tapestries before club members and the Pittsburgh Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, is also the pre-eminent modern designer of tapestries.

Kleiser, one of the greatest living authorities on tapestries, possesses a rare collection. His own work is in the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York and in other museum collections. He is also one of the few admitted to honorary membership in the American Institute of Architects.

Born in the United States of Scandanavian forbears, Kleiser studied painting in Munich, Paris and Rome. Dissatisfied with the medium, he turned to tapestry designing which also required knowledge of an exacting technique. He already possessed many examples of Fifteenth and Sixteenth Century tapestries, which he dissected to learn the old ways of weaving. He actually re-discovered the Coptic method of weaving fine and coarse.

Twenty years ago, he set up his looms in Edgewater, N. J., and began weaving in the style not followed since the Sixteenth Century. He uses cochineal bugs for red, fostic moss for yellow, indigo for blue, walnut for brown, logwood for black, practically the palette of the old weavers.

Kleiser has flexibility in his choice of designs. Frequently he reconstructs tapestries from historic fragments. His series suggestive but no imitative of early Arras with early Renaissance figures is very handsome. His use of tapestry for such subjects as Lief Erickson landing on the New England coast, the broad Ohio in West Virginia, Fort Pitt, and others prove there is life in this old medium in our own day. Kleiser has made some delightful tapestries from designs by Dr. Andrey Avinoff, director of Carnegie Museum.

GUNMAN FLEES AS SHOTS FLY

CHICAGO, Nov. 2. — (AP.) — Verne C. Miller, the one-time South Dakota sheriff who turned gunman and became one of the most hunted men in the country, was still at large today after escaping the gunfire of federal agents who traced him to a Chicago hideout.

In custody, however, was his wife. She was seized at the Sheridan Road Apartment Hotel a few minutes after Miller made a spectacular dash from the place last night while machine guns rained bullets all around him.

Miller is wanted for the Kansas City Union Station massacre of last June in which four officials and Frank Nash, an escaped prisoner en route to Leavenworth prison, were killed.

Four Separate Ballots For Voters Tuesday

By MARK SHIELDS

Perhaps voters do not realize it, but in every district in the city and county there will be four separate paper ballots for their consideration next Tuesday.

Mr. Shields

One bears the names of the candidates for office, city and county.

A second contains the 12 constitutional amendments.

The third deals with the question of whether the blue laws shall be modified to permit baseball and football Sunday afternoons.

The fourth contains the names of the 15 candidates for and a like number against repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The sample ballot printed in the Sun-Telegraph yesterday showed the manner in which the names of candidates for office will appear on the ballot in the city. Not much further explanation of this is needed, as from now until election day considerable explanation will be made by the candidates themselves.

However, due to the danger through unfamiliarity with the other ballots, and in order to save voters time when they enter the polling booth, it might be well to detail to them now what the other ballots will look like.

The ballot for the 12 state constitutional amendments will be a long one. Each amendment is numbered, and each has a summarized statement of its purposes, as clear as is possible in the limited space available. No effort will here be made to explain or interpret each amendment, that having been done last week in a series of stories in the Sun-Telegraph.

* * *

Blue Law Ballot Extremely Simple

To the right of the explanation of each amendment will be squares marked "yes" and "no," and the voter will register his sentiment by placing a cross mark in the appropriate square. Voting intelligentiy on this ballot will require considerable time unless the voter before entering the booth has made some effort to familiarize himself with the meaning of the amendments.

The Blue Law ballot is extremely simple. The question as it will appear on the ballot reads:

"Do you favor the conduct, staging and playing of baseball and football games regradless of whether an admission charge is made or incidental thereto, or whether labor or business is necessary to conduct, stage or operate the same, between the hours of 2 and 6, post meridian, on Sunday"—meaning 2 and 6 p. m.

In squares at the right of the question will be "yes" and "no" in blocks with a place for the voter to make the mark recording his preference.

There is no confusion whatever on the question, and voting should be speedy. It should be thoroughly understood that each municipal sub-division, borough, township or city, decides only for itself, and its vote has no influence on any territory beyond its borders. If the voters of Wilkinsburg say "no," there won't be any Sunday sport there. If the voters of Pittsburgh say "yes," then there will be sport in Pittsburgh, and the Wilkinsburgers who wish can come to town. That's just an illustration of the autonomy each community has on this subject. There is positively no statewide referendum, a subject about which there is some misunderstanding.

* * *

One Mark Votes for Or Against Repeal

The repeal ballot, of course, is a statewide referendum, with 15 delegates to be appointed to a convention which will gather in Harrisburg December 5 and carry out the will of the majority of the voters of the commonwealth.

There will be two rows of candidates, the 15 picked by the repeal forces and the 15 in opposition. Over one column will appear the words "Delegates favor ratification," and directly beneath the word "Repeal" in parentheses. In the opposite column will be the words "Delegates oppose ratification," and parentheses containing the words "Against repeal." That makes it clear to the voter what he is voting for. The words "Repeal" and "Against repeal" remove any confusion or uncertainty.

Beneath the 15 names will be 15 blank spaces. There you may write in the names of any person or persons you may prefer to the delegate candidates on the ballots. In order to vote directly for or against repeal, without respect to the personality of the delegates—and the personality is unimportant—you need make only one cross. If you wish to write in names then you must mark a cross opposite each, as well as each printed candidate up to 15. Voting for more than 15 delegates invalidates the ballot.

The simplest system is one cross for or against repeal, and it should be a function requiring only a second.

5 HUNTERS DIE ON FIRST DAY; 50 INJURED

Heart Attacks Claim 3 Lives; Millvale Man Victim

With five persons dead and more than 50 injured, some seriously, Pennsylvania's small game season entered its second day today.

The only fatality in Allegheny County was Matthew Mach, 35, of Lincoln avenue, Millvale, who died of heart failure late yesterday while hunting near Wexford.

WOMAN MAY DIE

Among the injured were two women—Mrs. Earl Meinart, 28, of Pine Creek road, shot as she hunted near Wexford, and Mrs. H. R. Hessinger, of 33 Pasadena street, Mt. Washington, showered by bullets while driving near Elizabeth. Mrs. Meinart may die.

While hunting near Waynesburg bullets felled Eli Morris, 45, of Pittsburgh, and Wilford Burns, 22, Waynesburg College student.

The Rev. T. R. Husler, pastor of the Evangelical Church, in West Milton, was shot in the throat.

CLAIRTON MAN SHOT

Other accidents reported included Russell Weigle, 27, 1043 Pennsylvania avenue, Clairton, shot in right leg; Richard Wallace, 34, New England Hollow, shot in the left arm and right side; Homer Dawson, 22, of Carrick, wounds in the right leg; Frank Cult, 32, Vestaburg, fractured left ankle in fall from cliff at Maple Glen; Harry Noel, 19, Adara, shot in side while hunting near Greensburg.

Dr. Theodore B. Appel, state secretary of health, issued another warning to hunters to protect themselves against tularemia, a disease akin to fever. Trace of the disease have been found in some rabbits killed in Lancaster County and Dr. Appel urges hunters to take the greatest care in dressing the game.

WELFARE NEED HELD URGENT

The total amount of money available from federal and state sources for Allegheny County is sufficient only for food and relief and a small supply of shoes, George P. Mills, director of the County Relief Board, said yesterday in a radio address.

He was speaking in behalf of the Welfare Fund drive for $2,837,000. He said, in part:

"We are entering the winter with the highest relief load in history for this season of the year. Thousands of families have been existing in hand-to-mouth fashion for two or more years through no fault of their own, and there is consequently greater necessity than ever before to preserve as much of the health, morale and human values of these thousands of people as we still have a chance to preserve."

Mr. Mills pointed out that although the federal act appropriating unemployment relief funds is broad in the items of relief which may be granted, the lack of matching funds available from the state had so limited the total amount of money available from both sources that only food and a small supply of shoes could be provided from these sources.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Nov. 2. To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Up in Dingville, Ia., named for the great cartoonist Ding, and sometimes called Des Moines, the farmers and the governors are in convention. It don't take a convention to tell the farmers are in a bad plight. The speeches were all made by farm leaders.

Will Rogers

Now what is a farm leader? I was raised on a farm, we had farm hands, farm hired girls, farm horses, farm mortgages (not many) but I never saw a farm that raised farm leaders. This leader thing is a type of growth that has sprung up since everybody started joining organizations, not only in farming, but in everything.

In the old days if you was smart enough to be in a business, you was smart enough to tend to your own business, without listening to a leader make a speech.

Yours for less leaders and less followers of leaders.

Yours, WILL

WAGNER NAME CLAIM HIT

The answer to Honus Wagner's suit against E. L. Braunstein & Co., filed by Attorney Leonard S. Levin, declares the defendants have no personal knowledge that Wagner's name "became a household word throughout the field of baseball."

Wagner, in Common Pleas Court, sued for an accounting from the company, for alleged violation of contract, and to stop alleged misuse of his name.

The defendants declared the name had been sold them by the trustee in bankruptcy for the Honus Wagner Sporting Goods Company; that while under contract with the Honus Wagner Company, their present concern, he had engaged in the sale of stock in another company of similar name, and later resigned during the life of his contract.

Wagner's new concern, the Wagner-Traynor Company itself is now in bankruptcy.

The defendants, admitting agreements with Wagner for the use of his name, denied they owed him $8,000 as claimed.

BLAST VICTIMS IN HOSPITALS

Two men were in hospitals today with injuries suffered in a dynamite blast in a quarry at Wexford yesterday.

They were Oscar Swinderman, 33, of Wexford, and Robert Huffmyer, 20, of Taylor avenue, Avalon. Surgeons at St. John's Hospital amputated Swinderman's left forearm.

Huffmyer, suffering a probable fracture of the knee and burns on the face, is in Suburban General Hospital.

The explosion resulted when a drill struck a charge that had failed to explode during blasting earlier in the day, county detectives said.

CHARGE WARD LACKS CLOTHES

County investigators checking on the Juvenile Court foster homes made additional reports to Chief Investigator Leo A. Riordan today, one of them complaining about an alleged undesirable foster home in Imperial. The home in question adjoins a brick yard, the investigators report.

According to Riordan, a 15-year-old ward has been placed with his grandmother. The aged woman and boy occupy the house with a deaf and duumb woman and a 12-year-old girl.

The investigators report that the grandmother is given $4 a week for maintenance of the youth, but that the maintenance is not proper.

They also charge Juvenile Court authorities have not properly supplied clothing for the lad and that all he has are the work pants, a work shirt and an old pair of shoes, which he wears daily.

Boy's Yarn Makes Him Hero, But It Boomerangs

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Nine-year-old Tommy Baker had toppled from a hero's pedestal today after fooling police with a story that he had walked 125 miles from Clarksburg.

Tommy admitted he ran away from St. Joseph's Orphanage in suburban Elm Grove.

Found wandering near the city, he told police he trudged from Clarksburg without food after becoming lost.

3 FAKE SLEUTHS HOLD UP STORE ON NORTH SIDE

Take Cash, $300 Ring From Proprietor, Flee in Car

Three "early birds" walked into the confectionery store of P. J. Nussbaumer, 56, at 1236 Spring Garden avenue, shortly before 8 o'clock this morning, posed as "officers," held up the place and escaped with money and valuables estimated at $450.

A fourth man sat in the car, Nussbaumer told police. The three implied, by pushing out the pockets of their coats, that they were armed.

Nussbaumer said that he was standing at the door when one of the men approached him and said he was an officer and wanted to find an owner of a dog.

The three then followed him into the store, he said, and forced him and a customer, William Linkenheimer, of 1236 Voskamp street, into a back room. One of the men asked:

"Do you have any 'moony?'"

Nussbaumer said no.

"Well, we'll take that ring."

They pulled a $300 diamond ring off the storekeeper's finger, took $150 in cash from the register and cigaret machine and yelled:

"You can get the ring at No. 13 Police Station."

AUTOGYRO BAN PROBE ASKED

The refusal of the County Commissioners to allow the anti-bonus armada of autogyros to use the County Airport today had brought a request to the Department of Commerce in Washington that the Commisioners' decision be investigated.

The armada was in Pittsburgh Tuesday, flying over Pittsburgh with streaming banners urging that the $50,000,000 bond issue for soldiers be defeated at the election next Tuesday. But the fliers weren't allow to fly from the County Airport; they used Bettis Field.

So today Donald A. Hobart, national vice commander of the American Veterans' Association, which sponsored the armada, along with the National Economy League, awaited in New York a reply to his telegraphed request, in which he said:

"In view of Department of Commerce control over all airports request an investigation as to legality of this procedure on part of airport officials."

CHINESE GIRL'S PLEA FAILED

The Zoning Board of Adjustment has granted a permit to the Three-Hour Laundry Company, Inc., to install a shop at 5825 Forbes street, Squirrel Hill, thus refusing the plea of Miss Lucille Yee Lim, whose father operates a hand laundry in the same block.

Miss Lim asked the board to refuse a permit because her father already had enough competition. Yee Lim runs a laundry at 5835 Forbes street.

DRIVER BEATEN, TAXI STOLEN

Lawrence Stairs, 30, of 319 South Highland avenue, taxicab driver, was slugged, robbed of 45 cents and his cab last night by a "fare," who is believed to have been injured when the cab crashed into a pole in Penn avenue, near Edmond street.

A short time later Kenneth Simpson, a special patrolman in the Liberty avenue district, gave chase to a suspect, who leaped to the running board of a passing automobile. Simpson said he was prevented from jumping onto the same automobile by the fugitive, who leveled a gun at him, but continued pursuit into the downtown district where he lost the suspect in traffic.

Noses Against Wheel, Shoulders To Grindstone

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

When you are up in trouble to your chin you shouldn't make waves.

That's what the half-baked agitators are doing. They've mixed up all the rules for cooperation.

They have their noses to the wheel and their shoulders to the grindstone. The government cannot help a man who won't help himself. And your corner agitator ain't helping anybody by shouting from the soap box tops.

When you're on a raft you should be buying lumber and not selling it.

It speaks badly for any nation when an appeal to patriotism harvests nothing but a crop of its own echoes.

All we have got so far are bickerings, squabbles, strikes and selfishness. Outside of that, it's a nice day.

It proves that every man adheres to the pro rata formula:

"First comes me, then comes me again and then comes you."

LANE ASSAILS VETS AS 'LAZY;' HAYES TALKS

National Leader Hurls Two-Barrel Attack At Roosevelt

Speaking in language they understood, Charles G. Lane, Jr., former county commander of the American Legion excoriated legionnaires for their lack of support for the bonus amendment which will be voted upon at the general election next Tuesday.

The "bombshell" was hurled as the legionnaires assembled in North Side Carnegie Music Hall to listen the their new national commander, Edward A. Hayes, of Decatur, Ill., after his introduction by Lane. Lane said:

"I was told not to talk upon this subject (the bonus) and you know why. But I'm going to talk about it. Now that you have a chance to get it, what have you done? Nothing!

"That's why you as soldiers don't amount to a damn in this country.

"You don't organize and you don't work. You're too damned lazy—you want someone else to do your work for you."

He then urged the veterans to support the proposed Eighth Amendment for $25,000,000 relief bonds, as well as the soldiers' bonus amendment.

HAYES HURLS ATTACK

President Roosevelt was the focal point of a double-barreled charge by Commander Hayes. The two points of disagreement were hospitalization of veterans and recognition of Russia.

Of the first, Commander Hayes said:

"The President came to our national convention in Chicago and gave utterance to a principle which we of the legion, in honesty, believe is diametrically opposed to everything that has ever been the attitude of our government with regard to taking care of our disabled war veterans.

"President Roosevelt said in effect that in his judgment before a veteran should receive hospitalization at the hands of the federal government, he should first go into his community, as a pauper, asking the community in which he lives to give him hospitalization.

"If he is turned down there, then he should go to the state in which he lives and ask the state to give him hospitalization. If he is turned down there, as a matter of last resort, he should go to the government which he had served and ask the government to give him hospitalization."

LEGION'S VIEWPOINT

To this Hayes averred:

"Well, your legion doesn't agree with that. It is the obligation of the federal government to see to it that adequate hospitalization is provided for the man who, when the country needed him, was willing to give his services, his life if necessary, in defense of his country."

"Unalterable opposition" to recognition of Russia, which the President has taken steps to effect, was then voiced by Hayes.

Discussing the reduction of compensation to disabled veterans made by the last Congress, he continued:

"They have taken away a great deal, but I think we can safely say that all of our representatives, and even our enemies, if they understand—and it is the legion's duty to see to it that they do understand—will go along with us on the principle of restoring the status of the service connected case."

He held that hospital facilities should be made available for every honorably discharged veteran who is not reasonably able to take care of his own hospitalization.

Whisky Bubbling Into Barrels at Large Today

DISTILLERS AT LARGE, PA., TODAY BARRELING 200,000 GALLONS; THE FIRST LEGALLY BARRELED HERE IN 12 YEARS

State's 1st Legal Rum Since 1921 Barreled

The first legal whisky to be barreled in Allegheny County since November 21, 1921, will be siphoned into charwood, white oak barrels in the Large distillery today.

After four years in bond, it will be ready for the trade.

Marking the actual resumption of a historic industry, which was diverted into foreign hands 12 years ago, the plant is already geared at a capacity of 6,500 proof gallons a day.

The Large plant, at Large, near West Elizabeth, has been using 1,500 bushels of grain, and 67,000 gallons of mash daily to prepare for the return of the liquor. The first Large rye whisky in Pennsylvania was made on Mt. Washington, in 1796, by John Large, of Philadelphia.

After serving under Gen. George Washington in the Revolution, Large came here and started a distillery on Mt. Washington, and six years later moved it to Large. His descendants directed its destiny for more than 100 years.

The whisky now being produced is made under federal and state medicinal permits authorizing the distillation of 200,000 gallons.

There are approximately 3 gallons to the barrel, and on hand in the Large warehouse now are 46,000 barrels—old stuff.

At the Overholt distillery, at Broad Fork, Fayette County, owned by the National Distillers Corporation also, the capacity 10,000 proof gallons a day.

More than 2,270 bushels grain and 100,000 gallons of are required to provide the

BOMBS SPREAD TERROR IN CUBA

International News Service.

HAVANA, Nov. 2.—The worst night of terrorism in Cuba since the Grau San Martin administration was inducted was climaxed today by a terrific bomb explosion which shattered the offices of the weekly publication Semana.

Three supects, who narrowly escaped death when police and soldiers riddled their automobile with bullets, were arrested.

The owner of Semana is Sergio Carbo, member of the revolutionary junta and student directorate. The fact his establishment was the target was interpreted as a warning that opposition against President Grau San Martin is gaining headway.

During the night 11 bombs exploded, killing one person and injuring eight.

As the terror progressed, soldiers shot into the air to disperse thousands of excited city residents. Numerous street cars were bombed, but no one was hurt in these explosions.

VOTE MACHINE LINK BLAMED

The report of three expert machinists, who examined Allegheny County's voting machines for the Harris investigating committee, today revealed that a link behind a link is the reason the machines cannot be used in the election next week.

The "intermittent" link, the report said, pushes the indorsed candidates' link out of place and makes it possible for manipulators to vote for more than one candidate for the same office.

The experts advised that the installation of a proper type of intermittent link would correct the fault, and urged that one machine be entirely torn down, reassembled with parts changed where needed, and rebuilt.

A cost record should be kept, the report suggested.

The Harris committee sent the report to the Board of County Commissioners today.

Chrysanthemums or Billiards?

After a girl marries, she spends, in most cases, not her own money but her husband's. So far so good. It's when she starts to make the family income meet food bills, rent bills, church, amusement and whatnot bills that the trouble begins for the average bride. The smarter the girl, as a rule, the farther she can make a dollar go. But sometimes a college education doesn't save the family from going into debt, and specifically because she hasn't the knack of MANAGING (budgeting). Girls who have bought their clothes at Harris', over any considerable period of time, usually make excellent household managers. Out of each pay check, they apportion so much for each major expense—food, clothing, shelter, etc.,—and then STAY within that budget. Their clothing is bought on minimum payments spread over an extended period of time, so that they are scarcely missed; while at the same time the wife has accurate check on those clothing expenditures. Our little budget book keeps her acutely aware of her obligations, and over-buying is IMPOSSIBLE, according to agreement. And the same careful, day-by-day control of ALL her expenses will come as naturally to her as does hit-or-miss or "blind" buying to so many others. It will pay every young husband and wife in Pittsburgh to consider the undoubted merits of the budgeting plan which 26 years of experience have evolved at Harris'. Will you have chrysanthemums or billiards?

Due to our low cost expense and highly specialized type of business, NO CHARGE WHATEVER is made for budgeted purchasing at Harris', beyond our usual cash prices.

GUARANTEE: Should you be able to buy merchandise of Harris quality at less than Harris prices, a full refund will be made.

A WEDDING RING IN JUNE....

A SHOVEL IN NOVEMBER

THE thoughtless husband who heats his home with old-fashioned, bulky, smoky fuels, actually sentences his wife, every winter, to six months of dirt and dust and drudgery.

Drudgery is a harsh word—but it is the only one that properly describes the endless running up and down of cellar steps—the discouraging bother and fuss of building and rebuilding fires—the dirty, dusty, grimy task of nursing a balky furnace through a cold spell. You don't have to heat your home this old fashioned way, you know! You can have modern Automatic Gas Heat and with it complete freedom from all furnace tending worries—and, too, your home will have a new cleanliness, and comfort and healthfulness you can get in no other way.

And did you know that you can now enjoy Gas Heat on the new Burner-Rental Plan, without one cent of investment for equipment—with no installation charge—and only a small monthly rental? Call, write, or telephone your Gas Company for a FREE estimate of the cost of Gas Heat for your home, and for details of the unusual Burner-Rental Plan. Or send in the coupon below. There is no obligation. We want you to have the facts.

Read the "Ads" but don't ignore medical opinion

if you want to
—keep bowels regular and comfortable
—make constipated spells rare as colds
—avoid danger of bowel strain

A doctor will tell you that the careless choice of laxatives is a common cause of chronic constipation.

Any hospital offers evidence of the harm done by harsh laxatives that drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and even affect the liver and kidneys.

Fortunately, the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form.

Can Constipation be Corrected?

"Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" say thousands who have followed this sensible medical advice: 1. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Take the dose that you find suited to your system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving regularly without assistance.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the average person's bowels as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time. Why not try it? Some pill or tablet may be more convenient to carry. But there is no "convenience" in any cathartic that's taken so frequently, you must carry it wherever you go!

What is the "Right" Laxative?

In buying any laxative, read the label. Not the claims, but the contents. If it contains one doubtful drug, don't take it. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescriptional preparation in which there are no mineral drugs. By using it, you avoid danger of strain. You can keep the bowels regular, and comfortable. You can make those constipated spells as rare as colds.

How many dimes and quarters are spent on "popular" laxatives! How quickly they count up, as you use more and more of these habit-forming helps! A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin would save you money—and bring you real relief.

Why Doctors give a liquid laxative

The habitual use of irritating salts, or powerful drugs in the highly concentrated form of pills and tablets is risky.

The properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement without discomfort or injury. You need not take a "double dose" a day or two later.

The public can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drugstore.

FIX THAT COLD AND FIX IT RIGHT!

Don't Let It Take Root and Grow!

A cold neglected may be a cold regretted. Don't expose yourself to serious complications. Adopt a sensible treatment of colds. Remember, a cold is an internal infection and as such, calls for internal treatment. Remember, too, a preparation good for half a dozen things besides colds can't be equally effective for colds. A cold calls for a COLD remedy.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is what a cold requires. It is expressly a cold remedy. It is internal and direct. It is complete in effect. It does the four things necessary.

First, it opens the bowels, gently but thoroughly. Second, it combats the cold germs in the system and reduces the fever. Third, it relieves the headache and grippy feeling. Fourth, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack. Anything less than that is taking chances.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is absolutely safe to take. For more than forty years it has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula always keeping pace with Modern Medicine. Every druggist sells Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine, 30c and 60c. Good druggists won't try to talk you into a substitute for the sake of a few pennies extra profit.

When you feel a cold coming on, don't wait or delay or bother with makeshift methods, but go right to your druggist for Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. Always ask for it by full name and look for the letters L B Q stamped on every tablet.

JOHNSON ASKS TEAMWORK IN NRA DRIVE

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON
National Recovery Administrator

The National Industrial Recovery Act asks for co-operation between industry, labor and government as one great team, to preserve the economic health of the nation, and it permits the organization of both industry and labor without which such co-operation would be wholly impossible.

This is a profound change in the economic policy of a great nation. It is the President's own concept. No exponent of economic theory suggested this plan to him. It has been criticized, and nearly all the criticism I have heard springs from misconception. It deserves a clear understanding by every thoughtful man because it is the most intelligent and practical answer to a vital national problem ever conceived and put into execution.

Every citizen has a distinct part to play in that execution, but no man can play any position in a vast teamwork unless he knows both his own part and the purpose of the whole plan.

ORGANIZATION AIM

You cannot have co-operation without that knowledge and you cannot have it without organization. Seven million industrial operations cannot act on a general plan without some system of organization, neither can 40,000,000 individual workers.

This plan is to get complete co-operation by organization — the organization of each great industry and parallel with it the organization of workers in each industry. That is the first and fundamental ideal of NIRA—organization to the ultimate.

In the Pittsburgh district, as everywhere else, you must have teamwork.

But there are danger signals here. The power of organization is immense. A fully organized and unchecked industry could exploit and dominate a whole nation. A fully organized and unchecked labor could do exactly the same. There must be responsibility in each such organization. There must be a check on these great powers.

These vast organizations of industry and of labor must each be responsible to government and each must admit governmental participation and control. These three principles, then—organization—co-operation—governmental participation—are of the very essence of NIRA.

ECONOMIC LUNACY

It is an act of economic lunacy in a country such as this to let anything interfere with the power of our people to own and have and enjoy the maximum of their productive power. There is here every element of the greatest prosperity and human welfare the world has ever seen and the keys to it are two—confidence and balance. It is not a difficult problem—it is rather an easy one, and again I say the secret of it lies in the basic principles of NRA—organization and control of both industry and labor.

That is the key to this economic riddle and this is the critical hour. The events of the near future will demonstrate whether there is, in this people, the power to pull themselves out of the most desperate hole into which this country ever got.

If you act as Americans have usually acted in the few cases where these great responsibilities impended, our future welfare is assured.

BLAST WIPES OUT TOWN

TIVERTON, R. I., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—People of Tiverton Valley, down by the oil works, arose from cots in schoolhouses today and gazed through clouds of black smoke to see if their homes were still there.

They were driven to the hills yesterday by explosions and fires in the New England Terminal Company storage plant that killed at least three men and sent scores of others to hospitals. The damage was estimated at $1,000,000 by fire officials.

Henri A. St. Pierre, 25, of Fall River, Mass., Leslie Hornbeck, 25, of Tulsa, Okla., and Taylor Henshaw, 26, of Venita, Okla., died as a huge tank they were testing with water gave way beneath the pressure. A deluge sent them hurtling to their deaths.

$50,000 Bond Theft Laid to $110 Clerk

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(INS.)—Charged with using as collateral for stock market accounts bonds stolen from the Irving Trust Company, two youthful stock speculators today were held on grand larceny charges.

The pair are Stephen Fragaszy, Jr., and W. H. Christenson, both 23, of Plainfield, N. J. Police said Fragaszy was employed by the trust company as a $110-a-month clerk. Detectives said trust company officers reported between $50,000 and $80,000 in securities were missing.

9 Die in Air Crashes, Blame French Plane

VIENNA, Nov. 2.—(INS.)—A Rumanian army plane crashed and its pilot was killed today, making a total of nine deaths in nine plane crashes in Rumania this week, according to a report from Bucharest.

The report said the Rumanian press charged France as a result of the crashes, with selling old, second-rate airplanes to Rumania.

TODAY RADIO'S BIRTHDAY

Anniversary Broadcast On KDKA

By AIRCASTER

KDKA's thirteenth birthday broadcast tonight from 11:30 to 12:30, carried to listeners the world over, is more than a mere hour's entertainment.

To be sure, the presence of Gov. Pinchot, President Aylesworth of the National Broadcasting Company, and a hundred radio artists mark it as an extraordinary program.

But consider the occasion!

Tonight's Mr. Aylesworth broadcast, originating in Pittsburgh, the birthplace of radio, and heard over an NBC network, commemorates the beginning of all broadcasting—that first program sent out from Pittsburgh 13 years ago tonight.

The listener, not only in the Pittsburgh area who takes his radio for granted, but throughout the most remote reaches of the world—the Arctic adventurer, the foreign missionary, the sailor at sea—may well pause tonight to consider what KDKA, as an individual station and as the trail blazer for all stations, has done for his enjoyment and enlightenment.

Preceding and following the addresses of the Governor, Mr. Aylesworth and Dr. Frank Conrad, whose research made organized broadcasting possible, a gala program of music and drama will be heard from the pioneer station.

Dr. Conrad

Three orchestras, a chorus, vocal trio, quartet and many soloists provide the musical portion of the anniversary broadcast.

A series of dramatic flashbacks trace the progress of voice transmission by wireless, recalling the days of the World War, when the government adopted the use of radio, and recreating the excitement of broadcasting the world's first radio program.

* * *

The unusual stunt of bringing [illegible] three New York mayoralty candidates together on one broadcast and making a real show of [illegible] 'paign is Rudy Vallee's [illegible] ntroduce Messrs. McK[illegible]Guardia and O'Brien dur[illegible] his varieties tonight on WCAE.

The listening audience, which has been uncertain whether studio applause is on the level or manufactured, will hear what organized plaudits sound like, for it is no secret that each of the candidates is bringing along a claque to make the Times Square Theater welkin ring.

* * *

Dick Leibert, the organist, will become a vocalist this week.

* * *

Anthony Frome, the Poet Prince, is about to go theatrical.

Girl Baseball Players in Air Drama

There have been countless broadcasts of baseball games, but never so unusual a contest as that heard over 10 stations today and tomorrow in the dramatization, "Nine Striking Beauties."

The "Nine Striking Beauties" were the famous bloomer girls of the 90s, who traveled from city to city, playing men's teams, attracting great crowds and leaving in their wake a trail of love-smitten admirers, madly jealous home-town girls and sometimes serious riots.

There is high merriment and many a thrill in the drama of the "Nine Striking Beauties," adapted from a story in next Sunday's American Weekly Magazine, and heard over the following stations:

Today—WFBG, Altoona, 3 p. m., and WKBN, Youngstown, 8:15 p. m.

Friday—WSAZ, Huntington, W. Va., 1:30 p. m.; WHBC, Canton, O., 2 p. m.; WALR, Zanesville, 5 p. m.; WJAC, Johnstown, 5:15 p. m.; WOBU, Charleston, W. Va., 5:15 p. m.; WACD, Akron, 7:45 p. m.; WAIU, Columbus, 8 p. m., and WLBW, Erie, 9 p. m.

For COLDS and THROAT TROUBLES

Used in Institutions and Hospitals

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

I really didn't fail the globe trotters when I said no more about the 80-year-old man who was lost.

The paper had a story about him the next day. He was found wandering on the streets, his mind a blank.

Jimmy Marshall, West End, especially wanted to know.

* * *

All that is lacking from the card sent by Edgar McClain, historian of the American Legion Post in Belle Vernon, are a couple of verses of "Mlle. from Armentieres."

The mention that Mrs. Lindbergh was strolling the Rue de la Paix brought back scenes of his first visit there as a buck private.

* * *

A nice letter from Margaret C. On, Wilkinsburg, relative to the appearances of poets and artists on the program.

She liked the Alabama poet presented the other day.

I'll follow your advice and keep on the lookout for any talent that is or finds its way into town.

* * *

For instance, Saturday I will have Floyd Gibbons, the dean of globe trotters, and Philip La Folette, former governor of Wisconsin.

They will be in Pittsburgh attending the Amen Corner dinner in honor of William Furey, retiring president.

Rudy Vallee, Whiteman On Air

Rudy Valee includes chin music in his Variety program over NBC-WCAE tonight at 8, bringing to the microphone the three candidates for the office of Mayor of New York.

Other features of the program include the Siberian Singers, in Russian songs and five comedians.

* * *

Something novel in broadcasting is heard over WCAE at 7:15, when the radio audience listens in on an audition, including the sponsor's remarks about the orchestra and talent, the program director's suggestions and the actual preparation of a broadcast.

On the following evening the audience will hear the finished program.

* * *

Guy Fawkes

Guy Fawkes' Day, named for Britain's big powder and plot man, is commemorated by the Stamp Adventurers over CBS-WJAS at 5:45, when Fawkes' attempt to blow up the English Parliament Building is dramatized.

* * *

An amusing story of citizens' attempts to maintain law and order in the western mining town of Tonopah is dramatized over NBC-KDKA at 9, during the Death Valley Days program.

* * *

Evelyn MacGregor, contralto, makes her debut as a soloist on Andre Kostelanetz's program, heard over WJAS at 9.

Trained Seals On WCAE

John J. Burke, all-around sportsman, is the radio guest of Harry Keck and his Trained Seals during tonight's Sun-Telegraph sports program, heard over WCAE at 7.

The Globe Trotter, voice of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, broadcasts the day's news over WCAE-WJAS at 12:15 and 2:15 p. m. and over WCAE at 6:30 p. m.

New Tunes

Paul Whiteman and his orchestra, playing over NBC-WCAE at 10, introduce a number of new tunes from "Gowns by Roberta," a musical comedy now in rehearsal.

* * *

Fred Webber receives the Davis memorial medal—a gold watch chain pendant bearing an Aladin's lamp and a book in bas relief — and $150.00 in cash — awarded to Pittsburgh's best announcer, during a KDKA broadcast at 10:30.

* * *

Viola Philo gives a song recital over WCAE at 11, accompanied by Joseph Littau's orchestra.

* * *

Details of the KDKA-NBC Anniversary Program, heard tonight at 11:30, appear in another column.

* * *

Phil Spitalny will blossom forth with a three-a-week commercial within the fortnight, presenting his "mello cello" notion.

* * *

Jack Denny seems to be definitely located in Boston, with two NBC programs a week slated for him.

Year-old dress shows how SAFE Chipso is for SILKS
Year-old, Chipso-washed sweater soft and UNSHRUNKEN
Printed rayon UNINJURED by Chipso washing
Blouse and skirt a YEAR OLD—always Chipso-washed
Colors UNFADED in this Chipso-washed dress
Safe Chipso has kept this dress bright for 1½ YEARS!

"My big washes are not hard to do because Chipso soaks the clothes clean," says Mrs. T. M. Lay of Plandome, N. Y., who has these five young daughters to wash for. "And since I've been using Chipso our clothes seem to wear indefinitely."

WASHDAY isn't a hard day in these three households—in spite of all the clothes the children get dirty! There is no hard rubbing—CHIPSO soaks grime out.

Yet these easier Chipso washdays aren't hard on the clothes, either! See how nice all the garments in the pictures look. They are not new. All of them have been washed and washed with Chipso . . . kept unfaded, strong, unshrunken for six months to two years of good wear.

Chipso keeps clothes new-looking because it is not adulterated with the harsh, "dirt-cutting" ingredients which cause inferior soaps gradually to weaken fabrics and dull their color. Chipso loosens dirt harmlessly with RICHER SUDS.

Don't endanger the clothes you have spent good money for by washing them in cheap flakes or strong granulated soaps and powders. Get Chipso from your grocer. At its low price, Chipso is the biggest value in rich, safe soap on the market today!

"No one has whiter white clothes than ours," says Mrs. R. Giblin of Baltimore, Md., "and we never boil our clothes either. Chipso is grand for taking dirt out, yet it never fades colors." Even Mrs. Giblin's silk print and the youngest Giblin's sweater suit shown here have been washed and washed in safe Chipso suds. "Chipso is so easy on my hands when I wash dishes," says Mrs. Giblin, "I feel safe in using it to wash my nicest things."

"No wash is too dirty for Chipso to soak clean," says Mrs. S. J. Oechsle of Germantown, Pa., "yet it is safe—even for silks! The boys' blue blouses are strong and unfaded after a FULL YEAR of Chipso washing. Jean's yellow crepe de chine dress and my wool sweater look brand new when they come out of Chipso suds. Chipso is so safe it makes all our clothes wear longer."

—lagging appetite

There is a reasonable way to correct this condition. Pause and reason. You know that body weakness is frequently the result of a weak blood "picture"—lowering of the red-blood-cells and their hemoglobin—that are so very necessary to strength and vitality.

Then why not try S.S.S.—the proven tonic for decades? Its value has been proved by extensive scientific research and by millions of happy users.

Take S.S.S. and note the way your strength and appetite are restored. Two convenient sizes at all drug stores—the larger size is more economical. Don't permit any one to "switch" you in your determination to restore your red-blood-cells and their hemoglobin content for regaining strength. © The S.S.S. Co.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

If Berle Hadn't Done It!

If Berle hadn't done it, it would have been grand,
He knew for a fact it was my part of my act,
Gee, it got me a wonderful hand!

Why, I went to town with it, brought the house down with it;
That piece of business was swell,
Even the bookers would yell!

If Berle hadn't done it! Well, those are the breaks!
He took what was mine, every word, every line.
You should see some of my bows that he takes!

If Berle hadn't done it! Huh, where would he be?
Both Cantor and Pearl when they took it from Berle
Didn't know that he took it from me!

Well, I've wiped the slate clean, gotta brand new routine
(No Berle can leave me on the shelf!)
If he wants to extract the best part of my act
Let him clip the darn thing outta "Whiz Bang" himself!

—Phil Baker.

Probably True

Al Kavelin would have you believe that he got in on a busy line and actually overheard the following chatter between the phone girl of an attorney's office and a caller, to wit:

Operator: "This is the law office of McCarthy, Dooley, Donovan and Doyle."

Voice: "Okay—I want to speak with Mr. Goldfard, the owner!"

Flash!

The Newark, Ohio, newspapers last week reported among other things:

"Walter Winchell, of East street, reported to police that someone stole his trousers last night."

Anything for a laugh, huh?

Gag

Abe Lyman's favorite story is of the Indian who was just about to be married. The preacher asked the sweetie if she had any property.

"No," she no'd.

"And you," addressing the chief, "Are you better off?"

"No," grunted the Indian.

"Then why do you want to get married?" queried the Reverend.

"She got blanket. Me got blanket. Too cold sleep one blanket."

Heheheh

And one of the better clowns is Gene Markey, who says of Menjou:

"What a game of golf Adolphe dresses!"

Izzy Ellnsonisms

We may soon have a Russian Embassy over here. Well, it will be nice to have one red flag in the country that doesn't belong to an auctioneer . . . I suppose you've heard about the nudist farmer who wouldn't even put clothes on his scarecrow . . . Roosevelt is the only man who ever handed out a new deal with everybody hoping he has something up his sleeve . . . So Lily Pons wants to be a farmer. Apparently she's tired of singing for her money—and would rather whistle for it!

Armistice Day

"Dear Winchell," bitterly writes C. W. Mackay, of Scranton, Pa., "Nov. 11 is due soon, sir, Armistice Day! You know—business as usual, a parade, a speech. War veterans, fast approaching middle age, no longer heroic or as popular as they were. Some of us privately think they're something of a nuisance—not you, Winchell, you've been on their side right along, but you know the group I mean—those who forget so easily. They won't even be bothered with the poppy peddlers on that day.

"What of the veteran of the line? Time has not dimmed but only embittered his memory of the old, bloody but self-sacrificing days. The camaraderie of field and trench has gone, buried with the pals whose passing scarred his soul. Part of him who lived to return is also interred beneath the countless crosses of Flanders Fields. Is war more harrowing than peace?

"Nov. 11! A two-minute pause; then business as usual—a parade, a banquet, a speech! Perhaps you can help in your way to make it more than that. I was merely a private, and at this time of the year, I get sentimental and meditative."

Absolutely!

Gene Chrisman argues that the honeymoon is positively over when what he thought was the cream in his coffee turns out to be the hair in his butter.

Add Squelches

The best of the recent stiflers we think is the Montreal Star's report of a newly-wedded couple, who were entertaining. Among the guests was one whose conduct was flippant. At supper he held up on his fork a piece of meat which had been served him, and in a vein of intended humor remarked:

"Is this pig?"

"To which end of the fork," was the crusher, "do you refer?"

The Retort Beautiful

Harold Weissman, the sports oracle, relays this grand comeback in a gay place. The master of ceremonies was being bothered by one of those ringside bores, who wouldn't stop.

The annoyed entertainer finally stopped him with this:

"Well, as I live and breathe—which I hope you don't!"

Bottle of Perfume

Here lie one hundred roses dead
That Alice may smell nice to Fred.
—Al Klein.

Cannon's Parting Shot

James Cannon, radio critic, who prepared his last pillar to resume his grade A reportorial style, reminisced a little. Among other cynical observations was this delightful lampoon:

"Cold chop suey and second-hand celebrities thinking the applause is on the level at night club openings."

As If You Didn't Know

The trouble with a lot of pictures made in Hollywood is that the only thing that clicks is the camera.

Walter Winchell's "BROADWAY THROUGH A KEYHOLE," with Paul Kelly, Russ Columbo and Constance Cummings, will begin an engagement at Loew's Penn Theater tomorrow.

(Copyright, 1933, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

Novelty

Marjorie Walters, of Walter Walters & Co., who will be seen in a novelty act as part of the vaudeville and photoplay program opening Friday in the Pitt.

Gable a Stock Actor Once Upon Time

Clark Gable was a successful stock and Broadway stage actor before starting on his picture career and appeared in such popular productions as "The Copperhead," "Madame X" and "Machinal." He made his screen debut in "The Painted Desert," but it was his appearance in "The Easiest Way" that attracted tremendous attention and started him on his meteoric rise to fame. Among the many outstanding performances he has turned in since then are included his characterizations in "Dance Fool Dance," "The Secret Six," "Sporting Blood," "A Free Soul," "Hell Divers," "Polly of the Circus," "Strange Interlude" and more recently "Hold Your Man" and "Night Flight."

Green's $1 Contract Worth $6,000

Harry Green actually received $6,000—later—for that "dollar-a-week" role he played for Cecil B. DeMille in "This Day and Age." His price is $4,000; he was sent three, which he returned. After re-takes, they sent him six!

Daughter of Otis Skinner Proud of Her Father And He of Her

By GEORGE SEIBEL

That very charming daughter of her charming father, Cornelia Otis Skinner, is coming to town soon. She brings with her to the Nixon a whole harem of interesting ladies—the various wives of Henry VIII, the numerous lady-loves of Charles II, and that popular milliner and imperial flirt, Eugenie.

It is something to be the daughter of Otis Skinner. But he thinks it's something to be the father of Cornelia. Start him talking about the women of Shakespeare, and in 10 minutes you think their name is Cornelia.

Mr. Seibel

The people who see her performances, with her versatile impersonations, do not often know that she is a writer who turns out some of the best humorous stuff now on tap in America. Our humorists have deteriorated sadly. They are so anxious to get a laugh they become melancholy. True humor produces a glow, not a loud explosion. Cornelia Otis Skinner can warm your heart as she charms a smile to your face. And she doesn't resort to low clowning to catch a cackle from the crowd.

When she comes to Pittsburgh I am going to ask her what is the mysterious essence of humor. But I know that inside of 10 minutes she'll be talking about her father, whom we saw last as Falstaff and will see next as Uncle Tom.

Well, who wouldn't be proud of being the daughter of Otis Skinner? Or the father of Cornelia?

MEMORIES OF SOTHERN

The death of E. H. Sothern at the age of 73 revives a flood of memories.

He was not intended for the stage. His father, the famous "Lord Dundreary," once wrote: "Poor Eddie is a nice lovable boy, but he will never make an actor." He had his son educated for art, putting him in the art school attached to the British Royal Academy. But Eddie never made an artist, although he had considerable aptitude and skill.

He also had a poetic vein, and some of his verse occasionally appeared in Scribner's Magazine. The chief fault of his poetry was its likeness to Tennyson's brook—it ran on and on forever. The best of his poems which I saw in Scribner's was about five times as long when first written as when printed.

Sothern wrote several plays of his own, and all of them had long and odd titles. One was "The Light That Lies in Woman's Eyes"—another was "I Love, Thou Lovest, He Loves." He was an incurable romantic—which is not a crime, nor even a mistake, but sometimes an inconvenience. This tendency led him to predict, when he was in Pittsburgh lecturing, that there would be a fresh revival of the romantic drama. If he had seen the new Maxwell Anderson drama about "Mary of Scotland," now in the Nixon, he would have said, "I told you so."

PASTOR AND DANCER

The pastor of a church down in Kansas, writing in the American Spectator, praises a certain fan dancer, whose name might as well be forgotten, and would never have been mentioned if she had worn more clothes. This pastor, whose name also might as well be forgotten, says he saw the dancer and was satisfied:

"Her fans were geometry come alive. It was a study of two triangles as related to a curvature."

Dancing, of course, has its Biblical antecedents. David danced before the ark without a fan, and when Salome danced a holy man lost his head. It is to be feared that the sanctified geometrician of Kansas also has lost his, which might account for his curious sally into Euclid.

McDonald's New Club Opens Tonight

Pittsburgh's newest night spot will open tonight under the direction of Brian McDonald. It is called the Tent Club because the entire ballroom is covered by a tent. It is on the second floor of Duquesne Garden. A special grand opening show has been prepared. Dancing waitresses will be a feature.

Hearst News Shows Fliers Topping Piccard Mark

THE GLOBE TROTTER

First pictures of the Russian aviators breaking the altitude record are contained in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News.

The three Soviet airmen, in a gondola similar to that used by Prof. Piccard, rose to a height of 12 miles, two miles higher than Piccard was able to go. The Globe Trotter describes the trip.

Following a collision in a dense fog with the British freighter Silver Palm, the United States cruiser Chicago is seen limping into the Golden Gate with a gash 40x70 feet torn in her side.

Navy Day celebrations include an aerial drill at San Diego. In Chicago United States sailors and marines stage a sham battle.

Jackie Cooper, youthful M-G-M screen star, is seen achieving every boy's ambition—running a locomotive. It's the Royal Scot, too, England's fastest train, and Jackie is shown at the throttle bringing it into the station at Los Angeles.

Senator McAdoo, of California, is seen and heard as he arrived in New York with Mrs. McAdoo after a trip to Russia.

Views from the air and the ground show the Graf Zeppelin at the World's Fair.

Animal heroes are awarded medals by the New York Anti-Vivisection Society. Not least of them is Puffy, a cat who lives in Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and who rescued, cared for and protected a robin with a broken wing.

Seven-year-old Doris Dawley, at Lake Waccabuc, N. Y., shows how she won the juvenile championship for horsemanship.

Highlights of the gridiron clashes between Yale and Army, and Navy and Penn, are shown.

Famous Jessie Costello Murder Story Leads the Demand. Greta Garbo's Great True Story Reaches Climax
"I consider this one of the greatest issues of True Story Magazine we have ever published. I have never seen so many vital human documents crowded between the covers of one book. Every deep emotion is touched to the quick."
BERNARR MACFADDEN
If just one other woman who reads this is saved from wrecking her life by yielding to some little feminine vanity, it is worth while for me to tell this story."
In this way, Jessie Costello sums up her own true story of her trial for the murder of her husband, one of the most famous murder cases that have ever shaken this country.
True Story publishes this great human document because literally millions of women might have done all the little things that Jessie Costello did, only to have them magnified into terrible importance and even the little kindnesses distorted in purpose, if some great tragedy were to enter their lives.
Also, the great Greta Garbo story comes to its thrilling climax in this great issue. And another tremendous story of deepest significance is "My Common Law Marriage," which makes its fundamental appeal to every man, and which every woman will thoroughly understand.
Considerably over two million copies of this great issue of True Story Magazine are being rushed to our eighty thousand news dealers today to be ready for the nation's demand tomorrow. Tell your dealer today to save your copy for you.

Things I'd Like To Do Again

WRITE advertising copy for the firm of Lane Bryant, Inc. (The late Mr. Maslin fired me one morning, stating that I was a dreamer and would never amount to anything. His prophecy has since been borne out.)

* * *

Make my first flight in an old seaplane that took me from Rome to Naples. (That was just a year ago today, and I've never been the same since.)

* * *

Meet the most unusual panhandler I have ever encountered. His line was so excellent that I gave him a dollar. (I saw him 20 minutes later in my barber shop, and he was getting a manicure!)

* * *

Convalesce in Atlantic City from a stomach illness at the age of 5. The doctor had ordered my parents to feed me only milk and eggs. "My dad caught me eating salt water taffy on the boardwalk, and that certain spot still hurts.)

* * *

Equip my bicycle with a siren and ride wildly up and down in front of Beatrice's house to attract her attention. (The siren was stolen one early morning and I have suspected her father ever since.)

* * *

Make my first investment in Wall Street, at the age of 14. I bought 500 shares of a certain copper stock from a very fine gentleman for the sum of $20. (I can't find the stock any more. But it doesn't make any difference because the company never found any copper.)

* * *

Lead a strike in my high school, Townsend Harris Hall, because other high schools were getting a holiday and we weren't. (The first day I had 500 boys with me. The second day I had 30. The third day I was alone. So I never went back.)

* * *

Listen to Richard Bennett, the eccentric star, as he stood on the floor of the Texas Guinan Club and read a lengthy passage from the Bible. (It was a remarkable scene in a night club, and most of the customers applauded. When he was through, one drunk asked for "Gunda Dhin!")

* * *

Draw my first pay envelope from the Wolf Advertising Company, a concern on West Thirty-eighth street. (The envelope contained $16—and I had spent $23 the same week to take the factory girls home in taxicabs.)

* * *

Remain awake all night in order to catch the mailman. I had to do that because I knew he was carrying a truancy report about my continued absence from Public School Number 6. (I fell asleep twenty minutes before his arrival—and the rest of the tale is too sad for me to repeat here.)

* * *

Meet the lady who is now Mrs. Hellinger. I was running a beauty contest for a morning sheet, and she was the first contestant to appear. I was greatly impressed by the fact that she was on time, and we were later married. (That was more than seven years ago, and she has never been on time since.)

* * *

Take Ruth, the gal who lived over Nimhauser's grocery store, to my first Coney Island Madri Gras. I hated scenic railways, and she insisted on spending the best part of the night on the biggest one. (I learned later that her ex-boy friend was an attendant in the joint, and that she just wanted to prove she wasn't heart-broken.)

* * *

Do my first football broadcast over the Columbia network between the halves of the Army-Navy game several years ago. I spoke between Jimmy Walker and the late Knute Rockne. (To this day, Ted Husing thinks I was shivering because of the cold. He doesn't know I was on the verge of being paralyzed by fear.)

* * *

Sell Winchell a bill of goods, and get him on a horse in Central Park at five o'clock in the morning. He had never been on a horse before, and I had ridden but once. (Both our horses ate their fill of grass and then trotted back to the stable.)

* * *

Have a barber hold a mirror to my neck after a haircut and tell him the job was no good. (After wanting to do that all my life, I finally did it. The barber thought I was nuts, which proved we were both right.)

* * *

Get my first assignment out-of-town for a newspaper. I placed $4 extra on my expense account for a hotel room and thirty cents extra for a taxi. (The boss raised the devil about the taxi.)

* * *

Sleep and live among a thousand Chinamen on a slow freighter that took seven days to go from Makassar, in the Celebes Islands, to Manila. (When I finally stepped from the boat I felt that I had been through a terrible experience. Now I'd like to do it again. Strange how memories can turn from bitter to sweet as time rolls on.)

* * *

Enter my first pawnshop at the age of thirteen with a watch I had received for my birthday. I felt like a criminal, and I cast furtive glances about to make certain no one would recognize me. (Everything is different today, of course. I no longer have to walk into pawnshops. No, sir. Now I run into them.) . . .

Modeling Evening Dress

NATHAN ALPERN — MISS AUDREY GRAHAM

Volunteer models, students, in the annual Pitt style show modeling the new in fall and winter evening wear. The train on the evening gown is a new wrinkle. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Pitt Students Model Winter Campus Styles

Co-eds, Collegians View Latest Fashions

Dipping into the intricacies of Dame Fashion's whims, 50 University of Pittsburgh students promenaded in a showing of winter campus styles at the Hotel Schenley yesterday.

Bright woolen sports dresses with contrasting ascot ties, and fur coats of the new streamline variety were modeled as the smart co-ed's attire for crisp, snappy days. Formal afternoon and evening gowns, with several of the latter featuring trains, also were included, as were campus footwear and millinery.

And for the collegian, the show included everything from double-breasted tuxedos and topcoats to ties and hats. The modeling was coupled with comments by Miss Grace Ely, of the Retail Training Bureau of the university, and Alex Reich.

Models were selected by a vote of the student body. The showing was sponsored by the Pitt News, weekly student publication.

New Yorker to Talk Here on Lynchings

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Pola Negri, who will be seen in the Nixon next week in "A Trip to Pressburg," had a chance to play the same role in a German production of the play by Max Reinhardt, but picture-making contracts prevented acceptance. She worked under Reinhardt on the German stage before achieving prominence as a photoplay star, but her appearance here next week will be her first in a full length play in an American theater. Before returning from Europe recently she completed French and German versions of a picture on the life of Napoleon III, entitled "Fanaticism."

Eleanor Holm, the swimmer, turned down an offer to play in "Neptune's Daughter" because she'd lose her amateur standing if she entered the water for pay . . . As Kay Francis names them her feet are "Pete" and "Patty;" Ruby Keeler's "Toots" and "Trotter;" James Cagney's, "Hayfoot" and "Strawfoot" . . . Dorothy Coonan's freckles, which got her into films, are insured . . . "Catherine the Great" is to be the title of Marlene Dietrich's film that was tentatively called "Scarlet Pageant" . . . . Jan Kiepura, European star who was seen in "Be Mine Tonight," has been signed by Universal . . . Billie Burke, who is featured in "Only Yesterday," is named for her father, Billy Burke, a famous circus clown . . . With the publication of the new Mickey Mouse song, "Mickey Mouse and Minnie's In Town" there are now seven lyrics concerning the little hero created by Walt Disney, who employs three musical directors for his films.

Mexican Trip Bow Idea

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 2.—A vacation trip to Mexico City and another picture after the first of the year are forecast for Clara Bow, as the red-head relaxes from the grind of making "Hoopla" and prepares to enjoy some of the $100,000 she received from Fox.

Should the Mexican trip go through, and the whimsical Clara now favors it, the star and Rex Bell will be accompanied by their close friends, Louis Lewyn and his wife, Marion Mack. The Lewyns entertained the sons of Ortiz Rubio in Hollywood and have an invitation to return the visit in the Mexican capital.

Clara's continuance in pictures seems more likely now than it did a few weeks ago. The star is turning thumbs down on any more re-makes, but has taken several scripts under consideration. If the red-head doesn't want to sign up again at Fox, she has a standing offer from Twentieth Century and probably she can duplicate the $100,000 she was paid for "Hoopla."

For the moment, however, Clara and Rex are more concerned with settling down in their new house, the former home of Marlene Dietrich.

All the De Mille troupe came back from Hawaii singing the praises of Mary Boland's sense of humor. There was that time when Mary and Herbert Marshall had been crawling on their stomachs for almost two hours through wet underbrush. As they paused just short of exhaustion, the actress inquired:

"Tell me, Bart, do you think the old-fashioned waltz is coming back?"

And even De Mille had to smile when Mary nick-named him "The Hilo-Monster."

It sounds like a gag, but Chick Chandler's wife seriously threatens to get out an injunction if he insists upon driving a car in the Ascot speed races. Already nervous, Mrs. Chandler laid down the law after reading of Sunday night's fatality at the Speedway. Back on Broadway, Chick's pretty wife was known as Jean Frontai.

Man Cheats Chair With Prayers of Doomed Pals

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—(Universal.)—James Lowry, 5, and doomed to die in the electric chair for the murder of his sweetheart, Anna Nelson, 30, cheated the executioner last night when he died in the district jail infirmary of pneumonia.

For two weeks, ever since he was stricken, 10 other condemned prisoners in death row had prayed loudly and almost continuously, that Lowry be allowed to die in bed, instead of as a felon. Lowry did not join in their pleas.

But last night the prayers of the 10 prevailed.

STEUBENVILLE, O., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Thomas Viola, 32, of Follansbee, W. Va., and Frank Romano, 30, of Pittsburgh, were held without bond for grand jury after arraignment yesterday on charges of first degree murder. They are accused of the slaying of former Mayor Benjamin Oliver, of Yorkville, last week.

Paul Briggs, 13, who saw the auto containing the slayers pull away from the scene of the fatal shooting, identified it as an automobile in which Viola and Romano were driving when captured at Bridgeport.

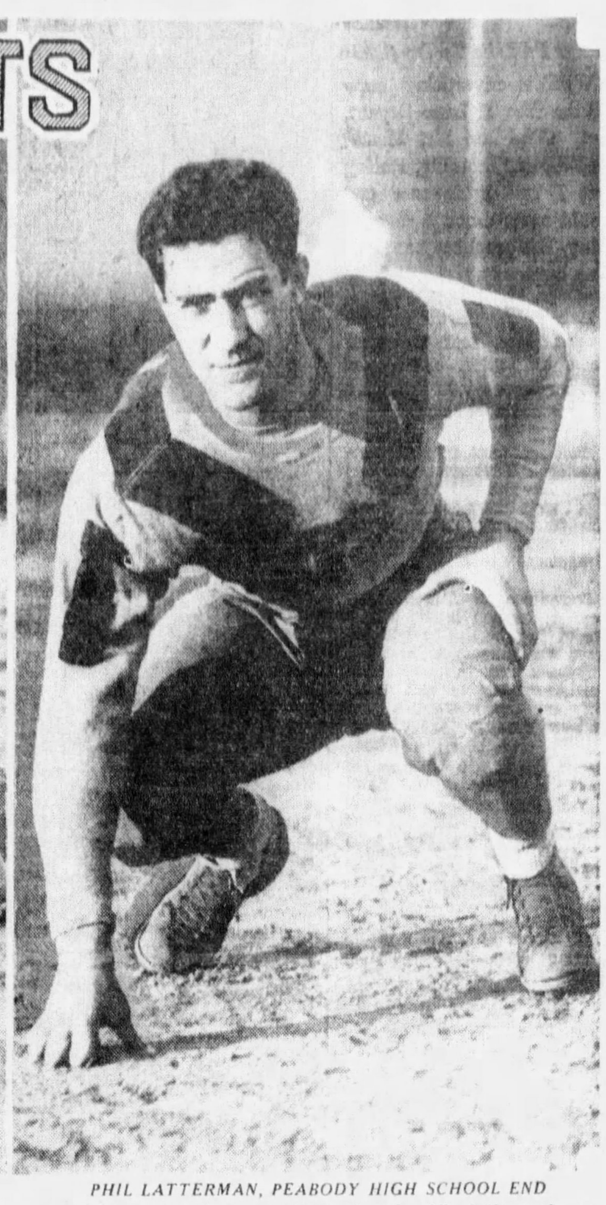
PETE ELLIOTT, CENTER AT EAST PITTSBURGH



PHIL LATTERMAN, PEABODY HIGH SCHOOL END

Four members of teams bidding for district scholastic football championships this season. Peabody is deadlocked with Allderdice for first place in Section I of the City League, while Carrick is leading the way in Section II. Ambridge High, Class A champion of the W. P. I. A. L., again is fighting for the crown with a string of 15 straight victories. East Pittsburgh is making a determined fight for the Class B championship of the W. P. I. A. L. Carrick meets South Hills, Peabody plays Westinghouse, Ambridge engages Rochester and East Pittsburgh tackles Edgewood in important games this week-end. All of these players have been mentioned as contenders for all-star team honors in their districts. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Terminal Stars Numerous.•Honor to Star Unnoticed. Baseball Salary Cuts Seen. Matte in French Hockey. W. & J.'s Proud Showing. Ryan Rises Above Defects.

DISTRICT BOASTS MANY BRILLIANT ENDS

When did this district have so many fine football ends as this year? There's a splendid pair on each of the leading teams. At Pitt, Joe Skladany is again of all-America caliber, the best wingman in the region since Joe Donchess. And Harvey Rooker, with all his height, is probably the fastest runner among the terminal stars in the vicinity, down the field ahead of them all. Rooker has been handicaped by injuries, but has played good ball nevertheless.

Colin Stewart

Carnegie Tech really has three top liners, as George Goodridge is playing as fine a game as Lib Lewis ever did, barring the latter's phenomenal pass-catching ability. Capt. Colin Stewart, of course, is a Tartan standout, and he surely is needed in there, as he is to an extraordinary degree the leader and integrating factor of the team. Duquesne has a couple of consistent performers in Capt. Al Krankota and Gerald Baker.

Al Ercius and Elwood Headley, the W. & J. pair, are very good, particularly the former, who does not have to depend on his punting ability to win high rating, as he plays the end position like a master. In last Saturday's game here, Ercius was as good as either Stewart or Goodridge, and that's good enough.

The Pittsburgh pros have a crack duo in Paul Moss and Ray Tesser, and Geneva's Cliff Aultman compared with the best playing anywhere around here until a broken leg put him out for the remainder of the season.

EVANS' PAY CUT PRESAGES GENERAL SLASH

In consenting to remain as general manager of the Cleveland Baseball Club, after announcing that he would resign rather than submit to a proposed reduction of 66 2-3 per cent in his salary, Billy Evans is understood to have accepted a decrease of 50 per cent, which cuts his annual pay from $30,000 to $15,000. In well-informed baseball circles, that is taken as indicating a general slash in salaries for 1934 by many of the major league clubs.

The Cleveland Club itself makes no secret of its intention to reduce the pay figures of most of its players. Some of the other operators in the big show are said to be preparing to follow suit. There may be increases or a continuance of the old scale in special cases where warranted by service or conditions, but many players on clubs that lost money this year will be asked to accept cuts. The magnates argue that they can't pay it out when they are not taking it in.

PREXIES SHINE ON LIMITED EXPERIENCE

Somebody has questioned the Washington and Jefferson generalship on the score that the Presidents did not try for a field goal against Carnegie Tech when they got close to the goal line. The criticism is unwarranted. The Red and Black team has no field goal kicker, for one thing. And when judging the Prexies' generalship, and other qualities in which experience plays a big part, bear in mind that their players have on the average less real experience than those on the Pittsburgh teams and most others that play here.

Everything considered, W. & J. may well feel proud of its team, regardless of the outcome of Saturday's big battle with Duquesne. Twice here this year, Wash Jeff showed that its ends and tackles are fit to measure against any others in similar positions. Dalrymple looks like their best tackle. Admittedly there were times when the Prexies were not so hot in the center of the line. Against Carnegie, for instance, several of Ercius' kicks went sour because the middle of his line let the Tartans through to rush him. Als Washington gridders gave their left halfback little prot on on his runs from scrimmage —but ma the difficulty getting Croft and Stewart out of there had something to with it.

SCHOOL CHAMPS UNBEATEN IN 18 GAMES

By JULIUS LEVIN

An 18-game winning streak will be in danger of being shattered Saturday afternoon when New Castle and New Kensington deadlocked for first place in the class AA division of the W. P. I. A. L., clash at New Kensington in a contest that will play an important part in determining the championship of this group.

New Castle High School, one of the three co-champions in this division last season is risking this long winning streak against Carl Glock's valley gridders.

TWO-YEAR RECORD

The record extends over two seasons. The last time the Lawrence countians were defeated was in the final game of the 1931 season when they bowed to Erie East, 7 to 6. The 18-game winning streak follows:

New Castle	50—McKees Rocks	6
New Castle	25—Charleroi	6

AMBRIDGE UNDEFEATED

Like New Castle, Ambridge High School, defending champion in class A, boasts an impressive record with a string of 15 successive triumphs. CHILLYSAUCE

By CHILLY DOYLE

The part played by American sport in the achievements of the A. E. F. have not been told in anything like adequate language in the intervening 15 years since the celebration of the first Armistice Day. A brililant paper from the pen of an essayist or psychologist might get close to the real meaning; such a paper would reveal something about the effect of Yank play on the morale of the soldiers, but even a chapter of this kind might not do the subject justice.

As they prepare for the approaching Armistice Day many a soldier will look back with fond memories on the baseball and football games as well as the boxing bouts co-incident to the main issue.

And it was not only the spirit of American sport that followed the Doughboys to the battlefield. Living symbols were there in the presence of men and boys like Joe Thompson, Bob Higgins, Grover Alexander, Christy Mathewson, Gene Tunney, Mike O'Doud, Hank Gowdy, Joe Harris, John Miljus and scores of others, whose names were household words among school boys and young America in general.

The Armistice had scarcely been signed before the lamented Joe Thompson had footballs flying all over the A. E. F., for Col. Joe, former Pitt mentor, after having been wounded in action five times, was made a ranking officer of the sports program. As if by magic, the old-time Panther coach captured a stockroom loaded with gridiron regalia, boxing equipment and whatnot.

Enjoying a visit with Col. Joe, I was assigned a billet in a French farmhouse. Before daybreak the next morning I was awakened by the sound of marching soldiers. It seemed like the fighting had been resumed, but no! the excitement was caused by several thousand Doughboys hiking along the wet countryside to a spot miles away where the 28th Division was to tackle the 79th Division in a grid fight.

The two clubs garbed in full regalia looked as formidable as Pitt and Tech. Biddy Aiken, an officer of the Keystone Division, had coached his club well and the enemy was just as tough. Anyhow, there was no scoring in four periods of play. Bob Higgins, present coach of Penn State, was a big star in the final clash of the A. E. F. championship held in Paris.

The baseball stars had to get in most of their licks while the actual fighting was on and many a diamond fight was staged behind the lines as the thunder of the guns roared in the advanced sector.

Boxing rose to its highest ideal in the A. E. F. No ballyhoo was needed when the champs of rival outfits made ready to settle the issue. They came, they saw and somebody conquered, without benefit of A. A. U. or I. O. U. Gene Tunney was strictly and strikingly an A. E. F. blossom.

SANDLOTTERS SET FOR LEGAL SUNDAY SPORT

By TOM BIRKS

The district independent football schedule for the coming Sunday finds some 48 contests listed for what may be the final Sabbath on which the law will have the power to put a stop to the Sunday sport.

After next Tuesday, if the thousands of fans that watch all of these games go to the polls and do their duty, the suspense of watching for the patrol wagon to roll up to the sandlots will be just a memory.

During the past two years, the forces opposing sandlot sports on Sundays have not been so active, although on a few occasions games have been stopped. Last Sunday a game scheduled at Overbrook did not go on as per schedule.

Thirty-eight soccer games are listed for Sunday, and these should attract in the neighborhood of 60,000 fans, which indicates that people want Sunday sports. But followers of sport in many towns and villages of Western Pennsylvania will have to go out and work for the sport they love, else it will pass from the picture entirely.

It might be a good thing for managers of soccer and football teams scheduled next Sunday to freshen the fans' memory with signs and announcements of the election on Tuesday.

CENTER SOUGHT BY PIRATES

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The Pittsburgh Pirates Professional Football League Club is badly crippled as it awaits its game with Benny Friedman's Brooklyn outfit at Ebbets Field next Sunday.

A new center is being sought to take the place of Oehler, who injured a knee against Boston last Sunday. Mose Lantz, the sub-center, is in a hospital here under treatment for quinzy and Harp Vaughan, the halfback, was was treated for rib injuries, but will be able to play.

Coach Jap Douds, and Janacek, star linemen, both are on the crippled list, the former with a bad knee and the latter with an injured hip.

Allegheny County Floor Loop Formed

Eight teams were granted franchises in the Allegheny County Basketball League at an organization meeting held at the Y. M. H. A. last night. The Irene Kauffmann Settlement, Foresters, Y. M. H. A., Jenkins, of Homestead, Wilmerding Y. M. C. A., Charleroi Books, McKeesport Willigs and the McCanns will make up the circuit.

A meeting will be held November 6 for the purpose of discussing the rules and regulations, the question of referees and the drawing up of a schedule.

BATTLING GIZZY BEATEN

MONTREAL, Nov. 2.—Battling Gizzy of Pittsburgh lost a 10-round decision to Roger Bernard of Flint, Mich., here last night in the semi-final to a Kid Chocolate-Joe Ghnouly bout which the Keed won handily, although the referee voted for a draw against the decision of the judges.

The Trained Seals of the sports department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will tell you how they feel about Sunday sports in their weekly program over WCAE tonight.

John Jay Burke, former manager of county parks, will be the guest speaker, and he will discuss the pastimes in the city and county parks and touch on golf, his favorite sport, and other games.

Harry Keck, sports editor, will discuss the question of a favorable vote on Sunday sports in the referendum next Tuesday, with the assistance of Burke and Announcer Alan Trench.

Miss Ruth Johnstone will be at the piano for the Seals, who will be heard at 7 o'clock.

GRIMES RELEASED

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Burleigh Grimes, one of the last of baseball's spitball pitchers, has been given his unconditional release by the St. Louis Cardinals, the club's secretary, Clarence F. Lloyd, has announced. Grimes, who has pitched for six of the eight National League clubs, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Boston, New York, Brooklyn and Chicago, joined the Cardinals for the second time last summer after he had been released by the Chicago Cubs, but was handicapped much of the season by an injury.

ETNA DEFEATED

TARENTUM, Pa., Nov. 2.—The Tarentum Firemen nosed out the Etna Sycamores in the Conference football battle last night, 7 to 6. Brumbaugh passing to Massel for the extra point after Bisset had scored in the second period. The Sycamores tallied in the third, Miller going over.

PANTHERS OWN 13 WINS IN 16 GAMES

By JESS CARVER

Whether they realize the fact or not, Pitt's Panthers have a right nifty record to uphold here this week as they meet Centre College's Praying Colonels, and the latter, if they still are praying, had better get all the supplicating in they can between now and about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The Panthers will be handling their seventeenth Southern assignment in Saturday's game, and what is more to the point, they'll be out their protecting an undefeated record. In 16 games played against teams from below the Mason Dixon Line since Georgetown was met in 1910, Pitt elevens have won 13 games and tied three.

HAVE FINE RECORD

The Panthers have won four games out of five from the Navy, two out of three from Georgetown, two out of three from Georgia Tech, two from Johns Hopkins and one each from Washington and Lee, Duke and Maryland. In these 16 contests, the locals have piled up 417 points against 72 for their opponents. Georgetown, Navy and Georgia Tech played ties with the Pitts.

The most decisive triumphs were the 64-0 and 47-12 triumphs over Navy, the 52 to 7 victory over Duke, and the 32-0 victory at Georgia Tech's expense.

It is pretty generally established by now that Coach Sutherland will take no chances against Centre. The varsity figures to be in there at the start. Judging from all reports on the Colonels, such a move will be a good one, for Centre will match Pitt in weight on the line and have an edge in the backfield.

Too, reports from Danville have it that the Centre team is taking this game very much in the same manner that Col. Bo McMillin and his team did the famous Harvard game of a decade or so ago when the Southerners bounced the Crimson all over the Harvard Stadium. These teams that have everything to gain and nothing to lose always are poison.

The Colonels will arrive in town tomorrow morning and will drill in the Pitt Stadium in the afternoon.

DUKES ARE READY

Coach Elmer Layden, of the Dukes, will start tapering off drills today. Satisfied with the way in which the offense has been clicking, the Duquesne mentor has been spending a deal of time this week in checking up on the defense. It is no snap to meet up with a team employing the double wing back attack such as is used by the Presidents, especially when the team is as adept at handling the ball as are the Wash-Jeffers. A single slip on Saturday at Washington may prove fatal to the locals, for the W. & J. defensive powers are conceded to be superior to those of the offense.

Fortunately, the entire Red and Blue caste is in tip-top shape, physically, for the encounter. The regulars will start the game.

The rival graduate managers, John (Alderman) Holohan, of Duquesne, and Pete Henry, of Wash-Jeff, are showing no little concern as to just where they'll put the spectators. Saturday, Wash-Jeff's crowd facilities are limited, and unless a blizzard, cloudburst, tornado, typhoon or

DUKES' MENTOR MAY BE AIDE TO KIZER

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Notre Dame's football coaching problems, agitating the best minds of the university and its alumni ever since the death of Knute Rockne, have not yet been completely solved, sundry and conflicting reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

For the time being Hunk Anderson is being given full support in the attempt to achieve some recovery from this year's dismal start, particularly in the climax games with Southern California and Army, the two arch rivals of the Irish.

HUNK TO GO

There is no secret now, however, that this is Hunk's last year as head coach and that steps already have been taken to install another alumnus of the Notre Dame system in charge of the 1934 squad.

Here are the salient features developed from reliable sources:

1. Jesse Harper, founder of the Notre Dame system and the sponsor of Rockne, will remain at least one more year as athletic director, longer if he desires, and will pick the next coach.

2. Noble E. Kizer, one of the "Seven Mules" of 1923-24 who opened the holes for the famous Four Horsemen and now head coach at Purdue, stands at the head of the list of coaches favored to succeed Anderson. He may be under contract already.

3. Elmer Layden, fullback of the Four Horsemen and now head coach at Duquesne University, may be induced to return as backfield coach, although he is reluctant to do so.

4. A wing of the alumni organization still favors the selection of James H. Crowley, another "Horseman," for the head coaching assignment, despite the fact he now has a three-year contract with Fordham.

PHELAN CONSIDERED

5. The names of James Phelan, former Notre Dame quarterback, now coaching at the University of Washington, and Edward P. (Slip) Madigan, of St. Mary's, one of the early Rockne pupils, also have been associated with the talk about Anderson's successor.

Although there is no question the choice will fall upon a prominent product of the Notre Dame football school, the discussion of what was best to be done covered so wide a range that several non-Notre Dame names were introduced into the debate. Chief among these is Ossie Solem, former Drake coach, now in charge at Iowa. From personal observation and association, many Notre Dame leaders have the highest regard for Solem's coaching ability.

West Va. Convict Eleven Loses In Opener

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Bewildered by the glare of floodlights and the roar of 4,000 fans, the football team of West Virginia State Penitentiary made its gridiron debut on the high school field last night and was defeated by the Moundsville Eagles, 24 to 15.

Inexperienced in the sport, the convicts were bowled over in the first half, the second period ending with the count 12 to 0 against them, but in the second half they lashed back for their alma mater.

A picked cheering section and the prison band "whooped it up" for the convicts and the corridors of the prison rocked with cheers as the returns were phoned to the "stay at homes."

The prison team will play again Armistice Day.

Hornsby, McEvoy To Run Browns

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Vice President L. C. McEvoy and Manager Rogers Hornsby will pilot the St. Louis Browns for the present, according to William Harridge, president of the American League.

Harridge had conferred with McEvoy and trustees of the estate of the late Phil Ball, owner of the Browns.

The league president said the question of ultimate disposition of the club had not been thoroughly gone into with the Ball family.

BUTCH TO BOX NAT LIFTIN

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Young Ketchel vs. Roxey Allen, 8 rounds, Philadelphia.

Tony Falco vs. Joe Glick, 10 rounds; Pete Degrasse vs. Lew Farber and Murray Brandt vs. Stanislaus Lonyza, 8 rounds each, and Lou Salica vs. Aptol Rocsis, 6 rounds, Brooklyn.

A local rivalry match which has been brewing for some time will headline the fourth show of the indoor boxing season at the Moose Temple, next Monday night. Nat Litfin having agreed to box Mose Butch at 123 pounds.

Litfin is a Jewish boxer from the Hill District, who went out to California and made good and then returned here, and, after a few starts, in which he was unable to hit his stride, showing only flashes of class, found himself back in the preliminary ranks. He recently announced that he would quit boxing altogether unless he could stay in the main bout ranks and get enough work to make it worth his while.

When the promoters offered Litfin the match with Butch, he demurred on the ground that Butch is a southpaw. Reminded of his announced determination to fight the tough ones if given a chance, he finally accepted. The promoters believe there is sufficient rivalry between the followers of the Jewish and Italian opponents to draw their largest gate so far.

Don Asto will box Steve Senich in the second preliminary.

This will be the first of two shows here next week, the Arena being scheduled to reopen on Friday night.

BUCS RELEASE COACH HARTLEY

Excess Pirates were not plentiful today as the result of the departure of three members of the Bucco family. Coach Grover Hartley, who came in with the Gibson regime, was given his release last night. Earlier in the day, the Pittsburgh officials had announced the release of Catcher Val Picinich and Pitcher Clise Dudley.

Hartley's passing is due to the presence on the squad of two other capable coaches, Honus Wagner and Otis Crandall. Grover was a topnotch catcher in the National League for many years. He served with the Giants in the days when Matty was a great pitcher. Later he caught for Cleveland, of the American League.

Hartley came over from his Columbus (O.) home to discuss his case with President Bill Benswanger. He expects either to catch on as a coach for another major team or to take up a managerial job in the minors.

TECH LEAVES TONIGHT

After a workout in the Tartan Bowl this afternoon, Coach Howard Harpster will load his varsity squad into the Pullmans and roll 'em out of the city, headed for Logansport, Ind., where it'll spend tomorrow prior to meeting Purdue at Lafayette Saturday.

The Skibo squad will consist of 32 players, including six ends, five tackles, five guards, three centers, three quarterbacks, eight halfbacks and two fullbacks.

Joe Mihm has been getting the first call at the fullback post in this week's practice sessions and is the likely starting choice against the Boilermakers. Joe's excellent punting figures to be a big aid to the Tartans against the Big Tenners.

HUNK LAUDS PLAY OF TEAM

PITT SIMPLY TOO STRONG, COACH SAYS

ANDERSON'S CHOICES

Indiana over Ohio State.
Minnesota over Northwestern.
Notre Dame-Navy, scoreless tie.
Purdue over Carnegie Tech.
Wisconsin over Chicago.
Michigan over Illinois.
Temple over Drake.
W. Va. over Marquette.

By HEARTLY (HUNK) ANDERSON
Notre Dame Football Coach

I have been taken to task for passing the blame for Notre Dame's defeats on to the players, particularly the sophomore quarterbacks.

I am not trying to avoid censure for our defeats. Perhaps I am to blame. I am trying to tell, as I see them, the reasons why we have lost two games, tied one and won only one.

Mr. Anderson

Our sophomores have made mistakes. Our seniors have made mistakes. That's to be expected. Football players are only human, and they're only kids. In the heat of excitement of their first college games, our sophomores failed in some instances to follow instructions.

That's the truth, no matter what any one thinks of me for saying it. But I do not want people to think I'm passing any blame on to these players. I can say this for our sophomores: they have not made the same mistakes twice—and that's the test of a real football player. I am proud of them and pleased with them for learning the intricacies of college football in such a short time.

I am proud of the team, too, for the fine game it played against Pittsburgh. The players were to be blamed for their poor showing in tying Kansas and in losing to Carnegie Tech, for we were better, man for man, than either of those teams. But last Saturday the Notre Dame players gave the best they had, they fought like wildcats, they were fighting harder in the last quarter than at the beginning of the game. They showed that they had heart. And they were beaten by a better team.

Notre Dame will continue to improve and may be a fairly good ball team by the end of the season. So far we haven't shown any scoring punch. I don't think we'll be able to score against Navy Saturday unless we have a lot of luck. I am hoping that we may be able to hold Navy scoreless, too, and check out with a scoreless tie. That's the best we can hope for.

Saturday I look for Indiana to rise to unexpected heights and for Ohio State to slump sufficiently for the Hoosiers to win. It will be a very close game.

Minnesota is gaining speed with each succeeding game. Ties with Indiana and Purdue mar a record which has included victories over Pitt and Iowa. The Gophers still can conceivably play for the Big Ten title when they meet Michigan November 18.

Comparative scores don't give me any reason for this prediction, but I look for Purdue to win as it pleases from Carnegie Tech.

Wisconsin and Chicago are hard teams to guess—they can't be depended upon to do the expected. But I'll string along this week with Wisconsin, hoping that they confirm this confidence by using some of their latent power Saturday.

Michigan should take Illinois easily.

SPORT VIGNETTES

There's so little difference between being a hero and being a bum . . . There's the case of Mike Sebastian, of Pitt, for instance . . . In the early games of the season he displayed a tendency to fumble at critical stages, and, as a result, he was benched and did not start the Notre Dame game . . He was a shunned, forlorn figure . . . Came then his chance to enter the battle against the Irish in the second quarter and he broke away for a 75-yard run for a touchdown that broke up the game . . . All of this week he has been besieged by hero-worshipers who want to know how he did it, how it feels to be back up there again, big boy, etc. . . . Such a little difference . . . One day you're a hero, the next day a bum . . . Sometimes it's only a matter of 75 yards . . . Something to think about.

St. Mary's comes East to play Fordham in New York again Saturday . . . Remember the day in 1930 when Angelo Brovelli wowed the blase New York fans in helping the Gaels to beat the big Irish team? . . . Now Angelo is a member of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and the day after Slip Madigan's St. Mary's team plays Fordham in New York he'll be halfbacking for our local pro team against the Brooklyn eleven at Ebbets Field. . . . That first meeting between the Gaels and Rams, in which Brovelli was the hero, was a classic . . . Trailing, 12-0, the Coast team came back to win, 20-12.

In addition to adopting an international code of five two-minute round boxing bouts to replace the present three three-minute round affairs, the National A. A. U. convention here, beginning November 19, will take up a number of proposed changes in the track and field regulations . . . One of these would increase the 1500-meter run to 1600 meters to bring it up closer to the mile distance . . . Another would make the hurdles heavy enough to impede the runners to do away with the penalty for knocking down the light barriers, and another would eliminate diving over the bar in high-jumping.

No college ever had more of a mushroom growth in football than Centre, in Danville, Ky., a decade and a half ago, when it astounded the world with its Bo McMillin, Red Weaver, Ed Kubale, Sully Montgomery, Red Roberts and other stars, and, although its teams in recent years have not come anywhere near approaching the feats of this eleven, the tradition carries on and will lure many fans to the Stadium to see the Kentuckians battle Pitt on Saturday.

Colgate vs. Tulane at the Yankee Stadium will provide a strong counter-attraction to the St. Mary's vs. Fordham tilt at the Polo Grounds on Saturday . . They do say that the Purdue team, which plays Carnegie Tech at Lafayette, Ind., Saturday, is one of the cockiest in the land . . . It considers the Tech game as already "in," and not without reason, for the Boilermakers are tough, boasting a great galaxy of seasoned stars . . . The Tartans stand a swell chance of suffering their first defeat in this engagement.

The rivals have met only once before, at the Stadium here in 1931, when Purdue won, 13-6, through the medium of a 65-yard run by Fred Hecker. . . . Hecker, Paul Pardonner, the great goal kicker, and Capt. Dutch Fehring will be opposing Tech for the second time Saturday . . . Purdue is coached by Noble Kizer, former Notre Dame star, who is being prominently mentioned as the successor to Hunk Anderson as coach of the Irish for next season.—HARRY KECK.

SPORT COMMENT

been honored in a special way at Michigan for six years. And he never knew it. Neither did anybody else, except Henry Hatch, director of the Wolverine football equipment room. Noting that Illinois and Stanford had ruled that no other players should ever wear No. 77 or No. 1, in honor of Red Grange and Ernie Nevers, respectively, Hatch told himself that Oosterbaan had been just as good a football player as Grange or Nevers ever had dared to be.

Benny Oosterbaan

So the equipment director decided to honor Benny in the same way, and, without telling a soul, when Oosterbaan turned in his jersey after his final game, Hatch stuck it into a drawer and scratched the great end's number off his list, resolving that as long as he remained on the job there should never be another Michigan 47. The secret that Michigan has a "sacred" number didn't come out until a few days ago. For six years no Michigan football player has worn No. 47, but the absence of the number never was noticed by Director Yost, Head Coach Kipke, or even by Oosterbaan himself, who is now an assistant coach.

FORMER LOCAL ICER SHINES IN FRANCE

Henri Matte, brother of Joe Matte, local hockey player who was a defense star for the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets, is adding to the family fame in that sport by brilliant work on French ice. Henri featured with a display of scoring power in the opening game of the season in Paris recently, when his team, the Francais Volants, defeated the Diables of France, 6 to 4.

The game, which was replete with thrills and spectacular scoring plays, was played at the Palais de Sports, before 12,000 fans. Henri Matte has appeared in games at Duquesne Garden here, playing defense opposite his brother Joe, who is now with the Cleveland Indians in the International League.

RYAN'S VALUE NOT LESSENED BY FAULTS

Bill Terry this winter will escape one worry that weighed heavily on him a year ago, when he was wondering where in the world he could find a shortstop capable of filling the hole that would result if Travis Jackson's weak knee failed to hold up. Blondy Ryan answered that question so well that the baseball world still is gossiping about him through the off season. Big league men agree that Ryan has plenty of mechanical weaknesses, yet most of them would jump at a chance to get him. Blondy appears to be a duplicate of the infielder Charles Comiskey used to describe as a man who couldn't hit, field or run, but was "a helluva good ball player."

Blondy Ryan

Since the World Series, Ryan has been the subject of more talk than even Carl Hubbell. One veteran writer says that if it had been up to him to select the outstanding player of the year in the two major leagues he would have named the Giant sparkplug. Frank J. Navin, owner of the Detroit club, still raves about what Blondy showed him in the World Series. "He can't hit, and he looks as though he can't field," says Navin, "but with all his faults and weaknesses, I know of no player whom I'd rather have on the Detroit team. He can play shortstop for my club any time, and I'd be more than tickled to have him."

GOLD PURCHASE GIVES BANKERS PROBLEMS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Nov. 2.—Investment bankers here are frankly perplexed over the administration's new foreign gold purchase policy.

Mr. Rukeyser

They recognize that sending dollar remittances abroad in payment for gold will be an influence toward depressing the dollar, but they do not feel that a policy of aggressive gold buying can be carried on without inviting reprisals from foreign governments.

This subject was not on the agenda of the twentieth annual convention of the Investment Bankers' Association, which closed here yesterday, but was actively discussed privately by the delegates.

HINTS PERMANENT POLICY

Another allusion to major administration policy was discussed in the public utility forum. Floyd L. Carlisle, New York investment banker and chairman of the Consolidated Gas Company, of New York, hinted that an attempt might be made to extend the emergency NRA program into a permanent policy. Mr. Carlisle, who is a prime factor in the new Edison Institute, said:

"If the NRA in some measure is to continue after the present emergency for the purpose of regulating industry, such regulation seemingly must be along the line of the present state regulation of the electric industry.

"Whatever the degree of regulation of control, certain basic factors must prevail. The owners must be free to select the management upon the basis of merit.

FAVORS FREEDOM

"The management must be free to exercise their honest and sound judgment, the enterprise must operate profitably, and this profit must be sufficient to attract the new capital so necessary in modern society.

"This period is one of change and adaption and all Americans are deeply concerned with the events unfolding daily before them. During and following the Revolutionary War and during and following the Civil War, conditions prevailed quite similar to these with which we are now striving.

"At these periods in our history, America, true to a tradition that there could be no permanent prosperity unless that prosperity were widely distributed, met the problems and settled them, relying upon its traditions of independence, thrift, honesty, competence and fair play."

Mr. Carlisle's guarded remarks were interpreted as a cautious protest against undue government interference with business.

A principal theme at the convention yesterday was the national and local tax situation. The committee on state and local taxation issued a warning against fixing liquor taxes so high as to encourage a continuance of racketeering and bootlegging.

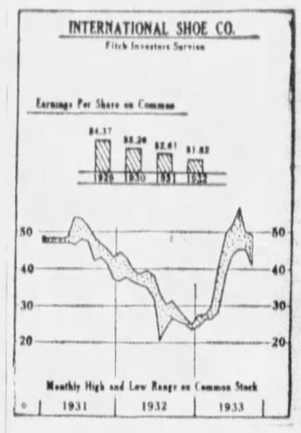
International Shoe Fully Rounded Unit

Analysis Prepared by THE FITCH INVESTORS SERVICE

Recent announcement by International Shoe Company that the entire remaining 46,575 shares of $100 par 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock would be retired at $105 a share on December 1, 1933, indicates a continuance of the favorable trend in its business which got under way with the spring upturn in sales. Redemption of the preferred will leave the company with the 3,337,321 outstanding no par common shares as its sole capital obligation. The common is currently receiving dividends at the rate of $2 annually.



International Shoe Company is the world's leading manufacturer and distributor of shoes, boots and allied articles. Products are marketed under nationally advertised trade-marks. International operates 50 shoe factories, supply departments and light tanneries and has a maximum daily capacity of 200,000 pairs of shoes. The majority of its shoe factories are located in Missouri. International also manufactures a large part of its raw materials, such as sole and upper leathers, rubber heels and soles, leather and cotton linings, cartons and containers, and chemicals, cement and other related products.

Distribution is effected throughout the United States and in certain foreign countries. A new product, announced for early production in April, 1932, was a cellophane shoe, designed by Moulton-Bartley, made of strips of cellophane twisted around a cotton thread and woven into the shoe.

Net sales were $65,489,000 in 1932, $86,802,000 in 1931, $102,394,000 in 1930 and reached a peak of $132,110,000 in 1929. Net income available for the common was $6,048,000 in 1932, $9,145,000 in 1931, $12,274,000 in 1930 and $16,431,000 in 1929, equal, per share, to $1.82, $2.61, $3.26 and $4.37, respectively. Net sales for the six months ended May 31, 1933, declined 15 per cent to $27,423,000 from $32,287,000 in the 1932 period, while earnings on the common were $2,826,000 or $0.85 a share, compared with $2,906,000 or $0.87 a share in the like 1932 period. April and May sales increased substantially above the like 1932 months and operations were stepped up to 90 per cent of capacity in May, while prices have advanced. Wages were raised in May and 5 per cent in July. Lower prices prevailing until recently naturally made for smaller profit margins, but on the lower hide market the company's supplies of hides and skins were gradually increased, so that it has benefited by the recent substantial price advances. Common profit margin was 9.2 per cent in 1932, 10.5 per cent in 1931 and 12 per cent in 1930. Inventory turnover was 3.5 times a year in 1932.

Financial condition as of May 31, 1933, was strong. Current assets consisting of $18,880,000 cash and United States government securities, $11,716,000 receivables and $16,569,000 inventories, totaled $47,166,000 and were 16.1 times the $2,805,000 current liabilities. From a year before cash had increased $1,606,000 while receivables had decreased $1,572,000 or 12 per cent and inventories $4,303,000 or 21 per cent.

PACIFIC WHEAT SALES START

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Of the approximately 35,000,000 bushels of wheat expected by officials to be exported under the export marketing agreement for the Pacific Northwest, about 750,000 bushels have been purchased by the export association, and the first sales made, it was announced by the farm administration.

The first sale by the association was made this week on a competitive basis for export to Oriental ports and "other destinations." Under terms of the marketing agreement, the difference in the price paid producers and price at which the wheat is sold at export, is repaid exporters from the wheat processing tax proceeds.

Salt Creek Field Agreement Reached

DENVER, Nov. 2. — A new agreement for operation of Salt Creek properties to take the place of contracts expiring December 31, has been concluded, except for details, by Mountain Producers Corporation and Salt Creek Producers Association with the Standard Oil of Indiana. STOCKS FIRM, STREET EYES WASHINGTON

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(AP)—Stocks and staples stepped gingerly, but generally firmly, today in markets where caution was the watchword throughout as traders and investors kept eyes and ears tourned toward Washington.

The volume of share transactions during the early hours was only slightly ahead of that of yesterday. The slow-motion picture disclosed ticker tapes that only stuttered occasionally and many silent board rooms that were almost deserted by customers. While there were few buyers, offerings were also noticeably scarce. Grains rallied and dipped intermittently, offering little stimulus to equities. The dollar continued to point downward in foreign exchange dealings. Bonds showed signs of recovering.

The "silver crowd" in Wall Street, which has long been hopeful that "something" would be done for the white metal, was enthused by reports that the Treasury may soon issue some $11,000,000 in silver certificates which will be backed by silver received in last June's war debt payments. Bar silver jumped 7/8 of a cent an ounce to 40 7/8 cents, a new high for the year.

There was continued skepticism expressed in banking circles regarding reports of a currency agreement between the United States and Great Britain whereby the former will be permitted to buy gold in the foreign market, in moderate quantities, without interference from the Bank of England.

The basis of both the British and French monetary policies, it was pointed out, is to keep the pound and franc down in relation to the dollar. Washington's object in buying gold abroad, bankers recall, is to further lower the value of the dollar in terms of leading European exchanges and, consequently, raise the price levels of domestic commodities. The conflicting theses, it is added, tend to make any monetary understanding between the major powers extremely difficult at this time.

Notwithstanding the rather murky economic atmosphere, the announcement that receipts of the United States Treasury in October were virtually double those of the same month last year was quite cheering to financial observers. The substantial progress in business and industry compared with 1932, it was believed, was confirmed by the Treasury's receipts for the current fiscal year up to October 31, which totaled $927,643,126 against $566,883,767 in the same 1932 period.

COTTON VALUES RULE HIGHER

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Cotton futures opened steady, 1 to 5 higher in response to steadier Liverpool cables, the advance in the American gold price and on higher foreign exchange. December, 9.58; January, 9.64; March, 9.79; May, 9.91; July, 10.05; October, 10.20.

There was a moderate demand from spot houses and the trade at the opening, but it was supplied by southern selling or realizing, and after advancing to 9.59 for December and 9.93 for May at the start, prices sagged slightly.

General business appeared to be restricted by a disposition to await a further development of the gold buying policies, or the government crop report which is scheduled for publication on November 3. There was further December liquidation, which was absorbed by spot houses buying attributed partly to price fixing, and prices fluctuated within a narrow range. The market at midday was dull but fairly steady with prices net unchanged to three points lower.

'Ma' Vetoes Texas Oil Tax Increase

AUSTIN, Nov. 2.—Declaring the bill passed by the Legislature providing for collection of a tax of 1/8 cent a barrel instead of the present 1-10 cent a barrel on crude oil production for the maintenance of the Railroad Commission would create 62 new positions under the commission at an additional expense of more than $100,000, Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson has vetoed the measure. The bill also gave the commission jurisdiction over oil refineries.

Commission Orders Cotton Rate Probe

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has ordered an investigation of rates on cotton shipped from Southwest to Gulf ports for export, or coastwise movement, on one hand, and cotton moving all-rail or by rail and water routes from the southwest to points in eastern trunk line territory, New England and the South.

WHERE TO PUT INVESTMENT CASH PUZZLE

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Only one thing seems clear concerning the stock market and that is that conditions are not right for buying. Neither business conditions nor the action of the market itself suggests a bullish outlook.

But so many of the high-grade stocks seem near enough to probable low points that selling is unattractive except to traders on the bear side. Moreover the possibility of real drastic currency inflation exists, so the old question as to what to do with one's money is an important one.

So, while I can see little chance of any sustained rise in the near future and do not recommend additional purchases here, it seems one might as well sit with any stocks which are sound.

HOLDERS WON'T SELL

That is what most people are doing. In fact the chief factor in the market for some time has been the refusal of holders to sell out. I am inclined to think it would take some great shock to shake stocks out in volume and cause a big decline.

Some observers hold that if we are forced to adopt the greenback type of inflation, this will cause a shock and bring heavy selling. They reason that if we are actually forced to inflate the currency it will be by such bad business and financial conditions that the market would at first break wide open.

I was inclined to fear that sort of thing last spring, when I realized that the government was set toward inflationary policies. But now, more than ever, what would you do with your money?

You see, we have no money worth hoarding. Gold is out of the picture as money.

So the chances, in the event of some drastic devaluation of the dollar or some form of fiat money, seem better for stocks than for currency. At least one has the chance of a later rise in stock prices.

Of course, there is a rare chance that the government may not resort to more drastic inflationary steps. It has shown considerable hesitation.

In that event, there would be heavy selling of "inflation stocks," such as metals and most industrials, and this would bring weakness in the whole list. But utilities and rails and a good many high-grade dividend-paying industrials would soon recover.

PRESIDENT MAY WAIT

Anyhow, can the President now reverse himself as to his repealed promises to force commodity prices up?

Since inflation is the only way open to him in carrying out this definite commitment, a return to "sound money" now seems but a remote chance. But he may wait and let Congress do it.

On the bull side one can say that several immediate difficulties have been ironed out, such as steel rail prices. Ford reports on wages and hours and co-operation with England in foreign gold buying.

Also dullness on the reaction affords hope that the decline may be stopped at or a little above the preceding low point and that a technical rally may ensue.

On the bear side are poor business conditions and unsatisfactory earnings reported by the steel corporation, the weakness in bonds, the evidence that stocks are for sale on bulges, and the disclosures of financial rottenness by the Senate committee.

I would not be surprised at a little technical rally here. The market seems to be in a position to respond to any good news.

But the logical expectation is a dull and irregular market, with mixed movements. It is still too utterly impossible to anticipate what the President will do next, to allow one to say much more.

U. S. GOLD BID UP 10 CENTS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—A price of $32.36 per ounce was established today for Reconstruction Corporation purchases of newly mined gold, 10 cents higher than yesterday and 25 cents above the world market.

The margin above the world market is on the basis of opening prices in London for the dollar at the rate of $4.82 to the pound.

By comparison, yesterday's price was $32.26, 74 cents above the quotation at London.

The London figure jumped today to $32.11 after announcement of imminent purchases of foreign gold under President Roosevelt's monetary program.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—(INS.)—Failure of the dollar to decline heavily today despite President Roosevelt's entrance into the world gold market indicated to observers here existence of a strong European counter-movement to maintain American currency.

The present American gold price should make the sterling-dollar exchange equivalent to $5.00 or more instead of the present actual market price, which was $4.82¾ at the close.

Today's closing price was only 3¼ cents below yesterday's.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Handy and Harman quote silver, New York, at 40⅞ cents an ounce, up ⅞ cent.

OIL BOARD ASKS COST DATA

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The petroleum administrative board of the Interior Department today asked the oil industry for all cost data covering every phase of petroleum activity.

While the inquiry was directed primarily to opponents of the government's price-fixing policy, it was stated information was desired from all operators in order to give the administration a fair picture of the situation in all branches of the industry.

The present proposed price schedules become effective December 1, subject to such modifications as may be recommended by the petroleum board and approved by Secretary of the Interior Ickes. General regulations already have gone out. Today's supplemental regulations asking for detailed data pointed to an intention by the board to study the subject more closely and in some quarters was taken to indicate a possible modification.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Arrangements have been made for the sale of a New York Stock Exchange seat at $95,000, a decline of $5,000 from the last previous sale.

Today's price was the lowest since last April. The high this year was $250,000, recorded in June.

NEW CODE AIDE NAMED HERE

Creation of a one-man compliance board to temporarily supervise operations under Presidentially approved codes of fair competition in Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia was announced today by Wilson K. Ray, district manager of the United States Department of Commerce here. Local compliance boards will continue to handle all complaints, petitions covering firms and individuals under the blanket code.

Ray has been appointed district compliance director by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator.

Ray explained he will attempt to adjust the complaints and will refer those in which he is unsuccessful to the National Compliance Director in Washington. He pointed out that he is not a policing officer, but will strive to aid in the organization of industries under President approved codes until permanent code authorities are set up.

GIRL'S PAJAMAS MURDER CLUE

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Love letters and a pair of woman's blue silk pajamas today provided the only clues to the mysterious death of Walter E. Kleinert, who worked at the prosaic job of claim agent and played in Greenwich Village style.

Tucked behind the couch on which he was found with his hands and feet bound behind his back, police discovered the flimsy blood-stained pajamas.

In his apartment Kleinert held a cocktail hour nightly at nine. By the light of candles he and long-haired youths read poetry. These were quiet sessions, very serious.

On other nights there were women visitors, and then life was gayer, with considerable drinking and dancing.

Disabled Freighter Being Towed to Port

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—The freighter Steel Voyager, bound, bound from New York to Panama, was taken in tow by the Coast Guard Calypso today after she had lost her propeller eight miles off Brigantine Shoals buoy near Atlantic City, N. J.

The freighter, a vessel of 3,187 tons, left New York yesterday. A message to the Coast Guard here said she would be towed to Ambrose Channel, the entrance to New York harbor.

MENTION THE S

The Girl Who Won

By MAY CHRISTIE

CHAPTER XXI.

Tony O'Brien was off on his vacation!

As soon as fate—in the shape of Jinny Judson — had given Nollie his letter—fate had dashed an immediate meeting from the map!

"The office won't give me his address, nor will they even promise to forward letters. I'll say that's a funny arrangement."

Mrs. Judson was disgruntled over this denouement to the romance. She liked things "to move" . . .

"Maybe meeting you and then losing you has given him a nervous breakdown?" she suggested hopefully, "maybe he's under doctor's orders? Or maybe he's peeved?"

"Oh, no. He's bound to have forgotten our meeting by now."

"Why so? Don't have an inferiority complex."

But Mrs. Judson was erratic. Almost immediately she seemed to have lost interest in the romance.

But not in Nollie Day. She'd taken a fancy to the girl. She wanted to talk to someone sympathetic.

So she babbled of her trip abroad. She's had two offers of marriage, it transpired. One from a titled Frenchman.

"But he was only after my money, of course. Persistent as the dickens, just the same. He followed me all the way to Saint Juan in the south of France."

Came a vivid description of the life down there. And hectic doings on the shores of the Mediterranean.

"It's a gay life. Awfully expensive, of course, because the place is founded by and run for the Americans."

NOLLIE INTERESTED

A recital followed that consisted chiefly of gambling, flirting and drinking.

"We were all so blotto—I mean, lit—we scarcely saw the scenery, magnificent as it is—though we kept tearing round in high-powered cars. Dashing over to Cannes, and Monte Carlo, and to all kinds of restaurants and quaint rendezvous high up in the Alps Maritimes."

Nollie was intrigued by stories of far countries. She tried to thrust to the back of her mind all thoughts of this young O'Brien . . .

"There was the most fascinating restaurant called the 'Colombe d'Or'—way up in the mountains—"

It seemed the widow had gone there one night, deep in a flirtation with an Italian.

"Titled, too. But he was only playing with me. He thinks American women are good enough to flirt with, but he'd a girl back home in Milan he was going to marry."

This attitude had quite annoyed the widow. In her heart she had believed in the vast "drawing" power of her money.

"I like their manners, but they irritate me so—those foreigners!"

She told Nollie of all-night sessions in the baccarat rooms in the Casino.

"They play till 3 and 4 and 5 a. m. Millionaires from every country in the world. Princes, dukes and dark-skinned maharajahs from India."

Cosmopolitan this trip had been. Jinney felt herself one of what she called, airily (with a droll French accent) "le monde qui s'amuse."

"And you can imagine, there was a handsome young Scotsman in Saint Juan, who'd think nothing of losing a million at the baccarat tables in the Casino without turning a hair."

A COSTLY TRIP

It seemed that the volatile widow had lost considerably, herself. But she had chalked it all up to "a good time." It had not affected her.

"One's only young once. And I'm not so very young at that. I can spend my money any way I fancy."

Nollie couldn't help thinking of her own lost salary!

Out of a job was she! Well, life was incongruous!

The widow babbled on. All that she wanted was a good listener.

"We'd drive in the dawn to Cannes, and have another flutter at the tables. Then out on someone's yacht . . . and finish the night with a swift party."

Nollie considered this. After all, what had Mrs. Judson really got out of her holiday?

A depleted pocket-book! Health not improved . . . she looked quite thin and pale! And a new set of hangers-on and toadiers.

* * *

"Look here, my dear, I've been boring you for a solid hour and I want to do something for you, besides handing you this letter from the admirer who's inopportunely away on his vacation. I like you, and I'd like to give you some sort of a job."

"That's very kind of you, Mrs. Judson," said Nollie shyly. She thought that this interest was merely "a mood."

TO WRITE BOOK

Jinny Judson considered a minute.

"I plan to go right up to my ranch and rest after my hectic trip abroad."

"Yes?"

"And why wouldn't you come with me? There's an idea! Couldn't you be—what's the expression?—my social secretary?"

Nollie said truthfully—"I want to be fair to you. I don't know anything about housekeeping."

"Well, I have a competent housekeeper, anyhow," admitted Jinny Judson. "But—stop a minute—I just remembered that I plan to write a book and you'd certainly come in useful with the typewriting."

"A book?"

"Yes. A novel that's going to take its leading characters from LIFE. It'll be a scorcher for some of the women."

"How do you mean?"

Mrs. Judson smiled enigmatically.

"Don't you know it's the height of fashion to write one's autobiography and to make it as indiscreet as possible?"

"I read that somewhere."

"Well, I'm going to put all the cats into a novel. Sort of just thinly veiled so they and others can recognize themselves—"

"You would? But if you said anything they didn't like, wouldn't that be libellous?"

"Who cares? A case drags on for 20 years in the courts of the good old U. S. A. And, anyhow, we'd all get a big kick out of it."

Nollie laughed gaily. She was intrigued.

"You think you could dictate this book to me?"

"Why not? We'd get it published in the autumn."

"We'd work up on your ranch?"

"Yes. It's near the Canadian border and it's cool up there. I've lots of visitors. You'd help me in all sorts of ways. You'd have a good time."

Synopsis

Nollie Day, stenographer at an exclusive hotel, is befriended by wealthy Mrs. Judson, a widow. Nollie goes to a theater in place of Mrs. Judson, where she meets handsome Tony O'Brien. She reveals her own identity but Tony does not hear her. Next day, Tony telephones and learns Mrs. Judson has gone abroad. Nollie wants to clear her identity, but is unable to get in touch with Tony. Nollie secures a new position as secretary to Jack Brilling, of Galbraith & Co. Miss Galbraith, Brilling's fiancee, is jealous and warns Nollie. Mrs. Judson returns and gives Nollie a letter Tony had written her abroad. Intending to help Nollie and set the matter straight, she phones Tony to learn he has left on a vacation.

Now Go On

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

When friends come to visit you are you "on the go" all the time?

Especially when your guests are elderly people, you should bear in mind that too much active entertaining may be wearisome rather than agreeable to them.

Your car may be easy riding and you a careful driver but all elderly guests do not care for riding and some would prefer the quiet of your home.

You may be enthusiastic to show the "out-of-towners" the improvements and advantages of your civic location and environment.

You take pride in showing off these beauty spots to guests.

But you should not make your guests uncomfortable by insisting that they visit certain sections before they leave your city.

Elderly persons, especially from small cities and villages, are not very keen about driving in congested districts—much traffic unnerve them.

Night driving is another feature they cannot enjoy to any great extent.

And most elderly people like to take a little nap in the afternoon.

Without making it apparent that you are planning for them to enjoy that privilege give them an opportunity to do so.

As a matter of fact, it should become a habit with any housekeeper who can, to rest in quiet for a half hour or less after lunch; guests, too, enjoy it.

GEN. SHERMAN'S "MARCH TO THE SEA" (Nov. 16-Dec. 20, 1864)

Gen. Grant, appointed commander in chief for the North (March, 1864), took charge of the army of the Potomac facing Gen. Lee. Gen. Sherman, commanding the U. S. Mississippi divisions, forced the Confederates, under Gen. Johnston to Atlanta, Ga., took the city September 2 and started his "March to the Sea," feeding about 60,000 men on the fat of the land, a destructive measure for military and punitive reasons. From Savannah, Ga., Sherman moved north, protected by the co-operating Navy.

Meanwhile the Confederates again invaded Tennessee, but were defeated by Gen. Thomas at Nashville, December 15-16, 1864. (U. S. History)

POPULACE OF SARAGOSSA DEFENDS THE CITY AGAINST FRENCH (1809)

Napoleon I, French Emperor forced Ferdinand VII, King of Spain, to withdraw in favor of his father, Charles VI, who then ceded his rights for a consideration to Napoleon I. Josef Bonaparte was appointed King of Spain by his brother (1808). The Spanish people resented the deal, fought valiantly with British help against the French who were finally compelled to withdraw (1814), Ferdinand VII again becoming King of Spain. The City of Saragossa made a most heroic defense (1808-1809) with almost every house a separate fortress. (World History)

LEBLANC SODA PROCESS (Chemistry)

The LeBlanc process was famous a century ago until surpassed by the more economical Solvay process. Sulphuric acid by chamber process (Pict. Education, Oct. 7) is heated with salt, yielding salt-cake and hydrochloric acid as by-product: $2NaCl + H_2SO_4 = Na_2SO_4 + 2HCl$. The salt cake is heated with coal slack and limestone and obtained black-ash, a mixture of sodium carbonate, calcium sulphide, carbon and impurities: $Na_2SO_4 + 2C = Na_2S + 2CO_2$ and $Na_2S + CaCO_3 = Na_2CO_3 + CaS$. Above: A revolving black-ash furnace.

Formerly soda was washed out from black-ash, but now it is converted into caustic soda by lixiviating with water and running the liquor into a causticiser (right). This holds CaO in an iron cage, dipping into the liquor; the stirrer is started and steam is blown in. Reaction: $Na_2CO_3 + Ca(OH)_2 = CaCO_3 + 2NaOH$ (caustic soda solution, the final product).

CLAUDIO SPURNS HERO AT THE ALTAR

Praise may turn hatred into love, denunciation has the reverse effect; wickedness betrays itself. Shakespeare demonstrates this in his delightful comedy, "Much Ado About Nothing."

Hero becomes the fiancee of Claudio, her cousin Beatrice enjoys verbal duels with Benedick. Don Pedro tricks this apparently hating pair into sympathy. Each then tries to outplease the other.

Don John falsely accuses Hero, who is spurned before the altar. She collapses.

A guard overhears, unveils plotters. Claudio in his remorse is ready to accept any punishment. He is sentenced to marry a girl next day without seeing her. Finding in the masked unknown bride the beloved Hero, his despair turns to happiness. Beatrice and Benedick also are married, of course. (Engl. Literature)

SOME DANGEROUS BACTERIA (Gen. Science)

Infections may occur by contact with excreta, with discharge and sputum of a patient; by transmission of those to foods through insects, rodents; through unsanitary handling, polluted drinking water, etc.

Tetanus is common in normal excreta of herbivorous animals and man. This infects the soil, dust. It enters the body through slightest scratch, causing fatal lock-jaw if not checked by antitoxin injection within a few hours. This should always be administered when a wound has come in contact even indirectly with soil. Some advanced cases have been helped by intraspinal injection of antitoxin (left).

One Country, One Flag, One Breakfast

Doctor tells us we now have our choice of almost 200 different kinds of breakfast foods.

"There was a time," said the good old doctor while subtracting his golf score, "when a man thought oatmeal was a meal. He would stoke up on the prairie berries and walk to work very fast."

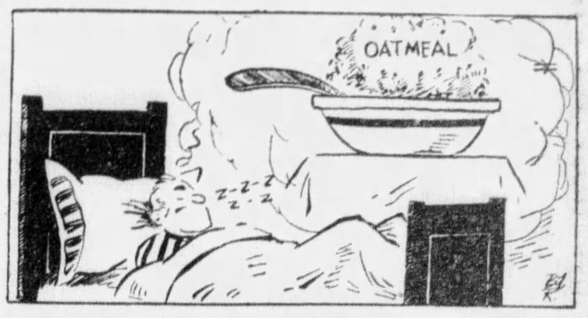
We remember those oatmeal breakfasts of 1895 and we resent them with every fiber in our mental burlap.

At the risk of calling the doctor an expert we deny there ever was a time when oatmeal constituted a free and equal breakfast.

We would just as soon nibble camel's hair in the Sahara or gargle the pebbles that made Demosthenes a great orator.

We can look back through the knothole in the calendar and remember that soggy mess of oatmeal drenched sparingly in pale, blue milk.

That was when we had to make the decision of a lifetime. Should we put our one spoonful of sugar in the coffee or sprinkle it over the oatmeal? Many's the time we ate the spoonful of sugar and let the coffee and the oatmeal go.



Added to that breakfast was a sinker. The sinker was made of dough baked in a porous oven. Sinking your teeth in it was like snapping at a quoit.

The reaction is a wide swing in the opposite direction. If there are 200 different brands of breakfast fodder we will take 100 every morning.

We haven't tasted oatmeal in 25 years, morning, noon or night. We wish there were six meals a day so we could skip it twice as much.

That proves we hate oatmeal. For we will eat anything to get the strawberries and cream.

But not oatmeal. If any man walks fast to his work on that he must be a waffle taster in a lunch wagon.

Everything has improved about breakfasts except the alcoves.

And even though we subsisted on oatmeal in the years that are past paging we at least had room to swing our elbows.

If we can get 36 states to repeal the breakfast alcove we will feel that we have not eaten our historic oatmeal in vain.

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER

Candidates for Council

The Democrats Are More Eager Than the Republicans To Make Certain Reforms.

Citizens who read the Councilmanic candidates' answers to the Sun-Telegraph's questions were enlightened. They will be able to vote more intelligently.

The questions dealt with important matters of public policy, and the answers were published yesterday and Tuesday. They showed sharp division between the Democrats and the Republicans on several vital issues.

All of the candidates answered the questions except George S. Oliver, and we take this opportunity of thanking them. Mr. Oliver courteously declined to commit himself or to express an opinion on any of the issues.

Ex-Mayor William A. Magee is a candidate for Council on both the Republican and Democratic tickets. But he is an independent Republican and it is significant that his point of view is that of the Democrats rather than of the Regular Republicans.

The answers show the Democrats eager to make changes, and the Republicans reluctant or opposed.

There is one matter in respect to which scant encouragement can be found in the statements of either the Republicans or the Democrats, and that is the possibility of a decrease in the city tax rate. The Democrats are generally of the opinion, however, that there is no necessity for an increase.

The Democrats without exception are in favor of taxing the real estate of public utilities. The Republicans present reasons why it should not be done, as, for example, W. Y. English's remark that the utilities companies would pass the tax on to the public.

Notwithstanding the evidence that the one-year garbage contract discourages competitive bidding and results in a virtual monopoly, the Republicans are in favor of its retention. The Democrats all favor a long-term contract.

The Democrats are in favor of housing legislation that will permit the eradication of the slums. The Republican candidates are sympathetic, but Harry A. Little would be unwilling to have the city assume any financial obligation in connection with the project.

The Democrats in the main are in favor of consolidating the city and county tax assessment boards and welfare departments. The Republicans are dubious about it, although admitting that city and county real estate valuations and assessments should be uniform.

The Democrats take the position that utilities rates are high or that there is justification for an inquiry by experts to determine whether or not they are reasonable. The Republicans are inclined to think there is nothing to be done about it.

The Democrats are in favor of extending the graded tax law to the county or the school districts or both. The Republicans are opposed.

The Democrats' position is on the whole more progressive.

Accept This Invitation

Parents Are Urged by Dr. Ben G. Graham to Visit the Public Schools Next Week.

The public schools of Pittsburgh are under attack.

There are elements in the population who object to the spending of the public funds on any but the rudiments of education. They consider other courses unnecessary "frills."

To this the answer is that the purpose of education is not merely to teach the pupils to read, write and cipher, not merely to give them instruction that will help them to earn a living; it aims also to broaden their outlook so that life will be more enjoyable.

Parents and taxpayers in general would do well to look into this question, and fortunately an opportunity is now at hand.

Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of city schools, invites the people to visit the schools next week—"American Education Week"—and see for themselves what is being taught, and how and why it is being taught.

The Sun-Telegraph believes that if every taxpayer were to accept this invitation less fault would be found with the schools.

The Decline in Building

Conditions in Pittsburgh Support the Views of 'The American Architect.'

The views of the American Architect magazine in regard to the urgent need of a building revival are supported by conditions in Pittsburgh.

The Department of Labor and Industry at Harrisburg reports that during the first nine months of 1933 building operations in Pittsburgh involved total expenditures $2,187,181, or 49.7 per cent under the figures for the corresponding figures for 1932. And goodness only knows last year was not a big one in the building industry here.

There is undoubtedly a shortage of houses. Many families are "doubling up."

If capital were provided, the way would be open for a local building boom which would go a long way towards reviving dormant industries and relieving unemployment, while at the same time improving social conditions.

Missiles From the Sky

Shooting Stars Have Capacity for Mischief, but There Is No Need to Worry.

The Bureau of Topographic and Geologic Survey at Harrisburg furnishes an awe-inspiring thought in a current news release.

At any hour of the day or night it is theoretically possible that a mass of iron may hurtle upon us from the heavens.

Five meteorites have been found in Pennsylvania, the first near Pittsburgh in 1850, the last near New Baltimore, Somerset County, in 1922. One located near Gettysburg in 1887 weighed 847 pounds and was the largest found east of the Mississippi.

It is comforting to know that meteorites almost never strike anyone.

Out With Them!

Federal law enforcement—directed at crime of every kind, not merely at technical Federal offenses—has commenced.

It has proved itself. It must be continued. And it must be extended.

A few days ago, Warden Lawes, of Sing Sing Prison, was asked:

And Warden Lawes, one of the nation's foremost penologists, replied unhesitatingly:

"Positively, yes. The closer supervision of the laws of the United States would curb the criminal . . . The Federal arm is more potent than local authority. Federal action is quicker, surer, more impersonal, and the unholy alliance between crime and politics has not been charged against the Federal judiciary."

Warden Lawes was also asked:

"What would you recommend to curb racketeering?"

And Warden Lawes answered:

"Federal jurisdiction, and Federal jurisdiction exclusively, for the reasons given in answer to the question regarding closer supervision of Federal laws."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Theodore Roosevelt II seems matured and agreeably seasoned by knocking around the world. He has lost what to many was a bantam bravado and cocksureness, coming back to town quietly from his Philippine post and slipping into semi-obscurity.

To intimates he is "The Little Colonel" and when occasion demands has much of his sire's flair for fiery forensics. His most amazing experience was in the wilds of Afghanistan, where he was received by the swarthy Hill Tribes of whom Kipling so delightfully wrote.

He found them in cutaways and other Bond street swank, alighting from their airplane, turning on the radio, asking their butlers to shake up cocktails and discussing Hitler and Babe Ruth in Oxford accents. He saw flivvers driven by mad mullahs in derbies who consulted wrist watches.

At a Persian banquet it was regretted the young Aga Ben Hassan, fastest stepper in all Teheran, as absent. It appeared he had renounced social activities since he shot his mother. "But," sighed a friend, "he will get over it when proper time of lamentation passes."

The Washington Square intelligentsia are in hot debate again as to whether Shakespeare wrote his famous works. Leading the cons are Oliver Herford and Joseph Auslander. They are firm in their opinion that Edward de Vere, seventeenth Earl of Oxford, is the real author.

The East Side's Laurel and Hardy are "Wireless Louie" Zeltner and "Stitch" McCarthy. They present a human comedy only the sidewalks of the Ghetto could spawn. Zeltner is a news-tipster who brings his hot ones to the office instead of telephoning, and it was Frank O'Malley who bestowed the "Wireless." "Stitch" is a cross-eyed bail bondsman, a sallow, little twisted man Zeltner, a six-footer, calls a "human pretzel." Adding: "Even his eyes are tangled."

Among earnest students of Dickens in America is Roy L. McCardell, jack of all literary trades and a master of several. He read all of Dickens by the time he was 15 and has re-read him dozens of times since. Nobody can mention a line of Dickens that McCardell cannot finish or the beginning of an incident he cannot repeat to the finish. Oddly enough his favorite book of the moderns is "Jurgen."

One of the high spots of slummers is a place called "Cohen's" in the jumble of Hester street, nearest in alcoholic depravity to "The Doctor's," whose "third rail" libations and rear flop room were part of Park Row so long. The slummer for $2 can set-'em-up to the house at Cohen's, and, like those wiggly things that squirm up from an old lifted rock, the room will fill. The lips of regulars are blistered from drinking unadulterated hell-fire called "Bowery smoke." Three shots and drinkers stiffen, dead to the world.

Lingual brevity of moderns is employed in their most breathless moments. On the steps of the Biltmore a young couple gazing in mutual admiration while a cab waited. "Oke—or—" he hesitated. "Oke," she said and as they jumped into the taxi he said to the driver: "Marriage license bureau."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

They Never Had "Any Good Old Days"

All of us sighing over "the good old days"—rejoicing over the prospect of them coming back.

"Then how swell everything will be!" we say to each other. "Like it was back in the grand old 1920's. Lotsa parties. Classy clothes. Keen cars. Everybody going places and doing things again."

Nice picture. And we really believe it. We really believe that life was like that for all—or at any rate, most Americans before this depression. But it wasn't. And it's time that we realized the plain, unpleasant truth. Which is?

WHICH IS SIMPLY THIS—MILLIONS OF AMERICANS NEVER HAD ANY "GOOD OLD DAYS."

We've boasted so long that this is the Land of the Free, the "place where every man has a square deal," that we've come to think it's so. But it isn't so. It never has been so.

GENERATION AFTER GENERATION OF PEOPLE HAVE BEEN BORN, HAVE LABORED, HAVE DIED IN THIS BEAUTIFUL, POWERFUL, RICH COUNTRY, WITHOUT EVER KNOWING THE COMMON DECENCIES OF LIFE, MUCH LESS COMFORT OR LUXURY.

Nor is this the record of the shiftless, the stupid, the criminal or the hopelessly alien classes. It is the record of honest, kindly, hard-working citizens, many of them 100 per cent American stock, who have given themselves to the limit of their ability. Yet year after year, generation after generation, these people have been unable to advance beyond the treadmill in which they were born.

Times are tough for you now, yet you have proud memories to console you, bright hopes to stimulate you. But they have neither memories nor hopes. Neither they nor their children, nor their fathers before them, have ever known what it was to enjoy our muchly advertised "American standard of living."

They never lived in their own homes. They never had bank accounts. They never had good food, or enough food. They never had decent clothes, warm, new overcoats, well-fitted shoes. They have never been able to afford proper dental or medical services.

They have always clung, barely existing, to the ragged margin of life, without time or opportunity to rest or play, grieve or rejoice, hope or dream, question or rebel.

Why was this?

SIMPLY BECAUSE THEY COULDN'T BUCK THE SYSTEM.

They couldn't buck the organized selfishness and stupidity, indifference and injustice of a country which calls itself a democracy but which is, in reality, a closed corporation for the benefit of the powerful and privileged.

This isn't agitator talk—socialistic ranting—communistic propaganda. It is the simple, sad truth about America as it is. We have ducked and denied these facts. We have known that such conditions existed in all other countries, but we would'nt admit—most of us haven't dreamed—that they existed in America.

And we pish-tushed, snubbed, persecuted and imprisoned anyone who dared produce proof that they did! But we dare not any longer doubt or deny—

FOR NOW THE PROOF IS HURLING ITSELF UPON US LIKE A TIDAL WAVE.

Why are we in the mess we are in today? Not because the market crashed four years ago. Not because we had a war 15 years ago.

WE ARE IN THIS MESS BECAUSE INCREASING MILLIONS OF OUR PEOPLE HAVE BEEN LIVING IN ABJECT MISERY FOR THE LAST HUNDRED YEARS—BECAUSE INJUSTICE HAS MOUNTED AND OPPRESSION HAS SPREAD UNTIL THE VERY FOUNDATIONS OF OUR NATIONAL LIFE ARE SHAKING.

Today strikes spread like a pestilence throughout the land. Why are these strikers so frantic, sometimes so unreasonable? Their wages aren't any worse than they've always been. Sometimes they are even better. But these men aren't striking merely because they haven't the breaks now. THEY'RE STRIKING BECAUSE THEY'VE NEVER HAD THE BREAKS.

GENERATIONS OF HOPELESS DRUDGERY, BITTER DEGRADATION LIE BEHIND THEIR REVOLT. WHY SHOULD THEY FEAR BLOODSHED? ANYTHING IS BETTER THAN THE HOPELESS DREARINESS OF THE LIFE WHICH LIES BEHIND THEM.

The Golden Rule isn't a Sunday school text—a Pollyanna slogan. It is a grim, working law which may not be broken. If we DON'T do unto the other fellow as we'd have him to do unto us, we'll all go to smash together in the same basket.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

The Lock in Wedlock

A wife's jealousy of the girl who is flirting with her impressionable husband is always softened by the thought that there is another woman as weak-minded as she was.

* * *

The old-fashioned woman was content to be just ONE wife to a man; but, nowadays a woman wants to me a man's whole harem—his playmate, soulmate and yokemate—which is too big a job for any woman.

* * *

Only married men are safe. A bachelor, like a car with nobody at the wheel, is apt to careen into anything, from a breach-of-promise suit to an accidental marriage.

* * *

When a man marries his private secretary, she merely stops inventing his alibis for him—and begins listening to them.

* * *

Some of those titled husbands are like guest towels—not a bit of use in the world except to show off to other women.

The great sex-problem, today, is the problem of how to induce novelists and playwrights to stop WRITING so much about it. Sex, like food, is a vital part of life—but you don't care to read a cookbook every evening.

* * *

Love is a telescope through which a girl sees all a man's charms and virtues highly glorified; marriage is a microscope, through which she sees all his flaws and shortcomings highly magnified.

* * *

You can safely let a man feel that he is admired, that he is appreciated, and sometimes that he is loved—but never that he is indispensable.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

America

America, America,
How dear your name to me,
Who love your every hill and plain
From sea to singing sea!
In happier days, like some glad child
Within his mother's arms,
I gave small thought to all you meant
Of virtues and of charms;
I only knew that I was safe
Within your loved embrace,
Fear cast no dark wings' shadows there
Upon that sacred place.

But, ah! America, today
When clouds are on your path
And specters fierce around you rise
With threats of woe and wrath
At last I know, I understand
(O noblest land on earth!)
America, America,
Your glory and your worth!

U.S. Must Move Warily In Recognizing Russia

By James T. Williams, Jr.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has taken the initiative in a joint effort which Washington and Moscow will make to end what Mr. Roosevelt describes as "the present abnormal relations between the 125,000,000 people of the United States and the 160,000,000 people of Russia."

At Mr. Roosevelt's invitation Mr. Kalinin, president of the All Union Central Executive Committee, is sending to the Federal City as his representative Mr. Litvinoff, the Russian Commissar for Foreign Affairs, in the hope that the two countries may again find "a practical method of communicating directly with each other."

Under the American system of government the President possesses, in the conduct of foreign relations, an unfettered initiative. This includes untrammeled power regarding the recognition of foreign governments. But in the exercise of this power public sentiment can not be wholly disregarded.

This is among the reasons why President Roosevelt is approaching the problem of Russian recognition in a most deliberate and circumspect manner.

Not Blind to The Difficulties

EVER since he was elected President Mr. Roosevelt has looked forward to the day when changes in the internal state of affairs of Russia would make it feasible to put that county and the United States again in direct communication with each other. But he is far from being blind, even now, to the difficulties which must be surmounted before this can be done.

To the end that he may have a free hand and make whatever conditions he believes to be essential from an American point of view to resumption of normal diplomatic relations with Russia Mr. Roosevelt addressed his initial message to Moscow not through the Department of State, but directly to the head of the Moscow Government. This was, of course, no reflection upon Secretary Hull or any other State Department official. It was only the prudent way of beginning conversations with the Russian authorities.

Had Mr. Roosevelt sent his message through the regular diplomatic channels the Russians might well have insisted that such an act constituted recognition under international law and called for an immediate exchange of ambassadors.

As the matter now stands Mr. Roosevelt will begin his conversations with Mr. Litvinoff, the Russian Commissar for Foreign Affairs, without commitment. What happens after that depends upon the assurances concerning Russia's future course which Mr. Roosevelt's Russian visitor will be authorized to offer.

Meantime, the advocates of Russian recognition have resorted to a ballyhoo campaign about the millions or the billions in trade with Russia which recognition will bring to the United States. The two countries have been trading for some time.

Trade Not Main Question at Issue

TRADE between the two countries might be stimulated in the event that recognition should be followed by a commercial treaty mutually advantageous. But trade is by no means the main question at issue.

Refusal to recognize the present Russian government was a Democratic decision made by a Democratic President with the overwhelming approval of the American people at that time. This refusal was made in a note by President Wilson's Secretary of State, Bainbridge Colby, dated August 10, 1920. The policy then enunciated had been adhered to by succeeding Republican administrations. The principles upon which Mr. Wilson refused recognition were the basis of the refusal of recognition under the administrations of Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover.

These principles were reaffirmed in a message to Congress which President Coolidge sent on December 6, 1923, in which he said recognition would be granted:

"Whenever there appears any disposition to compensate our citizens who were despoiled, and to recognize the debt contracted with our government, not by the Czar, but by the newly formed Republic of Russia; whenever the active spirit of enmity to our institutions is abated."

The Russian debt has never been the real stumbling block to recognition. The obstacle to recognition has been the unwillingness of the Russian government to pledge itself to "refrain from revolutionary activity in the United States" against the government at Washington.

When, as and if Moscow is ready to make such a pledge with the intention of keeping it the road ahead for the restoration of normal diplomatic relations with Russia will be clear.

The Palace of the Louvre and the Victory of Samothrace. U. S. Embassy Is Removed

By Edwin C. Hill

ONCE again carpenters and masons are at work in the Palace of the Louvre, in Paris, the largest and most magnificent palace in the world. For eight hundred years the Louvre has been the home of emperors and kings and it now shelters the greatest art collection in existence. Millions of tourists from all parts of the world have wandered through its maze of galleries, in awe-stricken silence at the marvels assembled there.

But that silence is now broken by the clatter of hammer and saw, for scaffolding is being erected around the main stairway and the renowned Victory of Samothrace, the finest extant piece of early Greek sculpture. It was executed in memory of a naval victory more than 2,200 years ago.

The statue, which stands at the head of the stairway, represents the goddess on the prow of a vessel, sounding the signal for battle on her trumpet. And although much mutilated, the dignity of conception of the work causes visitors to stand—as I have stood—in mute admiration for an hour at a time. Soon the workers will disappear, when the great staircase has been reconstructed, and Victory will resume her position at the top landing.

Philip Augustus Built Castle There

BUT the palace itself is used to reconstruction ever since the day, in the twelfth century, when Philip Augustus erected his first castle there. Of that first medieval construction, however, there is nothing left today but a white line, traced through the main court and indicating where it once stood.

Charles the Fifth, it was, who first turned the Louvre into a real royal residence, transferring there his treasury and library. Francis the First tore down the tower and modernized the chateau. For still further improvements, Henri the Second retained the greatest architect of the French Renaissance, Pierre Lescot, and his widow, Catherine de Medici, continued to alter the place to suit her royal fancy. Henri the Fourth added a second story and other additions were ordered by Louis the Thirteenth.

The great colonnade, consisting of 28 Corinthian columns in pairs, was conceived by artists in the pay of Louis the Fourteenth. But it remained for the great Napoleon to order a complete restoration of the Louvre, a work which was interrupted only by his fall from power. As it stands today, it is three times the size of the Vatican in Rome, including St. Peter's.

And all of these monarchs added, by conquest or by purchase, to the marvelous art treasures which are there today. Napoleon, of course, was one of the chief contributors, when his victorious armies returned to Paris from the scenes of their victories, laden with treasures. Many were restored to their original owners, but so many fine statues and paintings remained that the Louvre can still boast of the greatest of all collections of art.

U. S. Embassy In Paris Removed

A TEN-LINE item in the news announces the removal of the United States Embassy in Paris to its new home at the northwest corner of the Place de la Concorde. The site cost over $1,000,000, and the new building cost many thousands more. But with these figures, the news item fails to state that the new embassy has been erected in accordance with plans originally drawn 175 years ago by Ange-Jacques Gabriel, court architect to Louis XV, who designed all the other buildings which front upon the Place.

And the Place de la Concorde, upon which it stands, is one of the world's most historic, beautiful and extensive squares. From the landscaped terrace laid out in front of the building, American visitors to Paris will be able to look out upon the execution ground of the French Revolution, where the guillotine did its terrible work during the period of Terror, when the tumbrils brought every day their load of men and women condemned to die.

Nearly 3,000 persons perished there. Louis XVI was executed on the Place, and Marie Antoinette, Charlotte Corday and the Duke of Orleans, Danton and his followers, Camille Desmoulins and his wife, the atheists Chaumette and Cloots, Madame Elizabeth, sister of Louis XVI, the poet Andre Chenier, and the blood-stained monster, Robespierre. The action of the terrible death-dealing machine, the guillotine, was so mechanically perfect that often 50 persons were executed in as many minutes.

The Place, which only a few years before had been a desert, was selected by Louis XV as the site of an equestrian statue of himself. But with the outbreak of the Revolution, the statue was quickly torn down and the square was given the name of Place de la Revolution. Two years later, it received its present name.

The aspect of the square has, of course, greatly changed since the revolutionary period, but the facades of the original buildings fronting on it still remain. The obelisk which rises in its center came from the great Temple of Luxor, in Upper Egypt, where it was erected by Rameses II thousands of years ago. Fountains constructed around it, which now are the center of a magnificent electrical display at night, were dedicated to the seas and the rivers of France. And around the Place, rise lofty statues representing the principal cities of the modern republic.

The Place today is the center of fashionable Paris and the starting point of the world's most beautiful avenue, the Champs Elysees. A fascinating spot, not only for its thrilling history but for magnificent beauty.
